D., Demonstrator of Clinical Medicine in the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Chief of Medical Clinic, Jefferson Medical College Hospital; Hematologist to the German Hospital, etc. Second Edition, Revised and Enlarged by 117 pages. With 9 Colored Plates, 3 Charts, and 64 other Illustrations. Octavo; 591 pages. Cloth, $5.00; Sheep or Half Morocco, $6.00.

"The author's aim has been to recount the salient facts of hæmatology as they are understood at the present time, to correlate certain of these facts with familiar pictures of disease, and to apply them to medical and surgical diagnosis. When new measures of clinical diagnosis are introduced there is often a great tendency to exaggerate their power and scope. Dr. DaCosta, however, has simply endeavored to interpret the 'blood report' according to its true value as a clinical sign, neither exploiting it as a panacea for every diagnostic ill nor belittling it because of its failure to give the sought-for clue in every instance."—The Lancet, London.

In several respects the text is more complete than in most of the smaller works on the subject. "The subtitle of this eminently practical and well arranged textbook is hardly sufficiently descriptive of its scope; for it is one which can be used for reference, especially with regard to formulas and methods of examination, in a way that is impossible with most books which deal with the old but ever new and many sided subject of physiological chemistry."—New York Medical Journal.

These works form a complete, modern treatise on Diseases of the Digestive Tract. The subject is covered thoroughly, systematically, and accurately, by an author of well-known reputation and ability. The results of recent investigations, by which so much progress has been made in the pathology, diagnosis, and medical and surgical treatment of disorders of the digestive tract, make their issue at this time of particular importance. They are handsomely illustrated, are exhaustive, and are written for the general practitioner, taking into special consideration American habits of living, diet, and climate. Very gratifying to students of these works will be the detailed directions as to METHODS OF TREATMENT, especially in regard to the diet in the various diseases considered, and which in gastro-intestinal affections is the key-note to effective prophylaxis and to successful treatment. Each of the three volumes is provided with two complete indexes, one of subjects treated in the work, the other of authors from whose writings quotations have been taken. These indexes are augmented, in turn, by an exhaustive series of bibliographical references and acknowledgments which follow many of the more important chapters.

"Especial attention is given in this book, which we believe is the first American book on the subject, to the diseases peculiar to the tropical lands under the flag of the United States. Credit is given to American physicians for the large amount of work which they have done in studying them. The subject of tropical medicine is of interest to all physicians who wish to keep abreast of the progress of medicine, for it is in this field that many of the most recent and most interesting discoveries have been made. Moreover, it is of interest, for certain of these diseases are likely at any time to be brought to our own shores and those living in the large seaports must be on the watch for such importations. Even in the center of our continent we have seen several of these, to us, rare diseases, among sailors, soldiers and the families of missionaries. * * * The book is clearly and simply written and is interesting, and its teaching is practical."—Journal of the American Medical Association.

For the first time in the history of the book American anatomists have been asked to contribute original articles and to rewrite and revise sections. The book has thus become international in character; of wider view; and, of greater usefulness to all English-speaking students.

The illustrations for this new edition have been drawn, selected and prepared with consideration and care. The publishers, recognizing that this is one of the most important features of the book, have co-operated with the editors and contributors in an effort (First) to exclude those appearing in former editions, which, though of great excellence, did not entirely serve their purpose; (Second) to include new pictures not only to replace the old, but to more thoroughly illustrate the text and increase its teaching value.

Containing 1025 Illustrations of which 319 are in Colors.
One Handsome Octavo Volume. Cloth, $6.00; Sheep or Half Morocco, $7.00

From The Journal of the American Medical Association:

"The new edition must be welcomed as one of the most valuable text-books on this important subject."

From The New York Medical Journal:

"Probably the most striking feature of the work is the number, excellence and value of the illustrations and the freedom with which colored plates have been used in the body of the text."

EACH MAIN DIVISION INDICATED BY A THUMB INDEX

Including Special Therapeutics of Diseases and Symptoms, the Physiological Action of Drugs. The Modern Materia Medica, Official and Practical Pharmacy, Minute Directions for Prescription Writing, Incompatibility, etc., also the Antidotal and Antagonistic Treatment of Poisoning and over 650 Prescriptions and Formulæ. Eleventh Edition. Octavo; 937 pages. Cloth, $5.00; Leather, $6.00, or Half Morocco, $6.50 net.

A comparison of the Index of this edition of Potter with the Indexes of three other prominent works covering the same subjects, showed that Potter's book indexes 3683 drugs, poisons, etc., the first compared book, 1347, the second, 1300, the third 1239,—Potter thus exceeding by 2336 subjects the nearest competing book! This comparison demonstrates the broad inclusion of essential matter in Potter's book, and proves its great superiority as a reference work.

INTRODUCTION.—Definition, Scope and Explanation of such terms as Drugs, Pharmacology. Pharmacy, Materia Medica, Therapeutics, etc. Constituents of Organic Drugs, Classification of Medicines, Administration of Medicines, Dosage. The section on classification is particularly to be commended to students who wish to obtain a concise yet exhaustive knowledge of this very important subject and to physicians who desire to refer to a compendious yet brief article on the physiological action of various groups of agents.

PART I.—MATERIA MEDICA and THERAPEUTICS, the agents being arranged in alphabetical order, with the synonyms of each first; followed by their origin and description, preparations and compounds, official and unofficial, physiological action, antagonists and incompatibles, and lastly their Therapeutics. This section includes articles on Antitoxins and Toxins.

PART II.—PHARMACY AND PRESCRIPTION WRITING. Written more especially for the use of students and physicians. It includes—Weights and Measures, English and the Metric Systems. Specific Gravity and Volume. Prescriptions—Their principles and combinations; proper methods of writing them; abbreviations used, etc. Incompatibility, Pharmaceutical and Therapeutical. Extemporaneous Pharmacy; Official Pharmacy, Pharmaceutical Preparations, etc.

PART III.—SPECIAL THERAPEUTICS, an alphabetical List of Diseases—a real INDEX OF DISEASES consisting of 267 pages, giving the drugs that have been found serviceable in each disease, and the authority recommending the use of each,—a very important feature, as it gives an authoritative character to the book that is unusual in works on Therapeutics, and displays an immense amount of research on the part of the author. Upwards of 650 prescriptions are given, many being over the names of eminent men. This section includes articles on Poisoning, Temperature in Disease, Clinical Examination of Urine, etc.

THE APPENDIX contains lists of Latin words, phrases and abbreviations, with their English equivalents, used in Prescriptions; Genitive Case Endings, etc.; Formulæ for Hypodermic Injections; Tables of Differential Diagnosis; Table showing the number of drops in a fluidrachm of various liquids and the weight of one fluidrachm in grains, and a table for converting apothecaries' weights and measures into grams. Pasted inside the front and back covers are useful tables of Equivalents of Weights and Measures and Prescription Doses and Quantities.

THE INDEX consists of 37 double-column pages, and is most minute in each detail; cross-references being avoided as far as possible. The common as well as the scientific terms are given in many instances in order to meet the requirements of quick reference.

The idea is audacious and captivating. For every boy and girl this is a dear delicious book of pure fun, rare tales and bully pictures.

Of this delightful series the Albany Times-Union says: "There is positively no living writer of fairy tales who comes quite so near the children's hearts as L. Frank Baum. His books are down-to-date fairy stories, very different from those that pleased past generations; their illustrations are by talented and popular artists; many of the type pages are printed in two gay colors, and in every way they are designed to open wide the eyes of little people in astonishment and intense delight. They deserve limitless praise."

EGBIE. The Fall of the Curtain.

By Harold Begbie. Frontispiece by C. Allan Gilbert. 12mo, cloth. Postage 12c, net, $1.25

The purpose of this brilliant and penetrating story of modern English life is to show that a human being, well brought-up, carefully trained in the outward observances of religion, with a keen intellectual perception of the difference between right and wrong, may still not have goodness, and that selfish ambition may easily become the dominating force in such a character. So the book may be called a purpose novel, but in reading it one no more thinks of applying so discredited an epithet to it than one would think of applying it to "Vanity Fair." The author possesses an admirable style, clear, unaffected, strong.

ELLINGER. The Stolen Singer.

By Martha Bellinger. Illustrated by Arthur William Brown. 12mo, cloth....net, $1.25

The Stolen Singer does not depend for its interest merely on its suspense, though this is excellently held until the final chapter, nor on its puzzle, though this is most aptly contrived to checkmate the reader's fancied solutions. Seldom indeed are so many strands of interest woven together in one brave yarn—mystery, love, adventure on the high seas, the fine romantic enterprise of youth, old-world excitement disturbing the quiet of a quaint New England town, danger and humor hand in hand, and death narrowly but blissfully escaped.

LAKE. Hearts' Haven.

By Katharine Evans Blake. Illustrated by E. M. Ashe. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The author of this beautiful story maintains that the love of a man for a maid and the love of a parent for a child are the dominant motives of life, surviving the mutations of years, stronger than heredity, stronger than loyalty to a religious leader, never to be obliterated, even by fanaticism, and proving ultimately irresistible to the sane heart. The setting for the development of this poignant truth is the Rappite community of celibates at New Harmony in early Indiana. Seldom, indeed, have the conquering impulses of young love and the overriding instincts of parenthood been expressed with such searching tenderness and such intimate reality.

The Stuff of a Man.

With frontispiece in colors by Will Grefé. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A drama of the corn lands of southern Indiana in the "Pocket" region bounded by the Ohio. The story has the charm of leisurely atmosphere, of love old-fashioned in its quality, of gossipy humor, and with these qualities is combined a splended and most impressive handling of a great problem. "It is not often," says the Chicago Record-Herald, "that a novel proves so telling, so readable, so comprehensive, so true." "A novel well worth while, both as a piece of literature and a study of life," says Dr. Richard Burton, in The Bellman.

ONNER. Tomorrow's Tangle.

By Geraldine Bonner. Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The New York Press says: "Since Bret Harte there has been no story of the gold days that can compare with this." And the Nashville American comments: "The story is full of life, and its characters are as clearly cut as portraits in steel. It is an American story, too, and that is another claim to the reader's attention."

BONNER.—Continued.—The Pioneer.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher, the frontispiece in color. 12mo, cloth.....$1.5

Miss Bonner's second novel of life in the Far West has all the many good qualities o the first—the warm-hearted sympathy, the picturesqueness and the stirring action—wit a new depth of feeling and sureness of touch. The atmosphere of time and place (Cal fornia and Nevada in the bonanza silver days) is rendered splendidly. But atmospher and style mean little to the reader compared with the engrossing, passionate story of Co onel Jim Parrish and how he paid the debt of love.

Rich Men's Children.

Illustrated by C. M. Relyea. 12mo, cloth $1.5

The final story in Miss Bonner's great trilogy of California romances reveals th steady march of her fine and confident talent. It is as dramatic as Tomorrow's Tangl It is bathed in the same warm human emotion that throbbed in the pages of The Pi neer. But, strong and sweeping, large and sure, vivid and compelling, frank and unco ventional, Rich Men's Children is better and greater than its predecessors. The plo which deals with the conflicts of two generations and the bold passions of the Far Wes takes hold instantly with a firm clutch, and the movement is steadily maintaine throughout toward a vigorous climax.

She is as wise and as witty as Selina Lue or Mother Mayberry, and her piety is as simple and sincere as theirs. HASTINGS-HOOKER. The Professor's Mystery.

By Wells Hastings and Brian Hooker (author of The Right Man). Illustrated by Hanson Booth. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25

A story of absorbing interest in which mystery is colored by love. Though strange and inexplicable doings are offered to the reader's attention from the beginning, the two persons most concerned are a young man and a young woman, and as their happiness is made to depend upon the solution, the point of view is steadily romantic. To an astonishing degree the authors have succeeded in creating romance in the midst of the present, the fascination of the unexplained in the here and now.

The theme of "The Torch" is whether the higher, finer purposes of education can be obtained by modern business methods in our colleges and universities. It is a novel of the faculty side of college life, with the student body serving only as a background. The scene is a western university under state control. "The Torch" is a vigorous, human story of life and love, and will especially appeal to every man who has been to college, who has a son to send to college, or who in any way is interested in, or related to, college life. "There are scenes in 'The Torch' that will be numbered among the few scenes in American fiction that are really a pleasure to remember."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A romance of the Mississippi Delta, dealing with the famous Loisson mystery, and involving the most vital expression of the Southerner's view of the race problem that has yet appeared in fiction. The author describes the "black volcano," over which white Southerners live, in an intensely realistic manner. His knowledge of the white man's burden, his keen descriptions of Northern misapprehension, equal his tremendous power as a story-teller and his elemental sense of humor.

Thy Way of a Man.

Illustrated by George Wright. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Large in mold, noble in purpose, elementally powerful in its emotions, this novel must be ranked apart from the novels of the day. It is at once a pageant of one of the most momentous and picturesque periods in our American history and a love story of surpassing beauty and strength. The man and the woman who are its chief characters love each other with so great a love that only a master hand could justly paint them. Mr. Hough has done this with a completeness of success that thrills and enthralls.

54-40 or Fight.

Illustrated by A. I. Keller.....$1.50

A big, glowing, passionate tale of a woman who shaped the destinies of America. She is a splendid creation of fire and force, the most fascinating of intriguantes, marking the boundaries of the nation with the trail of her silken skirt. Behind the scenes at Washington, she is the center of diplomatic interest. Love she has from many, and love she gives to one—that one, every inch a man and every inch a hero.

The Singing Mouse.

With marginal illustrations by Mayo Bunker. Pocket, 12mo, cloth.....$1.00
Red English leather..... 1.50

These short, dainty, wistful stories are the product of a tender imagination akin to that of the beloved Ik Marvel. The tiny creature that appears by a lonely man's hearthside each evening sings to him of dreams and hopes and longings, of his happy boyhood, of love, of beautiful fields and mountains. Subtle in suggestion, delicate in fancy, these little song-stories are more nearly poetry than prose. They have a distinct charm, the charm of a soft and melodious voice in gentle revery.

The Purchase Price.

Illustrated by M. Leone Bracker and Edmund Frederick. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25

Emerson Hough has mastered the art of the popular American Romance, and The Purchase Price has a well-deserved career as a best-seller. It is as good a story as The Mississippi Bubble and a better one than 54-40 or Fight. Like the latter it is an American historical romance with a mysterious and fascinating young woman in the leading role, but the heroine in this case is of a nobler sort and the story is finer in spirit as well as in art than the other.—Chicago Record-Herald.

INGRAM. The Game and the Candle.

By Eleanor M. Ingram. Illustrated by P. D. Johnson. 12mo, cloth, jacket in full color and embossed gold.....$1.50

A book of golden deeds, of love that keeps faith through trial, and of allegiance steadfast in the midst of fiery adventure. The hero is a young American, who, to save his family from poverty, deliberately commits a felony. Then follow his capture, his imprisonment, his rescue by a Russian Grand Duke, each incident more tense and daring than its predecessor. Thenceforth the tale is fraught with the intrigue of a Russian court, with all the dangers that life suggests, and ever with the flowery fragrance of romance.

The Flying Mercury.

Illustrated in full color by Edmund Frederick. 12mo, cloth, in a box.....net, $1.50

This romance of motor racing commands a public of its own. Whoever has thrilled at the sight or the thought of the whirling cars, will find his thrill recalled and renewed. Whoever has loved, will delight in this romance of the daring driver and the sweet, gentle, generous, brave and determined girl. It is a theme of the moment, love in its latest setting.

Stanton Wins.

Illustrated in full color by Edmund Frederick. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.00

Here is a motor car story that will captivate the motor enthusiast and will interest as well the reader who knows nothing about motoring and cares nothing about sport. It holds the attention by the sheer pitch of its excitement and the skill of its nicely calculated love plot. Miss Ingram makes a speed contest real, describing the races from the human viewpoint and bringing to the surface all the daring, hopes, aspirations, maneuvering of the men at the wheel.

IRVING. The Legend of Sleepy Hollow.

By Washington Irving. Regular Edition. With over seventy illustrations, many in four colors, by Arthur I. Keller. 8vo, cloth, boxed.....$2.00
Leather.....$3.00

This famous love story of the Hudson, rendered a classic of all time by the matchless fancy and abounding humor of Irving, is here for the first time given a worthy setting. Mr. Keller has enriched it with the full measure of that art, at once graceful and highly dramatic, which has placed him in the foremost rank of American illustrators. He has caught the spirit of the master-humorist to a wonderful degree. From the grotesque figure of Ichabod Crane to the charm, piquancy and beauty of that darling maid, Katrina Van Tassel, his brush ranges with equal skill.

ISHAM. The Strollers.

By Frederic S. Isham. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The scenes are laid in that picturesque and interesting period of American life—the last of the stage coach days—the days of the strolling players. This is the record of a troupe making a circuit in the wilderness from New York to New Orleans, carrying one wagon-load of scenery and playing in town halls, taverns and barns. The characters are gifted, witty, lovable people who at once enlist the sympathy of the reader.

Under the Rose.

With illustrations in six colors by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

In giving the quaint title to this book Mr. Isham says to the reader: "Now this is just between you and me. I am going to tell you a secret, and I want you to keep it to yourself." Then he leads you through a delightfully confusing network of paths and passages and introduces you to some very interesting people, while he serves his rare morsel of romance. All these people know that there is a secret, but they do not know that you know it, and so their innocent effort to straighten out the entanglements proves highly diverting. "Delicious fooling, lively wit, fine feeling, perfect taste are the qualities that make the charm of 'Under the Rose.' The atmosphere is so fraught with magic and fantasy that we forget it has no reality, and succumb to the author's spell."—Harper's Weekly.

Black Friday.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A dramatic novel of New York in the days of the famous "corner in gold," when Jay Gould, the noted financier and daring speculator, had the market almost in his grasp. The scene shifts at the end to Paris in the exciting time of the Commune. Mr. Isham's work shows a steady advance in power, in imaginative grasp, in the realization of atmosphere and in constructive skill. In every case his latest book is his best.

The Lady of the Mount.

Illustrated by Lester Ralph. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The romantic story of the Black Seigneur, who held such power over the peasants along the coast of France in the days of the Revolution, of his love for the Governor's daughter, and how he wooed and won her. Adventure, high excitement, ardent love-making and intensely dramatic action mark the pages; it is a stirring tale of great charm and grace in telling. The New Haven Journal calls it "a charming story from beginning to end, proceeding with increasing interest and rising to a grand climax."

Half a Chance.

Illustrated by Herman Pfeifer. 12mo, cloth, illuminated jacket in full color and embossed gold.....$1.50

This is the story of a man who was unjustly convicted of a great crime. His courageous going back to find his honor in the place where he had lost it makes an inspiring appeal to all that is best in us. And if you inquire about the romantic incidents of the plot—the wreck of the convict ship, the rescue, the strange events on the desert isle, the return to England, the recognition, the man-hunt, the pursuit across fog-bound London, the splendid climax in which John Steele rights himself—they are thrilling enough to take your breath away!

ISHAM.—Continued.—The Social Bucaneer.

Illustrated by W. B. King. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Once upon a time there was a benevolent old Chinese pirate who relieved the unduly rich in his neighborhood of their ill-gotten gains and distributed his booty among the common people. The debonair young man who figures in Mr. Isham's new romance had heard of this pirate, and, being of an adventurous turn of mind, he undertook to apply the same perilous form of charity or socialism in modern New York. He had an exciting time of it, a breathless, thrilling, rushing time, that called for all his powers of wit and every resource of cleverness.

JACKSON. The Day of Souls.

By Charles Tenney Jackson. Illustrated by Paul Meylan. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"This may not be the great American novel, but it comes nearer to being that than any other novel that has yet been written. For those who would read of the realities of existence, who revel in the picturesque and dramatic, but who demand that the verity be not sacrificed to effect; for those with appreciation of how the best of us would have the substance rather than the shadow and fiction that has the joys and sorrows, and struggles and laughter of life rather than the sugar pills of romance,—for these The Day of Souls is the great book."—Chicago Daily Journal.

My Brother's Keeper.

Illustrated by Arthur William Brown. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A great problem is at the heart of the plot—the duty of America toward her new children borne to her shores in the great tide of immigration. In working out this problem a group of typical American men and women become involved in a drama of love and hate, tense and engrossing. As one strong situation follows another in emotional sequence, their inmost characters are laid bare. One singular personality, a figure unique in modern fiction, Rand, the social outlaw, stings them to truth by his own daring and unflinching candor. The men fight him. The women come to love him. And of them all he proves that he alone, in truest sense, is his brother's keeper.

JEFFERSON. See Forman.

JOHNSTON. The Jeweled Toad.

By Isabel M. Johnston. With innumerable pictures in color by W. W. Denslow. 8vo, cloth.....$1.50

The tale of Towsey, the washerwoman's daughter, who became queen of Wonderland by the aid of Bruin, Reynard, the grey wolves, the wild goose and the white owls, is most diverting. Mr. Denslow proves again that he is the king of comic art. It is the very jolliest of books for little men and maids.

JOHNSTON. The Yellow Letter.

By William Johnston. Illustrated by Alexander Popini. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25

A detective story that has one fresh thing about it is remarkable. There are three fresh things about The Yellow Letter:—the kind of crime, the manifestations of that crime, and the pursuit of the criminal. The exact nature of the crime the reader must discover for himself. He will search it out with bated breath and a wildly beating pulse. The manifestations of the crime are suicides in different places, of people of different ages, sexes and circumstances, but all taking place within a few days of one other and every one of the victims having about him a scrap of yellow paper. Mr. Johnston's story is a frankly sensational, boldly melodramic romance, a book of a thousand thrills, which starts with a rush and goes ever faster and faster.

JONES. Letters of Labor and Love.

By Samuel M. Jones. With portrait and an introduction by Brand Whitlock. 12mo, cloth.....Postage 12c, net, $1.00

The famous "Golden Rule" Mayor of Toledo wrote these letters to the men who worked in his machine shop. They are little masterpieces of helpful comment on the relation between employer and employed,—the words of a great, honest American who was desperately in earnest,—and they have the simplicity and directness which our men of action, when they have done the real heavy labor of the world, always get into their writings. The views of this remarkable man on our civilization are intensely interesting and highly important.

JULIAN. The Life of Joshua R. Giddings.

By George W. Julian. 8vo, cloth, 473 pages, gilt top.....$2.50

The only complete biography of the great Ohio Congressman and orator who rendered the anti-slavery movement effective by making it a political issue. The book is more than a record of the life of one man; it is an important contribution to the history of this country during the thirty years preceding the Civil War, given impartially and discriminatingly by the son-in-law of the man who is its central figure.

KELLY. With Hoops of Steel.

By Florence Finch Kelly. Illustrated in colors by Dan Smith. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A story which paints faithfully the life of the plains, and, as the San Francisco Chronicle says, "gives us three big, manly fellows, fine types of the cowboy at his best." Says the Denver Times: "It is not alone in the superb local coloring or the vivid character work that 'With Hoops of Steel' is a notable book. The incidents are admirably described and full of interest, and the movement of the story is continuous and vigorous."

KENTON. What Manner of Man.

By Edna Kenton. 12mo, cloth, gilt top.....$1.50

The story of an English artist, who, after a long search for a model for his picture of the death of a Christian martyr in the arena, finds her in Clodah of Rohan, a girl who has lived an unworldly life on a lonely Scottish island. He marries her to make her his model, and the conflict of his passionate devotion to his art with her devoted love for her husband is the great and unusual theme of the story. "The book is full of dramatic force. The author is an unusual thinker and observer, and has a rare gift for creative literature."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

KERR. See Dunham.

KESTER. The Prodigal Judge.

By Vaughan Kester. Illustrated by M. Leone Bracker.....net, $1.25

Most lovable of shiftless heroes, eloquent at every bar, Falstaffian in capacity of appetite and intellect, Judge Slocum Price is a man to be reckoned with. He is the most striking character in a story of many striking characters—a romance rich in incident, hearty in humor, full-flowing in a broad current of life and events, Love and hate and private feud, true friendship and evil ambition, the mysterious and the unexpected all have their place in the plot. "The reader closes The Prodigal Judge feeling that human nature is, after all, a lovable thing; grateful beyond words to Mr. Kester for his sane and healthful romance, which proves that a writer may be decent without losing strength. It should leave its readers with wider sympathies, softer hesrts, a larger tolerance."—New York Times.

By Gaston Leroux, author of The Mystery of the Yellow Room. Illustrated in full color by André Castaigne. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25
"Gaston Lereux has written a book that takes the country by storm. The Phantom of the Opera is the most daring, the most original, the most perfectly worked-out thing in the way of a mystery story that has happened since the advent of Sherlock Holmes—we are almost tempted to say since Hugo's Notre Dame. The intimate, convincing manner is worthy of Defoe, and the mystery itself managed just as it should be. Everything is 'prepared,' as they say in the drama, and hardly a page passes but a little more is unfolded, leading up with ever-increasing tension to the final explanation."—Philadelphia Press.

By Caleb Lewis. Illustrated in color by George Kerr. 12mo, cloth, illuminated jacket in color and gold.....$1.25
These cosy evenings in Uncle Tan's fisherman's cabin, with the blazing drift-wood fire, the hot puffy biscuits and the golden honey, are cosy indeed. Here Jane and Peter listen to Uncle Tan tell of the amusing adventures of the Easily Lost Children. These stories are told with the simplicity and charm of real literature; and they contain much that is wise, much that is helpful and nothing that isn't cheering and encouraging.

LODGE. A Bit of Finesse.

A story of life fifty years ago, with a pretty love motive, and an exciting social battle, in which the simple sweetness of a charming girl gets the better of the cunning devices of a married woman.

LONG. Seffy.
By John Luther Long, author of "Madame Butterfly," etc. Illustrated by C. D. Williams, and decorated by Earl Stetson Crawford. Ornamental cover, 12mo, cloth.....$1.50
A draught of pure delight is this little comedy of country manners. It is like a summer day,—all sunshine and showers and rainbows,—smiles and tears and smiles again breaking through the tears. It is an idyl of the Pennsylvania Dutch, with two love motives, the love of a man for a maid and the love between father and son. Both are prettily managed, in the first half of the book, with charming humor,—in the second part, with seriousness, tenderness, dignity.

Evangeline.
New Edition, with large inlay in full color. With forty-nine illustrations, many of them in color, by Howard Chandler Christy. Decorations by Earl Stetson Crawford. Uniform with The Courtship of Miles Standish. Large octavo, red cloth, in a box.....$2.00
Leather..... 4.00
The second Christy-Longfellow book is a surpassing achievement in beauty. Mr. Christy has more than risen to the occasion and given to Longfellow's masterpiece—the most familiar and the best beloved of all American love poems—a new richness and a new loveliness. It is the ideal gift-book, and this is shown by the fact that whoever buys it, selfishly hates to give it away.

LONGFELLOW.—Continued.—Hiawatha.

Popular edition with more than fifty illustrations, many in full color, by Harrison Fisher. Decorations by Earl Stetson Crawford. Large octavo, cloth, in a box.....$2.00
Leather..... 4.00

No pains have been spared to make the Fisher edition of Hiawatha a most beautiful gift book. By fortunate chance it comes at the very climax of the Indian's popularity as a romantic figure. Mr. Fisher's Minnehaha is, of course, the loveliest Indian maiden ever conceived. That was to be expected. The glamour with which he surrounds Longfellow's famous hero is a revelation. All of the pictures are magnificently reproduced.

LYNDE. The Master of Appleby.

By Francis Lynde. Fully illustrated by T. de Thulstrup. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"A novel tale concerning itself in part with the great struggle in the two Carolinas, but chiefly with the adventures therein of two gentlemen who loved one and the same lady," is the description of the sub-title. The story deals with that part of the Revolutionary struggle in which the Catawba and Cherokee Indians were involved.

"There is a continuous succession of thrilling situations," says the New York Sun. "A strong, masculine and persuasive story," is the comment of the Boston Transcript.

The Grafters.

Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller, 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A virile and vigorous novel of the West. Whatever your mood, "The Grafters" will chime in with it. If pessimistic you will swear that the brutal ugliness of official corruption here pictured has its undoubted counterpart in some of our states. If optimistic you will be pleased by the ultimate triumph of justice. If bored by the politics, and insensible to the winning charm of the love-story, you will feel the wind in your hair when you find yourself in the cab of a flying locomotive, dashing past danger signals with the sound of bullets in ears that are intensely expectant of an exploding boiler.

The Quickening.

Illustrated by E. M. Ashe. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

An impressive novel and strong in its impressiveness, carefully wrought, intensely dramatic, first engaging the reader's attention and then compelling it. No nobler theme can be imagined, for it is the story of a man in the making. Out of the long, long thoughts of youth Tom Gordon emerges to meet the tests of religion, business and love. Aided only by his own great courage and his own great love, he fights through to faith and success and love returned. A big-hearted tale is "The Quickening," of a man who dealt with life at first hand.

Empire Builders.

Illustrated by Jay Hambidge. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A story of adventure, of swiftly moving events, of railway building in the West in the mountains and on the prairie, of plotting contractors in Denver, of battles of great minds in Chicago, of bulls and bears of the stocks in New York, and of love everywhere. It is crowded with events that quicken the pulse, that catch and hold the breath with suspense, anticipation and realization, for you live and move along from place to place with the intensely human characters in the story.

MACAULEY. Fantasma Land.

By Charles Raymond Macauley. With fifty-one illustrations by the author. 12mo, cloth.....$1.25

A juvenile for children of all ages, in which a small boy finds himself in the land of Upside-down where the branches of the trees lie on the ground and their roots rise high in the air, where the heads of the people move about independently of their bodies—a land where contradictions abound and nothing common happens. Dickey, the small boy, has many adventures in meeting the Fantasms, among whom are Little Nell and her grandfather, Don Quixote, the Jester, "who was once kidnapped from Fantasma Land and made to work for Sir Walter Scott," and many others.

McCUTCHEON.—Continued.—In Africa.

Illustrated with drawings by the author, and many photographs. Size 6½x9, cloth. Revised Edition ..... net, $3.00

De Luxe Limited Edition. Printed on India-tint paper, bound in boards, with cream cloth back and label. In a box. Limited to 250 copies, each copy numbered and autographed by the author ..... net, $6.00

Joyously the famous cartoonist tells how he killed lions in the jungle-depths of the dark continent. Such a book as it is, packed with thrills and with a laugh after each thrill. Despite his fears to the contrary, Mr. McCutcheon discovered that Roosevelt had not exhausted the lion supply. The lions that faced his gun did not like him, he says, and were at no pains to conceal the fact. Hunting big game with Mr. McCutcheon in Africa proves the rarest sport the reader has known.

MACGRATH. The Puppet Crown.

By Harold MacGrath. Illustrated by R. Martine Reay. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The rose light of romance is here thrown over nineteenth century happenings. The scene is laid among the picturesque unrealities of a little Austrian border kingdom. The conversations are witty and charming, and the movement is brisk and crisp. "Harold MacGrath has attained the highest point achievable in recent fiction," says the Philadelphia North American; "We have the climax of romance and adventure in 'The Puppet Crown.'"

The Grey Cloak.

Illustrated by Thomas Mitchell Peirce. 12mo, cloth $1.50

There is something refreshingly Dumasesque in the opening chapter, where an aged nobleman is run through in his own house by the sword of a masked stranger who leaves behind him no clew but a torn grey cloak; and from there on the interest never flags. "There have been many excellent stories of love and intrigue, but no one of them all equals this in depth of fascination and subtile plot and counterplot."—New York American.

The Man on the Box.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth $1.50

A gay romance of Washington to-day, carried off with admirable dash and spirit, and with just enough tragedy to give point to the comic touch. The hero masquerades as a coachman, takes service in his lady's livery, becomes involved in a diplomatic intrigue, and altogether has the liveliest kind of a time. The Albany Times-Union calls it "the most sparkling book of the season" and says that it "tells a most absorbing story in the wittiest, most delightful way."

Hearts and Masks.

With twelve full-page illustrations in photogravure by Harrison Fisher. Decorated by Ralph Fletcher Seymour. Ornamental cover, 12mo, cloth $1.50

Mr. MacGrath was in his gayest mood when he wrote this most exhilarating story, full of the zest of life. At every page the adventure turns an unexpected corner. The elements are fascinating: a hunt-club masquerade, three mysterious dominoes, each holding as a card of invitation the ten of hearts; the theft of a gorgeous necklace; a love affair begun and consummated within eight hours. Mr. Fisher's pretty girls and manly men make a fitting accompaniment to the merry tale of carnival entanglements.

Half a Rogue.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. With inlay cover picture by Mr. Fisher. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

Here are dexterity of plot, glancing play of witty talk, characters really human and humanly real, spirit and gladness, freshness and quick movement. Half a R gue is as brisk as a horseback ride on a glorious morning. It is as varied as an April day. It is as charming as two most charming girls can make it. Love and honor and success and all the great things worth fighting for and living for are involved in Half a Rogue.

The Best Man.

Lavishly illustrated by Will Grefé. With inlay cover picture by Mr. Grefé. Uniform with Hearts and Masks. 12mo, cloth $1.50

That love will find a way is the theme of this thoroughly MacGrathian and most attractive volume. Irate parents may storm and rage, clever rivals may scheme and plot, but the best man gets the girl, despite all obstacles. The sentiment is as gay as a rainbow. Mr. Grefé's art has made the book a thing of beauty within and without.

IACGRATH.—Continued.—The Lure of the Mask.

Frontispiece in color by Harrison Fisher. Other illustrations by Karl Anderson. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A rich young New Yorker hears from his window a woman singing divinely out of a night of mist and fog. He does not see her, but he is destined to meet her later in mask and under most mysterious circumstances. Then the story shifts to Italy, with the shifting fortunes of an American comic opera company. You can imagine the fun! Even more than Mr. MacGrath's previous books, The Lure of the Mask possesses piquancy of situation and wit of dialogue. "One is obliged to read The Lure of the Mask," says the Boston Globe. "It is written for that purpose. There is no use trying to drop it, once you have begun it."

The Enchanted Hat.

Illustrated in color by Will Grefé. Uniform with The Best Man. 12mo, cloth, boxed $1.50

The Enchanted Hat is piquant, original, quaint in relation, fantastic in conception, unexpected in outcome. New York, under this magic touch, becomes as romanticas Bagdad. And the pictures are genuinely Grefeian. Never were prettier girls seen in the illustrations of a popular book. In the holiday season, and for that matter all the year round, everybody wants to give everybody else The Enchanted Hat.

The Goose Girl.

Illustrated by André Castaigne. Jacket picture in full color by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Charm is the word that fits this story. Charm of place—the fragrant, sunny vineyards of the Rhine country. Charm of plot—all our castles in the air come true. Charm of characterization—men and women whom we love to know, and know to love. Charm of style—simple, clear, poetic and humorous. Charm of incident, adventure and of outcome. MacGrath has never written so engaging a romance.

A Splendid Hazard.

Illustrated in color by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50

In this romance figures a great-grandson of Napoleon—real or most plausibly invented. It is redolent of the incomparable Corsican. The glory and glamour of Napoleonic legend are about it from the first charming moment when Fitzgerald, the young American journalist, comes on Laura Killigrew in Paris by Napoleon's tomb. The events of the story, as a present-day adventure tale mingling enterprise and love, are in themselves delightfully entertaining because marked by the usual luminous MacGrath charm, but beneath the gleam of the glories and triumphs of the First Empire they become fascinating.

The Carpet from Bagdad.

Illustrated in full color by André Castaigne. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25

One may perhaps best describe this story as an adventure-romance. The scene opens in Cairo, continues in the desert, and ends in New York. The plot starting with the theft of a rare and holy rug, stolen by an American adventurer from its Moslem owner and sold to an American collector, is McGrath's most salient stroke of originality. The reader follows eagerly the fortunes of the little group of Americans who meet dangers amid the strange surroundings of the Near East, and who come home only to be involved in more dangerous and remarkable complications.

This love story of Charles Brandon and Mary Tudor, sister of King Henry VIII, is one of the most popular novels ever published. "Never was there written a prettier story of the Middle Ages," says the San Francisco Call, and hundreds of thousands of readers have echoed the opinion. The success of the dramatization by Paul Kester followed up on the success of the novel. For months and months WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER was one of the six best-selling books, and it holds the record for continuous mention in The Bookman's lists.

MARDEN. Choosing a Career.

A comprehensive scope, a logical arrangement, a wealth of illustrations, trenchant sayings, admirable comment and a taking manner, are virtues of this book by the founder and editor of "Success." Part First deals with the theoretical aspects of the topic,—the duty of parents; the effect of surroundings, habit, physical fitness, nervous temperament, disposition, manner; the necessity of health, of definite purpose, of courage, energy and enthusiasm. Part Second contains a mass of valuable facts and opinions. The chief occupations are treated separately, and everywhere the author has called upon expert opinion to reinforce his own. Bankers, lawyers, railroad presidents, manufacturers, editors, printers, stenographers, artists, nurses, physicians—each a person of distinction in his own line—give the results of their experience. An invaluable guide to the boy or man, girl or woman, seeking direction on an all-important question.

MARVEL. See Mitchell.

MATHEWS. My Lady Peggy Goes to Town.

By Frances Aymar Mathews. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. With decorations by Virginia Keep. 12mo, cloth.....$1.2

A sparkling comedy of the days of George III. A heroine almost too charming to be true is Peggy, and it is a churlish reader who is not, at the end of the first chapter, prostrate before her red slippers. "To make a comparison would be to rank 'My Lady Peggy' with 'Monsieur Beaucaire' in points of attraction, and to applaud as heartily as that delicate romance, this picture of the days 'when patches nestled o'er sweet lips at chocolate times.' "—New York Mail and Express.

MERTINS. The Storm Signal.

By Gustave Frederick Mertins. Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

This exciting novel deals boldly, bravely, frankly with the negro problem. The author has his solution of the question—a novel solution which he presents concretely in a plot crowded with thrilling action and uncompromising realism. There is great strength in the story, great reserve, great range, and the force that comes from a straight hit from the shoulder. There is nothing to compare with it in literature for its comprehension and exhibition of the negro character, or for its sympathetic revelation of the Southerner at his best. The romance stands out with dramatic vividness like a tree against a flaming sunset. It is a moving tale, one to read with drawn breath and quickening pulses and a swelling heart.

MICHELSON. In the Bishop's Carriage.

By Miriam Michelson. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

From the moment when, in another girl's chinchilla coat, she jumps into the unknown carriage, and, snuggling up to the solemn owner, calls him "Daddy"—from that moment until she makes her final bow, a happy wife and a triumphant actress, Nance Olden, the heroine of "In the Bishop's Carriage," holds your fancy captive and your heart in thrall. "The very best work of fiction that has come to us this season," says Professor Harry Thurston Peck, in the New York American.

MILLER. The Yoke.

Gunsaulus, President of the Armour Institute of Technology, it "will take its place among our most important historical novels." Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman says: "I really have never read a greater novel; it is superb."

Saul of Tarsus.

A Tale of the Early Christians. Illustrated by André Castaigne. 12mo, cloth, ornamental cover.....$1.50

The same splendid imagination which reconstructed the Age of the Pharaohs and revivified the glory of Egypt in The Yoke here plays with lambent flame about the great Roman world in the years immediately succeeding the Crucifixion. The scenes are laid in Jerusalem, Alexandria, Rome and Damascus. The Apostle Paul, the Martyr Stephen, Herod Agrippa and the Emperors Tiberius and Caligula are among the mighty figures that move through the pages. Wonderful descriptions, heart-stirring incidents, deep emotion, high thought and a love story of the purest and noblest type mark this most remarkable religious romance.

The City of Delight.

A Love-Drama of the Siege and Fall of Jerusalem. Illustrated by F. X. Leyendecker. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

To make a love story of the first Christian century more vivid, more human and more intense than the romances of to-day—that is the feat Elizabeth Miller has accomplished in The City of Delight. A little group of most vital men and women stand out in splendid relief against the magnificent spectacle of Jerusalem's fall. Mobs and legionaries, fanatics and slaves, Roman, Greek and Jew, emperor and clown, leap into being in the flashes of a great imagination. "It has life and strength and is illumined with the colors of the glorious east," says the Chicago Tribune.

MILLER. The Man Higher Up.

By Henry Russell Miller. Illustrated by M. Leone Bracker. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25

It is big and ambitious; it has news value; it engages an important theme; it has real significance. It is a great book because of a sort of underlying defiance there is in it. It throws out a superb challenge; it has something intensely vital in it, something so virile that you involuntarily get beyond the story and back to the man who wrote it. —Oakland Tribune.

Zelda Dameron.

With portraits of the characters by John Cecil Clay. 12mo, cloth $1.50

In his new story Mr. Nicholson again holds the mirror up to human nature as found in the Middle West, and the reflection flashed back upon the reader is startlingly and attractively true. His heroine is a young girl full of life to her finger-tips,—a mixture of pride, wilfulness, courage and sweetness. She discovers that her father is a rascal,—and there is the point of departure of the book.

The scene is laid by an Indiana lake, but the atmosphere is strangely of the Old World. The plot (which gallops all the way) involves astonishing wills, buried treasure, underground passage-ways, much fighting, much love-making, and the unexpected denouement already alluded to. Virile, direct, clear, rapid, fresh are the right adjectives for the book.

All the fascination of the stage is in the atmosphere. Mr Osbourne has never before approached the impressive power of this book.

A Person of Some Importance.
Illustrated by A. B. Wenzell. 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25

Since the golden days when he wrote with Stevenson, Lloyd Osbourne has told no tale comparable to this. Its opening and its closing chapters are in those adventurous South Seas where they worked together on The Ebb-Tide and The Wrecker. With the return to the locale of their mutual labor, the brave and gallant spirit of R. L. S. seems to inspire his pen, and it does not desert him when the scene shifts to a New England village. He involves an American man and American girl in adventures now astonishing, now sudden and passionate, now bizarre and whimsical, now richly humorous, now keyed to the shrill pitch of excitement, and always mysterious and alluring.

Trolley Folly.
Illustrated in color by F. R. Gruger, The Kinneys, Martin Justice, P. V. E. Ivory and Gustave C. Widney. 12mo, cloth.....$1.25

One of the great American humorists is in this book breaks all records climbing the mountain of humor. He is sublimely, gloriously absurd. The jest is huge, out of the whole cloth of the outrageous, broad enough to include everybody, truly the height of the ridiculous. Phillips has dared to be as funny as he can. The grin grows as you read, and shoots from ear to ear. Chuckling gives place to roaring.

POLLARD. Books in the House.
By Alfred W. Pollard. One of the Seymour Limited Editions. See Seymour.

POWERS. My Own Story.
By Caleb Powers. With many illustrations from photographs. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50

The author of this remarkable book is the most pathetic figure in the political and criminal history of our times. Arrested in 1900 charged with the murder of Governor Goebel, of Kentucky, tried, retried, and tried again, convicted, sentenced to be hanged, and now in the Louisville jail awaiting his fourth trial, he here for the first time tells the story of his career. He tells it, too, with absolute candor and graphic detail. Outraged justice finds voice in these pages of personal vindication.

QUICK. Double Trouble.
By Herbert Quick. With sixteen illustrations by Orson Lowell. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The first comedy novel based on dual personality. In one "state of soul" the hero is a quiet, retired business man, a lover of books, proud of a Puritan conscience. In the other he is a breezy promoter of the Middle West, loud, sporty, rakish. When the two careers cross paths there follows a series of mirth-provoking situations in farcical confusion. "A weird conception—uproariously funny," comments the Chicago Evening Post. "Alert with the hustle and verve of the life that is not simple, but rather—exhilarating," says the Pittsburg Post.

QUICK.—Continued.—The Broken Lance.

Illustrated by C. D. Williams. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Not since Robert Elsmere and John Ward, Preacher, has there appeared a religious novel so well qualified to attract attention and rouse a violent storm of contorversy. Through Emerson Courtright, brother to every man, the author teaches that Jesus meant to establish an earthly kingdom and that his ideas for such a kingdom, if followed to-day, would regenerate society. But the book is not a sermon. It is story from first to last, a big story, crowded with living men and women, instinct with action, illumined with humor, vivid, vigorous and tremendously effective.

Aladdin & Co.

New Edition. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"For sheer excitement and breathless interest it would be hard to match in very recent literature the wild ride through flood and storm of the special train."—New York Times Review. "The best of this book is not its picture of a Western boom town, good as that is, nor its really interesting story, but the portrait it presents of the chief promoter, a rare whimsical genius."—The Outlook.

Virginia of the Air Lanes.

Illustrated by William R. Leigh. 12mo, cloth, jacket in full color and gold embossed, ...$1.50

Herbert Quick has seized the romantic moment for the air-ship novel. He has done a big thing. He has realized to our imaginations the navigation of the airy spaces, with a matter-of-factness that makes it utterly plausible, and with an audacity that makes one dizzy in the new and awful altitudes. Wild? impossible? fantastic? Well, maybe. Who knows? But there's nothing impossible about the people who do these things. They are just as real and human as can be. Delicious humor permeates the whole book.

Yellowstone Nights.

12mo, cloth.....net, $1.25

With a device as old as the Orient, Mr. Quick has bound together a group of modern stories as one might bind a sheaf of Iowa corn with a Persian scarf. Scheherazade entertained the weary Sultan for a thousand-and-one nights. Mr. Quick asks attention for twelve only, and thus misses giving too much of a good thing. The collection is set in the scenes of Yellowstone Park through which a happy assorted party is journeying, and each camp-fire is celebrated by the telling of a fresh tale. The book makes an ideal companion for the Yellowstone trip.

The Boys of the Old Glee Club.

Beautifully illustrated by Will Vawter. Tall 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The true story of The Boys of the Old Glee Club has a sweet simplicity in itself; it is the kind of theme Riley loves. The brave jollity of the bald-headed veterans singing in later years the songs they learned in army days, the gradual thinning of the ranks, and the final touch of sadness when the few survivors hear through the phonograph the chorus ringing strong, catch the notes of those who have gone before, and cry like children at the sound—these memories are Riley's, as these men were his friends. No other could tell the tale, no other could make the telling of it a joy forever.

Old School Day Romances.

New Edition, with large inlay in full color by Worth Brehm. Illustrated and decorated very beautifully in color by Earl Stetson Crawford. 12mo, cloth, end papers, boxed, $1.50
Leather 2.50

From this title it is easy to imagine the kind of poem that Riley has written. It's a Riley subject, if ever there was one, homely, humorous, touching. The familiar scenes; the old accustomed places; the little trials that seemed so great, the little joys that filled the heart completely, all these are here glorified with the golden light of Riley's wonderful genius.

To many of Mr. Riley's admirers it will come as a surprise to learn how large a number of non-dialect poems he has written. RINEHART. The Circular Staircase.

By Mary Roberts Rinehart. Illustrated by Lester Ralph. 12mo, cloth $1.50

One continual ascent of alluring bewilderment, winding upward with a thrill at every step, a breathless pause at every landing. It is conceived so cunningly, fashioned with such fascination, that it leads the author at once to a place beside Conan Doyle and Anna Katharine Green. From the crime of first importance committed in the opening chapters the reader leaps up the staircase to learn "why," and a hundred times he thinks he knows the answer, and a hundred times he finds that he is wrong. "By far the best mystery story of recent years."—The Arena.

The Man in Lower Ten.

Illustrated by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The Circular Staircase was the slashing big surprise of 1908. And now, from the same delightful source comes The Man in Lower Ten. Make way for him! He sweeps all before him. He goes at the rate of seventy miles an hour. He breaks all records for rapid and exciting travel in the fiction world. Mrs. Rinehart, first of novelists, has real ized the possibilities of a Pullman for romance, for crime, for fascinating bewilderment for ingenious and devious plot. And lighting up every situation with a gleam of her genius for fun, she offers you the most delightful of pastimes.

When a Man Marries.

Illustrated with more than 50 pictures, some in full color, by Harrison Fisher and May Bunker. 12mo, cloth $1.50

"When a Man Marries is humor incarnate. Laughable situations swarm through the pages. It is as full of ludicrous complications as all of Hoyt's farce comedies rolled into one."—Pittsburg Post. "So jolly it would make a grouch smile like a Billiken."—Cleveland Leader. "Such a rollicking, rattling, rampant story has not hitherto been found in the English language."—Pittsburg Press. "The merriest, happiest, most entertaining story in a many a day."—Indianapolis News.

The Window at the White Cat.

Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. 12mo, cloth $1.50

This story is compounded after the recipe that Mrs. Rinehart has made famous. Take one absorbing mystery, add an equal quantity of humor to lighten, sweeten to taste with love, stir the whole briskly until it is well mixed, and you have a dish fit to serve before a king. In this case she has been especially generous and has provided two full sized mysteries—for the disappearance of Miss Jane is just as baffling as that of the state treasurer—but as humor has also been provided in double measure, and the ingredient of romance is not scanted, the result is still happily proportionate.

RIVES. A Furnace of Earth.

By Hallie Erminie Rives. 12mo, cloth $1.25

An epigrammatic story of present-day life, abounding in crisp, bright humor and descriptions.

RIVES.—Continued.—Hearts Courageous.

Illustrated by A. B. Wenzell. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The scene of Miss Rives' glowing romance is laid in the colony of Virginia during those momentous days of determination for independence and the formation of the new republic. No more attractive period can be chosen for the setting of a story; for to every American the names of Westover, Berkeley and Gunston Hall are bathed in perpetual romance. The heroine is a young American girl; the hero is a French marquis; and among the chief characters is Patrick Henry.

The Castaway.

Illustrated in color by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth....Postage 12c, net $1.00

The Castaway takes its title from a saying of Lord Byron's: "Three great men ruined in one year—a king, a cad, and a castaway." The king was Napoleon; the cad was Beau Brummell; and the castaway—crowned with genius, illumined with fame, and shadowed in infamy—Lord Byron himself. "My life," said Byron in another place, "will furnish material for a pretty little romance, which shall be denominated the loves of Lord B." His jesting prophecy has been more than fulfilled by Miss Rives. Poet, lover, fighter, what a figure of a man, and what a hero of romance! "Dramatic scenes, thrilling incidents, strenuous events follow one another; pathos, revenge and pasison; happy scenes; moments of peace and pure happiness; a strong love; and through all these, under all these, is the poet, the man, George Gordon."—Grand Rapids Herald.

Tales From Dickens.

With many pictures by Reginald B. Birch. Large 12mo, cloth $1.50

Miss Rives has done for Dickens what Lamb did for Shakespeare—she has made him readable for children. Using all her wonderful skill as a story-teller, she has simplified his bulky novels, putting the plots in a clear, connected and definite form, and retaining the full measure of humor and pathos. The following tales are included: The Old Curiosity Shop, Oliver Twist, Barnaby Rudge, David Copperfield, Great Expectations, Nicholas Nickleby, Dombey and Son, Pickwick Papers, Little Dorrit, Martin Chuzzlewit, Our Mutual Friend, A Tale of Two Cities, Bleak House, Hard Times, The Mystery of Edwin Drood.

Satan Sanderson.

Beautifully illustrated in colors by A. B. Wenzell. Inlay cover picture. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

From the heroic figures of the American Revolution and the romantic personage of Byron's day, Miss Rives has turned to the here and now. And in the present she finds for her immense and brilliant talent a tale as dramatic and enthralling as any of the storied past. The career of the Rev. Harry Sanderson, known as "Satan" in his college days, who sowed the wind to reap the whirlwind and won at last through strangest penance the bright prize of love, seizes the reader in the strait grip of its feverish interest. Miss Rives has outdone herself in the invention of a love story that rings with lyric feeling and touches every fiber of the heart with strength and beauty.

The Kingdom of Slender Swords.

Illustrated in color by A. B. Wenzell. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

In scope, in dramatic power, in the sweep of the passionate love story, and in that vividness of personal characterization which, together with brisk action, yields enthralling interest, it far surpasses the author's previous great successes. That any American woman should have written such a story is astounding, so complete is its knowledge of the brave and beauty-loving Japanese. No one can be beyond the range of its fascination. It is indeed a romance with a golden heart.

OBINSON. Songs of the Trees.

By Mary Y. Robinson. Music by Josephine Robinson. Large quarto, illustrated in color.....$1.25

Then follows a page of music about the tree, and then the tree's biography, in which is told in very simple language something of its growth. There are three full-page pictures in color for each month, one of which shows in detail the blossom or fruit of the tree for the month.

SAUNDERS. Colonel Todhunter of Missouri.
By Ripley D. Saunders. Illustrated by W. D. King. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"An almost perfect story—in so far as fine, warm feeling, steady interest that grows with every chapter, humor of the true American variety, psychology though clever yet all unobtrusive, a stout plot with a possible mystery, and a shrewd knowledge, too, of politics—as they still are in the Southwestern states—is Ripley D. Saunders' entertaining tale, COLONEL TODHUNTER OF MISSOURI."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

SEAWELL. Francezka.
By Molly Elliot Seawell. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth $1.50

There is no character in fiction more lovable and appealing than is Francezka. Miss Seawell has told a story of youth, splendor and tragedy with an art which links it with summer dreams, which drowns the somber in the picturesque, which makes pain and vice a stage wonder. "The period is the first half of that most fascinating, picturesque and epoch-making century, the eighteenth. The story has light and shadow and high spirits, tempered with the gay, mocking, debonair philosophy of the time."—Brooklyn Times.

Children of Destiny.
Illustrated by A. B. Wenzell. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A novel of old Virginia. In reading it one lives again in the patrician elegance of those mannerly times with all their freedom and all their limitations. In the midst of those quiet people—some rich in worldly goods, all rich in birth and station—is born a man with the unrest of genius. Miss Seawell's delineation of this man's character and her sprightly humor, playing on the foibles of the early nineteenth century aristocrats, show her as a brilliant writer and a deep thinker.

The Fortunes of Fifi.
Illustrated in color by T. de Thulstrup. 12mo, ornamental cloth.....$1.50

A delicious comedy of youth, high spirits, captivating people and charming sentiment. It is a story of life in France at the time of the first Napoleon. Fifi, a glad, mad little actress of eighteen, is the star performer in a third-rate Parisian theater. Beautiful and ambitious, talented and mischievous, she ventures on some remarkable performances, in which the Emperor, the Pope, a lottery ticket, a monkey and a blue satin bed are all somehow involved. "It is a porcelain jar filled with rose leaves; a gem polished and engraved with deep-skilled art; a bit of writing for which the world is not only richer but happier."—Chicago Evening Post.

With twelve pictures in color by Clarence F. Underwood. Ornamental cover with inlay picture by Underwood. 12mo, cloth, in a box.....$1.50

Lady Arabella Stormont was a great heiress in the days of George III, and as beautiful as rich, and as capricious as either. Many men loved her and one she loved. The strange thing that she did for that one makes the climax of this most sprightly romance. The whole tale is bright with wit and the flashing of blades, and as full of alluring variety as Arabella's own lovely countenance. Mr. Underwood has made the appearance of the volume inside and out befittingly beautiful.

SEYMOUR.

Sandy himself is unlike anybody you have ever met before, but for all that he is the realest of the real.

STRANG. In Clive's Command.

A Story of the Fight for India, by Herbert Strang. With many spirited illustrations by W. Rainey, R. I. Large 12mo, cloth $1.50

Mr. Strang is everywhere regarded as having succeeded to the late G. A. Henty's position of the writer of books dearest to the heart of a boy. He has in fact accomplished more than Mr. Henty, for, while his vigorous tales are based on historical fact, the historical fact is never allowed to encumber the narrative. With Mr. Strang the story's the thing. In this book he tells the daring and ingenious exploits of Desmond Burke, a sixteen-year-old boy who follows Clive to victory in India and is enabled to do him extraordinary service. Breathlessly exciting from cover to cover is In Clive's Command.

Fighting on the Congo.

The Story of an American Boy Among the Rubber Slaves. Fully illustrated by W. Rainey, R. I. Large 12mo, cloth $1.50

An American boy of British parentage finds himself stranded in the remotest wilds of the Congo Free State. There he comes into contact with the Belgian authorities, who, in their relentless hunt for rubber, are oppressing the natives with savage tyranny. How the hero champions the victims and finally discomfits the officials against whom he is pitted is told with vividness and power. The author's capacity of describing this interesting region of the world is admitted to be unsurpassed. The serious purpose of the story is lightened by many pleasant touches of humor.

Jack Hardy.

A Story of English Smugglers in the Days of Napoleon. Illustrated by W. Rainey, R. I. Large 12mo, cloth $1.50

An English boy in the navy in the early part of the 19th Century had ample opportunity to show what stuff he was made of, and Jack Hardy answers to the emergency every time. Just when his disappointment at not being allowed to join Nelson in fighting "Boney" was keenest, he gets upon the track of a gang of smugglers, ferrets out their code, and is captured by the French, only to be the means of exposing, in the end, the operations of a spy. It is full of life and manliness, with the genuine salt of humor and human nature.

On the Trail of the Arabs.

A Story of Heroic Deeds in Africa. Illustrated by Charles M. Sheldon. Large 12mo, cloth $1.50

The Congo country, under the oppression of the slave-dealing Arabs, is the scene of Tom Burnaby's gallant exploits. He acts as aide to his uncle, learns the character of the natives, and teaches them how to combine in defensive league against their cruel enemy. After a battle between the Arabs and the black men, in which the natives, under Tom's leadership, are victorious, Tom is chosen chief in place of their dead king, and administers the affairs of State with true British nerve and success. The story rouses sympathy for the natives, exposes the greed and cruelty of the Arabs and portrays the intelligence and courage of a fine youth.

Rob the Ranger.

A Story of the Fight for Canada. Illustrated in color by W. H. Margetson. Large 12mo, cloth $1.50

The scene of this exciting tale is in New England and Canada; the period, the two years preceding the capture of Quebec in 1759. The hero is a New England boy whose home is wrecked during a French-Indian raid, and the story recounts his adventures in search of his father and younger brother who are held captive in Canada. There is an Indian fight at the start, and at no time is the spice of danger absent.

The story tells of the exciting adventures that befall him and his companions in their mission-

The color pictures are the finest and most unusual that have ever been made of birds. Both text and pictures display an intimacy with the home life, the moods, the manners and customs of birds never before attained. To accuracy of observation and completeness of detail the author adds a charming enthusiasm and a sincerity of literary and artistic workmanship.

SUMERWELL. Four in Family: How We Look from Where the Dog Sits.

By Florida Pope Sumerwell. Illustrated in color by George Kerr. 12mo, cloth. net, $1.00

A frolicsome little book is FOUR IN FAMILY, a tale as waggish as Bosco's. Bosco is a real-for-sure dog, a bull-terrier of high degree and prolonged pedigree. His noble birth, however, does not interfere with his being a comedian. He is indeed quite the funniest fun-maker that ever walked on four legs. It you like a good story, you will like FOUR IN FAMILY, and if you're fond of dogs, you'll gloat over it. "Altogether, FOUR IN FAMILY is one of those books that are bound to make their way—because any one who has read it is sure to buttonhole the next person he meets and quote and paraphrase the book until his hearer in sheer self-defence procures a copy for himself."—The Bookman.

Under the guidance of her good dog Colonel, she meets the Laziest Beaver. Bunny Cotton-Tayle, the Guinea-Pig whose eyes fall out, the Singing Donkey, the Half-Sleepy Bear, the Golf Lynx, and many others. Hope Winston, the most charming young person in the world, goes up to the metropolis to get a musical education. She gets it with a vengeance at The Colossus, a huge conservatory run on strictly modern principles. The revelation of methods of musical quacks amounts to an exposé, but it amounts also to a tremendous quantity of fun. Mr. Taylor bubbles over with his merry spirit. His heroine learns much more than music,—friendship, struggle and happy love,—and the reader closes the pleasant pages happy in her happiness.

TENNYSON. The Princess.

By Alfred, Lord Tennyson. Elaborately illustrated with many pictures by Howard Chandler Christy, all in color and many in full color. Uniform with the Centenary Edition of The Lady af the Lake. 9 x 12 inches. Cloth, in a box..... net, $3.00

No poem in the English language more perfectly merits publication in separate attractive form than does Tennyson's Princess. Its novelty, its graceful plan, the interest of its love story, its wide range and constant variety, its gentle humor, its picturesque and melodious beauty, and above all the exquisite loveliness of the lyrics scattered through it, give it supreme charm. It riots in opportunities for the artist, and of these Mr. Christy has availed himself to an unparalleled degree.

TERHUNE. See Marion Harland.

THANET. The Man of the Hour.

By Octave Thanet (Alice French). Illustrated by Lucius W. Hitchcock. 12mo, cloth $1.50

This, the first long novel by a famous writer of short stories, combines more American qualities than any book of many years. It is saturated with Americanism. It has American humor, American optimism, American vigor, and above all the American ideal of love and labor. It is a concentration of American problems, especially as they are found in the Middle West. But it is no "problem novel". It is story, first, last, and all the time—a tale that's worth the telling for its own sake and that tells itself straight through.

The Lion's Share.

Illustrated by E. M. Ashe. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50

A story of bewilderment in the open—a mystery pursued to its unraveling in the open air; a chase in full view and full cry—this is the unusual handling of the latest story by Octave Thanet. Across the continent and up and down the avenues of San Francisco goes the unflagging hunt. Its spirit of gayety and its freedom from conventionality make The Lion's Share irresistible. From beginning to end it is charged with absorbing interest, excitement, optimism, vigor and humor. Its movement is marvelous. Like a perfect motor, it catches its spark with a jump at the start and rushes along without a moment's faltering.

THANET.—Continued.—By Inheritance.

Illustrated by Thomas Fogarty. 12mo, cloth $1.50

Octave Thanet's great constructive imagination engages an important question in By Inheritance—the problem of the South, our most serious problem as a united people. Octave Thanet rises to the opportunity. Her book approves itself as adequate to the great occasion. It is ripe, many-sided, illuminative. It abounds in a rich and thoroughly American humor. Its story-interest is cumulative. The characters live by her true perceptions and creative genius. The incidents of the plot have picturesqueness, stirring reality and intensity. By Inheritance is a big book, worthy of the author, worthy of America.

Stories That End Well.

12mo, cloth ..... net, $1.25

This new book of short stories contains some of the most striking things Octave Thanet has ever done, both in conception and in execution. They are models of good story-telling, marked by vitality of theme, simplicity of plot, naturalness of character, delicacy of touch, distinction of style, and true and right feeling. But after all it is the genial humor, the happy view of life which is their most pervading characteristic. The reader invariably finds himself in a pleasant frame of mind at the close. He has good reason to be grateful anew to Octave Thanet.

VALENTINE. The Ship of Silence, and Other Poems.

By Edward Uffington Valentine. 12mo, cloth.....Postage 14c, net, $1.20

"This is Mr. Valentine's first book. It makes its appearance with the distinction of unobtrusiveness. There is a certain triumph for literature in the fact that a man should find, as the chief concern of his art, the beauty of the world in which we must all live, and the beauty of the human spirit which we should all share. To succeed on these heights is success indeed."—James Lane Allen, in The Outlook.

Hecla Sandwith.

12mo, cloth.....$1.50

An old-fashioned love story of the kind we all love, and something more than a love story, an excellent study of character and a thoroughly charming and faithful picture of life in the fifties in a Pennsylvania town. It was to be expected that Mr. Valentine's novel should prove a work of art, finished in detail and beautiful in color; but "Hecla Sandwith" adds to the graceful touch of the poet the strength of the realist and the imagination of the romancer.

ANCE. The Brass Bowl.

By Louis Joseph Vance. Illustrated by Orson Lowell. Inlay cover picture by A. I. Keller. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A story of incident and mystery in New York, exciting, compelling, desperately interesting. The action of the entire book takes place within thirty-six hours, and never were hours so crowded with unexpected happenings. Mr. Vance has a splendid faculty of invention and this novel strikes far from the beaten track of fiction.

The Black Bag.

Illustrated by Thomas Fogarty. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The spirit of madcap romance which won for Mr. Vance's previous novel, The Brass Bowl, great popularity and wide praise, is the strong attraction that The Black Bag offers. The surer touch of greater experience is here, too; and with it a freshness, joy and sparkle that are altogether charming. The Philadelphia Record says: "In The Brass Bowl, Mr. Vance gave out a lively tale of mystery, but it is a summer calm compared with The Black Bag, which is a veritable whirlwind."

AN VORST. The Girl from His Town.

By Marie Van Vorst, author of In Ambush. Illustrated by F. Graham Cootes. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

This story is a reversal of the usual type. Instead of a rich American heiress going abroad and being sought after by impecunious noblemen, Miss Van Vorst has sent a rich young American whose self-made father has just departed leaving many millions behind him. It is a clever and dashing story that leaves the reader happy and satisfied. It adds to Miss Van Vorst's already brilliant reputation and wins for her thousands on thousands of new readers.

First Love.

Illustrated by F. Graham Cootes. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Miss Van Vorst has dared to deal with a theme familiar enough in real life, but unconventional enough in fiction: a young fellow's worship of a woman some years older than himself, but still youthful and very lovely. "Deep as first love and wild with all regret," says Tennyson. But this picture of First Love is not painted in sombre colors. It has its touch of pathos, but more of social comedy. In it sentiment is relieved and heightened by action—good, downright, melodramatic action.

WTER. The Rabbit's Ransom, and Other Stories.

By Clara Vawter. Illustrated and decorated by Will Vawter. 12mo, cloth.....$1.25

This is a book of fascinating stories and verses, not only of children, but for children —a rare achievement. The stories are characterized by just the fanciful qualities which make children come back to them again and again, and the verses are jolly bits of humor. Miss Vawter's brother, the artist, who shares all her intimate knowledge of childhood, has made a series of pictures that deliciously supplement those from her pen.

By Will Vawter. A series of four pictures, in mezzotint, size 11x14. Each 25 cents. The four.....$1.00

He has caught the Riley spirit and infused it with delicious humor into these four exceedingly amusing pictures, each a little comedy of childhood. The titles are "No ma'am, we haven't saw him," "I don't want to be no robber," "The Telltale," and "The Day After the Circus."

ORHEES. Forty Years of Oratory.

WALCOTT. Blindfolded.

By Earle Ashley Walcott. With eight illustrations by Alice Barber Stephens. 12m cloth, ornamental cover $1.5

Blindfolded is a romantic story, chock full of adventurous mystery. Who? Which What? How? When? Why? Where? Whence? Whither?—These are the questio Giles Dudley asked when he landed in San Francisco and was forced at once to act a pa without knowing the part he was acting. These are the questions the reader asks whil as ignorant as Giles himself, he gropes blindly down the pathway of the plot. The actio starts quickly and is kept on the dead run. Day and night there is something doin

The Apple of Discord.

Illustrated by Alice Barber Stephens. Inlay cover picture in colors. 12mo, cloth..$1.5

The Apple of Discord preserves and repeats that extraordinary combination of r mance, mystery and adventure which makes Blindfolded a continuous current of excit ment. Like Blindfolded, this is a tale of picturesque old San Francisco. The plots highbinders, the agitation of a secret band of labor leaders and the fury of a financi panic are woven into one stretch of thrilling narrative.

WALLACE. The City of the King.

By Mrs. Lew Wallace. With twelve full-page half-tone engravings, tinted. 12m cloth ..... Postage 12c, net, $1.0

Delightfully drawn pictures of life in the old and new Jerusalem; in ancient and mo ern Palestine.

WASON. The Steering Wheel.

By Robert Alexander Wason, author of Happy Hawkins. Illustrated by Paul Meyla 12mo, cloth $1.5

Dick Bannington, just arrived at his uncle's New Jersey home from a year's trav abroad, hearing the call of the blood to take up his place in the Bannington steel mil on the one hand and the call of universal brotherhood on the other, is most engaging young, quixotic, inconsistent, loyal, hot-headed, clever. He starts the ball a-rolling an it gathers fun and speed with every revolution. In The Steering Wheel Mr. Wason co tributes richly to "the public stock of harmless pleasure." Alike as humorist and stor teller he shines, and readers will be grateful.

WELLS. Folly for the Wise.

By Carolyn Wells. Illustrated by Gustave Verbeek, Fanny Y. Cory, Florence Scov Shinn and Oliver Herford. 12mo, cloth ..... Postage 12c, net, $1.0

In this volume has been brought together Miss Wells' wittiest work, and she is by a odds the wittiest writer of her generation. Here we find her inimitable verses on "Co pound Zoology"; here, too, she tells the wild animals how to behave and shows us ho to know them; gives the people who are always arguing by proverbs a home-thrust i her funny little essays called "Mixed Morals"; and sets the final form to which the goo limerick must hereafter attain. It is the most exhilarating book of nonsense ever pu lished.

WHEELOCK. Stories of Wagner Operas for Children.

By Elizabeth M. Wheelock. Illustrated. New Edition. Tall 12mo, cloth $1.2

The great success of the first edition has led to the preparation of a new one, in whic Tannhauser, Parsifal and Tristan and Isolde are added to the collection. The author a teacher in the Horace Mann Schools, and her book has come to be accepted as th most delightful introduction to Wagner and Teutonic legend.

WHITLOCK. The Thirteenth District.

By Brand Whitlock. 12mo, cloth $1.5

A realistic western story of love and politics, and a searching study of their influen on character. The author shows, with extraordinary vitality of treatment, the tricks, th heat, the passion, the tumult of the political arena, the weariness and stubbornness of deadlock, the triumph and strength of love. In speaking of the "The Thirteenth Di trict," Ex-President Cleveland once said: "That book interested me greatly because deals with matters which persons acquainted with politics know about." Mr. Willia Dean Howells calls it "the best American political novel that has ever been done."

WHITLOCK.—Continued.—Her Infinite Variety.

With twelve full-page illustrations in photogravure by Howard Chandler Christy. Decorated by Ralph Fletcher Seymour. 12mo, cloth, in a box.....$1.50

With this novel of love and laughter, Mr. Whitlock has opened a new vein in the mine of humor. The story centers around an effort to pass a bill for woman's suffrage in the Legislature of Illinois. A new theme, good dialogue and happy repartee make the story distinctive, the clearly-drawn characters at once become our friends, and the world-old truth is emphasized anew that the greatest charm of woman is Her Infinite Variety.

"Its whole atmosphere is quite as fascinating as anything we recall in modern light literature."—Philadelphia Record.

The Happy Average.

12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A thoroughly American story of a young man who found himself. Mr. Whitlock here draws interesting characters with the artistic sympathy and fineness for which he is noted. He tells how a young college graduate fell in love with a winsome girl, became engaged to her, went out into the world to fight for a place for himself, which he could ask her to share with him—and won. It is instinct with the essence of ambition.

The Turn of the Balance.

Illustrated by Jay Hambidge. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A book of the scope and breadth of Dickens, full of many characters, and revealing everywhere the author's wonderful insight into the springs of human action. Taken as a whole, it constitutes a tremendous arraignment of the law as it is administered in America to-day. But it impresses one first and most of all as a great drama made out of the stuff of actual life.

The Gold Brick.

12mo, cloth.....$1.50

These political stories by Toledo's mayor represent the best of the Brand. Each is a capital tale by a man who knows all the ins and outs of the great game. Sometimes love is mixed with the politics, but with or without it the reader finds himself absorbed. Marked by happy idealism, they declare anew that honesty is the best policy. They are sincere in sentiment, fearless in treatment, rich in humor, tender in pathos, in their human appeal irresistible.

WILLIAMS. The Praise of Lincoln.

An Anthology; compiled by A. Dallas Williams. With an introduction by Governor Thomas R. Marshall. 8vo, cloth.....net, $2.00

Here is a laurel wreath for Lincoln—America's tribute to the first American. In this martyr's crown is intertwined the amaranth of many famous names—the poetic contributions to his honor from Aldrich, Bryant, Gilder, Holmes, Julia Ward Howe, Lowell, Markham, Riley, Sill, Stedman, Bayard Taylor, Whittier and Walt Whitman. The Anthology includes as well many poems from singers of a lesser name or later fame, poems interesting by reason of occasion or association, poems intrinsically beautiful, and rescued from an undeserved oblivion.

WILSTACH. Thais.

A Play; by Paul Wilstach, author of The Life of Richard Mansfield. Illustrated with many photographs of the production. Narrow 12mo, cloth.....net, $1.00

Mr. Wilstach's dramatization of Anatole France's famous novel, which has been produced with remarkable success, possesses such unusual literary qualities as richly to deserve this publication in book form. It has the greatest of all themes for its foundation—the conflict of body and spirit. The dramatic clash develops when a vision comes to Damiel, the monk of the desert, that he must go unto Alexandria and save the souls of Thais, the beautiful courtezan.

WINTER. The Prize to the Hardy.

By Alice Winter. With drawings by R. M. Crosby. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"The Prize to the Hardy" has the buoyancy, the cheerfulness and the vigor of the new empire where its scene is laid—the great wheat country of the Northwest. The climax is a forest fire, described with a fervor and strength that make it one of the great pictures of modern fiction. If to be swift without obscurity, dramatic without melodrama, and witty without "smartness" render a story excellent, then "The Prize to the Hardy" is one of the best.

WINTER.—Continued.—Jewel-Weed.
Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. With inlay cover picture by Fisher. 12mo, cloth..$1.5
What will happen when the buoyant, high-spirited and keen-witted young man o family awakes and realizes that he is tied for life to a mere piece of beautiful flesh? Tha is the question Mrs. Winter answers in her second story of the Great Northwest. Sh answers it, of course, in her own original way, so clever, so cheerful, so vital and so dis tinguished.

WOOD. Modern Business Corporations.
By William Allen Wood, M. S., LL. B. With forms for the organization and manage ment of corporations, by Louis B. Ewbank, LL. B. 8vo, cloth, 380 pages,
.....Postage 20c, net, $2.5
This book contains a complete discussion of the financial side of corporations, th capitalization, promotion, sale of stocks and bonds, corporate credit and accounting, be sides a summary of the decisions of the courts on the law of corporations and an analysi of the laws of the liberal states. The management of corporations is taken up in detail so that the lawyer, officer, director or stockholder of corporations or the student of com mercial subjects may get a clear, definite and comprehensive idea of corporate affairs

WOODROW. The Silver Butterfly.
By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow. Illustrated in color by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo cloth.....$1.5
The story of a South American mine, rich beyond dreams, and of a New York maiden beyond dreams beautiful—both known as the Silver Buterfly. "Well named is The Silver Butterfly! There could not be a better symbol of the darting swiftness, th eager love plot, the elusive mystery and the flashing wit."—Nashville American.

The Beauty.
Illustrated by Will Grefé. 12mo, cloth.....$1.5
How a beautiful woman rebels, how she gets her freedom and her right t prove that she has something more than beauty, how her husband learns her great worth and she his lovableness, only Mrs. Woodrow must tell. She does it with great bril liancy, sparkle and vivacity. This story of New York is full of humor, charm and colo and moves with rapidity and unerring certainty to a striking and happy climax. The Beauty is a House of Mirth, lacking the ugly shadow of tragedy, and having a humo and a wit unknown to Mrs. Wharton's success.

WYLIE. The Native Born.
By I. A. R. Wylie. Illustrated by John Newton Howitt. 12mo, cloth.....$1.5
This is a tale of the English in India to-day—an India later than that with which Kipling and Mrs. Steele have dealt, but still darkly romantic, the scene of pomp and fabulous wealth, of sudden perils and volcanic uprisings, of the world-old mystical East in conflict with the new progressive West. To enumerate the events of the plot, so dramatic, so romantic, so thrilling, would give the impression of a sensational book. But the author's best work is given to the play of character on character, of race on race.

Dividing Waters.
12mo, cloth.....net, $1.2
With the eyes of all the world but yesterday fixed on England and Germany wondering if war between them would really come, a novel that authoritatively and impartially presents both sides of the case through characters of powerful human interest is in the very nick of time. Dividing Waters is a big achievement. Tackling boldly a great international question—the social and governmental relations between two of the leading countries of the world—it arrives by absorbing situations to a deeply true, suggestive, well-balanced conclusion. Even more power and more freedom are displayed in this story than in its predecessor The Native Born.

The Germans.
Illustrated with many photographs. 8vo, cloth. Uniform with The Chinese, by John Stuart Thomson, and The South Americans, by Albert Hale.....net, $2.00
This impressions of a young English woman are singularly genial, sane, comprehensive, social and entertaining. They acquaint the reader thoroughly with conditions in modern Germany as seen in court, military and family life, but the facts are conveyed in so intimate, graceful and varied a style and with so light a touch that one has the feeling that one is reading a series of delightful letters from a traveler-friend. The next thing to traveling through Germany is to read The Germans.

Shorthand and Business Books.

Any of the books described on the following pages will be sent postpaid on receipt of price.

The Euclid Shorthand Manual is a new and up-to-date presentation of GRAHAM-PITMANIC Phonography. It is complete, comprehensive, and thoroughly practical. Three new departments are presented: Suggestive helps, a feature that lightens the labors of the instructor, and is exceedingly interesting and helpful to the learner. Nomenclature, or Naming of Outlines, adds greatly to the legibility of the writing. Nomenclature Word-signs, a collection of words, the names of whose outlines are the words represented. A distinctive feature: There are no words for which the principles have not already been explained, to be found in any illustrative reading or writing exercise. This principle includes every use of l, r, sh, s, z, w, y, and h. It is bound in half leather, and we believe its strength is not equaled by that of any other text-book. Merit crowds the Euclid Shorthand Manual from cover to cover. It must be examined to be fully appreciated. Correspondence solicited. Price net, $1.50

Euclid Shorthand Manual Copy Book. Especially designed for use in connection with the Euclid Shorthand Manual, and may be used supplementary to any Graham text. 50c.

Day's Complete Shorthand Manual. New Columbian edition. This text-book presents the Graham (Pitmanic) system of Shorthand, pure and simple, with such changes for its improvement as have been suggested by a large number of leading and experienced teachers of the subject. The plan of the book is perfectly adapted to the needs of all classes of students. With this Manual the student will accomplish the most in the shortest time. It has proven by the superior accomplishment of thousands of students its right to the permanent place it occupies in hundreds of schools of the country. It is equally well adapted for home study. Thoroughly revised, $1.00

Day's Shorthand Dictionary. Revised edition. Containing 20,000 common words, with their correct spelling, syllabication, pronunciation, definition and shorthand outline. With an appendix containing the names of the States and Territories and their Capitals, with shorthand outlines; Rules for Spelling, Capitalization and Punctuation; Common Abbreviations; Foreign Phrases and Commercial Terms. For writers of Graham and Pitman systems. Intellectually, a veritable marvel of condensation and accuracy, requiring over four years of time and many thousands of dollars in its preparation. Mechanically a piece of book jewelry. Size, 3½x6½ inches. Cloth, $1.00
Same, full moorcco, $1.50

Day's Shorthand Copy Book. While especially designed for use in connection with Day's Shorthand Manual, may be advantageously used with any modification of Graham or Ben Pitman. It is the purpose of the exercises contained in this book to exact of the student the necessary amount of careful practice to thoroughly fix the principles of the system in his mind. The Copy Book is a great aid in the acquisiton of a thorough mastery of the principles of Shorthand, and should be in the hands of every student. 25c

The Columbian Dictation Manual. Contains seventy carefully selected letters (representing forty-two different subjects) and twenty legal and commercial forms, is designed to follow immediately the completion of the Manual. These letters, with a few exceptions, represent the actual correspondence of business men. Every letter, legal and commercial form, is provided with an alphabetically arranged list of all the new words and important phrases in each, together with the names of the shorthand outlines. Every state and territory of the United States, their capitals, other important cities, months of the year, days of the week, numerals usually written in shorthand, and a variety of salutations and subscriptions, are features of the Manual. This book should be in the hand of every Graham and Pitman student. 75c

The Columbian Shorthand Mail Course. Thirty lessons in Shorthand. This course has been prepared for teaching by mail. Day's Complete Shorthand Manual, the most popular and perhaps the most extensively used text of today, furnishes the material for the course. Each lesson of the Manual, up to and including the twenty-ninth, is neatly published in pamphlet form. Lesson number thirty of the Manual has been substituted by one of general review, also in pamphlet form. Each lesson in the course is prefaced by a teacher's page of special instruction to the student. Considered from every standpoint, the course is unequalled. The lessons are logically and practically arranged. The explanations are complete and comprehensive. Set of thirty lessons, $1.50

Word-Signs and Contractions of the Graham System of Shorthand. The object of this book is to provide a complete list of the word-signs and contractions as contained in Day's complete Shorthand Manual of the Graham System. The words are arranged according to the letters of the shorthand alphabet and their various appendages, such as circles and loops, initial and final hooks, lenthening and shortening, thus making the list convenient for thorough study and reference. The plan of giving the nomenclature of the words instead of the engraved characters, compels an inestimable mental effort on the part of the learner which would otherwise be entirely lost. A thorough mastery of the word-signs and contractions outlined in this book will prove generally useful to those who aim to gain their livelihood in the profession of shorthand. Compiled by Prof. W. P. Steinhaeuser. 40c

Campbell's Economic School Register. This is the neatest and most excellently manufactured Register made in the country. Its utility is not less apparent than its artistic merit. The Block System originated and copyrightd by Prof Campbell, is most economical of time in keeping the record, and by the really wonderful condensation which it permits, is just as economical of money. One Register, which will last an ordinary school two years, costs but 75 cents by mail, postpaid, and a renewing Filler, lasting as much longer, costs less than half as much. In very attractive covers, with filler, complete, 75 cents; Fillers, manilla covers, 35 cents.

One Hundred Lessons in Business. By Seymour Eaton. A clearly-written and concise book of business practice, every page of which applies in the most direct and practical way to the everyday transactions of modern business. For instance, the various forms of commercial paper — checks, drafts, notes, and the like — are explained and illustrated; short cuts at figures—quick methods of addition and multiplication, the handling of fractions, etc.— are given, with examples; invoices, discounts, banking, and scores of other subjects are treated. There is a valuable section on commercial correspondence, and one who has mastered this, with its hints, helps and specimens, will be capable of writing a good business letter to meet almost any set of circumstances which can arise.. We do not know of any other publication which gives so much really practical, usable information and so little general discussion of theories which are little used, in anything like the space, or at anything like the price. There are 132 pages, 6¼x9¼, bound in strong cloth, red edges, 50c

GAMBRALL, REV. THEO. C. Church Life in Colonial Maryland. Balt., 1885, 12mo, pp. 314, 85c

A scarce book dealing capably with an interesting epoch.

This excellent work, now out of print, is not merely the record of a Parish or a County, but a consideration of the period and its characteristics in Colonial Maryland and adjacent territory with the idea suggested by its title as the central point. The list of authorities used shows plainly the author's intention to make of the book a valuable and permanent contribution to Colonial history. It was written with a design to correct the body of misapprehension which so long existed without clear and sane examination, and reviewing as it does the history of the Church and its influences from the beginning, forms a work of special interest to all readers who desire books treating Colonial America.

JONES, CHARLES C., JR. The History of Georgia. Two volumes, thick 8vo, many portraits, maps and folding plates, buckram, top edge gilt, uncut, $6.00.

Prof. Henry L. Osgood writing in "The Literature of American History," says: "One of the very best of the state histories. The author is the leading authority upon the subject, and has devoted great care to the collection of materials. The treatment is full, and in the text will be found many valuable documents. The style is smooth and agreeable. The first volume is devoted mainly to the history of Georgia under the trustees. Oglethorpe, the Wesleys and Whitefield are the central figures in it. The history of Georgia as a royal province, which follows, leads presently into the Revolution. To the share which Georgia bore therein nearly all of the second volume is devoted. The history closes with the achievement of independence."

uation between two navigable rivers, Delaware and Skulkill, with a portraiture or plat-form thereof, wherein the purchasers' lots are distinguished by certain numbers inserted, directing to a catalogue of the said purchasers' names. RIDDLE. A. G. The Life of the Vice President of the United States, Benjamin Franklin Wade. Cleveland, 1886, 12mo, pp. 310, fine engraved portrait by Sartain (slightly stained), 35c

A great bargain. The plates of this book were destroyed by fire and the volume is quite difficult to obtain. Mr. Riddle has written the only life of one of the foremost men of the country and it is done with the usual style and grace of this able writer. Ben Wade was born in 1800 and died in 1878. Was chosen prosecuting attorney in Ohio, Ohio State Senator, Judge of the Third Judicial District, United States Senator; pres.-pro.-tempore of the Senate and thus, Acting Vice President of the U. S. during 1867. His career throughout a long and active life forms one of the most interesting as well as important side lights on a period in this country's history which was most critical.

TEETOR, HENRY B. The Past and Present of Mill Creek Valley. Being a collection of historical and descriptive sketches of that part of Hamilton county, Ohio. Containing facts, incidents, and ancedotes illustrating the toils and privations, as well as the manners and customs, of the early settlers. Also, pen-portraits of the villages, suburban residences, and other improvements, designed to show the growth and development of this valley. Cinti., 1882, 12mo, pp. xii, 328, front, 60c

An account of the hardships endured by the pioneers in this region, with a chapter on the Miami Indians and the famous Little Turtle, their distinguished chief and counsellor. Chapters are devoted to the Battle of Fallen Timbers and Gen. Anthony Wayne, early Cincinnati, etc., and the narrative is interspersed with anecdotes and reminiscences in which the Indians figure largely. Especially interesting are the anecdotes of Bok-On-Ja-Ha-Lus and his friend, Kin-Ka-Box-Kie. A scarce and desirable item.

WILLIAMS, HELEN MARIA. Narrative of Events Which Have Taken Place in France from the Landing of Napoleon Bonaparte, on the first of March, 1815, to the Restoration of Louis XVIII. The BOY CHUMS SERIES

By Wilmer M. Ely

In this series of remarkable stories by Wilmer M. Ely are described the adventures of two boy chums—Charlie West and Walter Hazard—in the great swamps of interior Florida and among the cays off the Florida Coast, and through the Bahama Islands. Judging from the books already published, those to come will furnish enough adventure and excitement to hold the attention of the reader from cover to cover. These are real, live boys, and their experiences are well worth following. If you read one book you will surely be anxious for those that are to follow.

Evelyn Sharp—Charles Robinson

THE CHILD'S CHRISTMAS.

Pictures by Charles Robinson, Text by Evelyn Sharp. Large 4to, cloth elegant, gilt edges, price 2.00.

In nearly two hundred charming illustrations in color and black-and-white the artist tells pictorially what the author describes in words—the events of Christmas Eve; the visit of Santa Claus; the joys of Christmas Day; the Christmas party; the Christmas pantomime; the outdoor sports; all, in fact, that makes Christmas a time of pure delight to the young, and to grown-ups a season of kindness and good-will. In the sumptuousness of its get-up, the richness of binding, the quality of paper, the technical excellence of printing, and the care that has been lavished on the reproduction of the color and line illustrations, The Child's Christmas is a triumph of modern book production.

"We doubt whether anybody will ever do anything better or finer in this type of gift book."
—The Standard.

"As bright and Christmasy a volume as heart could wish."—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE STORY OF THE WEATHERCOCK.

Stories for Children by Evelyn Sharp. With 16 colored plates, and the text fully illustrated with black-and-white drawings by Charles Robinson. Large 4to, cloth elegant, full gilt and gilt edges, price 2.00.

In this beautiful volume Miss Evelyn Sharp relates in her inimitable style, with many pretty touches of fancy, the story of the Weathercock and of the interesting doings and fortunes of children whom he has watched from his exalted position, particularly one lively baby who can understand the wonderful things the Weathercock has to tell. Children will be charmed by the tale, and by the beautiful drawings (nearly 200 in all, many of them colored) with which Mr. Charles Robinson, one of the most popular of living artists, has illustrated it.

"This is certainly the best Christmas book for children we have seen this year, and the sheer beauty of its illustrations will make it a pleasure to handle to many who are no longer children."
—Public Opinion.

Florence Harrison

IN THE FAIRY RING: A Book of Verses and Pictures for Children.

With 24 beautiful colored plates, and black-and-white drawings on every page. Bound in cloth with an exquisite design in gold, and special end-papers. Large quarto, gilt edges, price 2.00.

Never before has such a delightful book as this been prepared for children Poet Laureate of the Nursery is not too lofty a title to confer on the author of the verses it contains, and it is hardly possible to speak too highly of the charming illustrations. The verses are superior to some of the so-called children's classics in that while they are children's verses for children, not for grown-ups, they have at the same time a poetic quality that will be appreciated by all people with literary taste. The publishers have done everything in their power to make the material equipment of the book worthy of the contents. The text and line drawings are printed in a beautiful shade of grey on a high-quality supercalendered paper which has been specially made for the purpose, and the plates have been carefully reproduced by the latest and most improved process, so that the artist's exquisite coloring has been preserved. The sumptuous cloth cover is a triumph of modern bookbinding.

THE RHYME OF A RUN, and other Verse for Children, Written and Pictured by Florence Harrison.

With 24 drawings in full color, beautifully reproduced and mounted on grey art paper, and many in outline. Sumptuously bound in cloth, price 2.00.

In every respect this book is unique. Miss Harrison is both a poet and an artist of a high order. Her verses are rhymes for children with the true ring of the classic nursery rhymes, but at the same time they are poems which will appeal to grown-ups by reason of their quaint fancy and their melodious phrasing. Her drawings are original both in conception and style, and will delight not only children but all lovers of art. The colored plates have been reproduced by the latest and most improved process, so that the artist's rich and beautiful coloring—a special feature of her work—has been preserved; and they are mounted on grey art paper. The text and the line drawings are beautifully printed on the same paper, and the book is sumptuously bound in cloth covers, with colored cover design. Altogether it is a strikingly original and highly artistic gift-book.

THE ARABIAN NIGHTS: Selected and Retold for Children by Gladys Davidson.

Illustrated by Helen Stratton. Large crown 8vo, cloth extra, olivine edges, 1.50 net.

In this handsome volume appears a selection from the best of the Arabian Nights stories, retold in such a manner as to appeal successfully to children, while retaining much of their original quality. The book, handsomely bound in a striking cover, is profusely illustrated by Miss Stratton, who enjoys a great reputation as an illustrator of fairy tales. Of the illustrations no less than sixty-six are full-page, and of that large number twenty-six are in color, of which three are double-page. There are as well numerous black-and-white illustrations throughout the text. The volume is eminently suitable for younger readers.

Eliza Pollard

A NEW ENGLAND MAID: A Tale of the American Rebellion.

Illustrated by Frank Wiles. 12mo, cloth extra, price 1.25.

A stirring tale of the war for American independence, which introduces such historical characters as Washington, the chivalrous Major André, and the traitor Benedict Arnold. The chief interest of the story rests with Hannah Arnold, the Puritan maid, sister of Benedict. At the beginning of the story Benedict has just been appointed Governor of Philadelphia. But his ambitions are too great for the emoluments of his office, and he is cashiered at headquarters. Given the important strategic post of West Point, he conspires to sell it to the English. Major André is appointed as go-between, and, by a piece of black treachery, is betrayed on American soil. Hannah's despair and her journey to save him, with its lack of result, are told by Miss Pollard with unflagging interest.

KING TIME

OR, THE MYSTICAL LAND OF THE HOURS

By PERCY KEESE FITZHUGH
Illustrated by L. J. BRIDGMAN

The Most Original Book for Children Published in a Decade

" King Time, or, The Mystical Land of the Hours," is the story of a little boy who sits in front of the tall hall clock, and as he hears the clock strike wonders where the hours go when they pass away. While so wondering he falls asleep, and dreams that he is visiting the mystical kingdom of Father Time. He meets King Time, and also innumerable imps who represent the various hours of history. He meets the old Duke of " Proscrastination," who is waging war against King Time, and becomes involved in the military preparations, etc. Finally the little boy becomes tired of waiting for the duke, and in the midst of his duties as King Time's official spy wakes up to find the governess, who has just entered, staring at him in surprise.

The different imps, each representing some momentous event in the world's history, all tell their stories of what they saw when sojourning in the world, to the great amusement and often astonishment of the little boy. The little imps representing the hours, minutes, jiffies, etc., are grotesquely significant of the general theme of " Time," bearing resemblance to clock work, clock faces, etc. The houses in which the imps live are in the shape of clocks — alarm clocks, Swiss clocks, Cuckoo clocks, etc. Printed on fine finished paper, with over 100 text and eight full-page half-tone illustrations. Bound in cloth, with original cover design. Size, 7 1-4 x 8 3-4.

New and original double cover design in many colors.

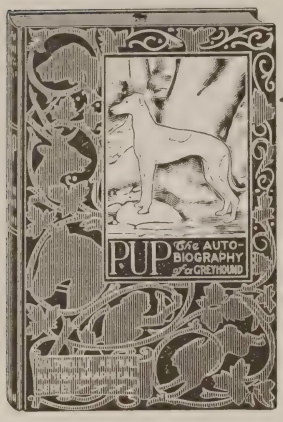
NEW POPULAR ILLUSTRATED EDITION



ANIMAL AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL SERIES

The volumes in this series will each inculcate kindness toward dumb animals in the mind of the child by showing that our pets have feelings as well as ourselves. Each animal tells his own story entirely, and as far as possible the incidents are taken from life. Unlike so many of the animal stories of the day, however, they are not people simply dressed in animal attire, but each story, being a careful study of the pet's life and manners by the author, carries out as far as possible the thoughts the animal itself would have if he were able to tell his own story.

Each volume is printed on extra fine laid paper, with frontispiece in color, and fully illustrated in half-tone by the best artists, excepting where possible photographs taken from life are used. 12mo. Bound in cloth, with an appropriate inlay for the subject.

Price, each, $1.00

1 BLACK BEAUTY, The Autobiography of a HORSE

By ANNA SEWELL. Fully Illustrated by H. Toaspern, Jr.

A new edition of this delightful and famous classic, fully illustrated. Its invaluable influence of imparting humanity and kindness in the treatment of all animals is proverbial and it should be read by all young people.

2 PUP, The Autobiography of a GREYHOUND

By OLLIE HURD BRAGDON. Illustrations from photographs.

Mrs. Bragdon has here given us a true and most readable story of her greyhound. The volume abounds in interest throughout, and it is safe to say the book will not be laid aside until "Pup" at the end finds his brother and mother, from whom he was stolen while a small puppy, and proves his worth to the blue ribbons he receives in the shows.

3 YOPPY, The Autobiography of a MONKEY

By MOLLIE LEE CLIFFORD. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman.

The organ-grinder's monkey is familiar to all children, but they only see his life from what seems the bright side, but in this entertaining book it will be found his life is not so bright as his little red coat. At last, however, he reaches his comfortable home again, where he is forever up to mischievous tricks.

4 NEDDY, The Autobiography of a DONKEY

By GERTRUDE SELLON. Edited by Charles Welsh. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman.

An interesting account of a donkey, the pet of the family, and especially of his young mistress. He is stolen, and his return to his home shows more sagacity than a donkey is usually credited with. It is a true story, and vouched for on good authority.

5 POLLY, The Autobiography of a PARROT

By MOLLIE LEE CLIFFORD. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman.

An entertaining story of the life of a parrot, from his birth in South America, to the time he reaches a home where loving care is always given him. A mischievous bird, but possessing much common sense, and as to his vocabulary, — well, read the book, — it is a true story, too.

BOOKS FOR BOYS

It is of peculiar interest to know that Captain F. S. Brereton, a soldier and the son of a soldier, who, as a writer of stories of military history, carries on the tradition of Henty, is a close kinsman of that king of boys' writers. Like Henty he has been much to the wars. He knows what it means to be under fire, to undergo hunger and cold and physical exhaustion in long solitary treks across the veldt, to fall into the hands of the enemy, to succor the wounded after battle. Captain Brereton knows intimately the actualities of war, just as Henty did. He has been far and seen much, from Burma to the veldt and the deserts of Egypt, and is well able to tell the stories of great campaigns, illuminated by the light of his own personal experiences.

CAPTAIN F. S. BRERETON

PRESS OPINIONS

"Captain F. S. Brereton, upon whom the mantle of Henty seems to have fallen and clothed him with a power greater than his. In his graphic, vivid and powerful manner he relates the events that led up to the conquest of Canada, and to the supremacy of the Anglo-Saxon race in the new world." — Herald, Los Angeles.

"Boys will read Captain Brereton's books for the author's sake, as well as for the stories themselves, for the gallant young officer is a seasoned campaigner, and both in India and Africa has undergone all the experiences which make so exciting and hazardous a soldier's life." — Times-Union, Albany.

"It is a pleasing combination of historical fact and fiction, and the author carefully avoids falsifying history in order to make his story more interesting. The book contains maps of value and the illustrations are not without historical import." — Union, Springfield.

"So far from showing any signs of exhaustion, his imaginative gifts seem to gain in strength and freshness as the years pass. . . . The book is full of realistic pictures of savage life as it actually exists, and the author's experiences enable him to depict warfare in the dark corners of the Empire with an accuracy of detail to be envied by most of his rivals in the same field of fiction." — The Outlook.

"Since the death of Mr. Henty no writer of boys' stories has made a more sensational advance in the estimation of boys and girls than has Captain Brereton." — The Standard.

New Books for 1911

TOM STAPLETON, THE BOY SCOUT

From first to last this tale deals with the movements of the Slimington troop of Boy scouts. It tells how Tom Stapleton had had doubts of joining the troop, lest it should be infra dig., and how he rather shuddered at the idea of rubbing shoulders with all sorts and classes. However, a series of circumstances caused him to join, incidentally also providing him with a very bitter enemy in the form of Raines, a rough who had done his utmost to break up the Slimington Scouts. The committal of a crime calls for the help of the Boy Scouts, and from that time onward, the art of spooring comes to the fore. Almost every class of tracking is portrayed, while the lessons on deduction are such that they are likely to appeal to the imagination and keenness of every scout. It may be added, and it is no condemnation of the hero, that Tom's ideas, which were at first somewhat snobbish, receive a healthy check, for he discovers that he is the son of a rich grocer.

THE HERO OF PANAMA

A Story of the Great Canal

The hero is one of those unfortunate fellows who, when not yet out of their teens, find themselves homeless and without parents, with a young sister to support; and this tale recounts how he puts a manly shoulder to the wheel, and how, having by an act of bravery won a post on the Panama Canal works, he proceeds to improve his position. Vying in interest with his movements are the descriptions of the mighty task America is undertaking, and those of a mechanical turn of mind, and they are legion, will find much here to attract them. But it is not all work and no play. Spanish laborers give a deal of trouble while brigands and natives of the swamps combine to make life the reverse of unexciting. But our hero fights his way through all difficulties, his determination and pluck winning him a host of admirers.

THE GREAT AEROPLANE

A Tale of Adventures in Mid-air

Illustrated by EDWARD S. HODGSON

In these times, when flying is no longer an impossibility, it may be as well to bear in mind that the aeroplane and the dirigible airship of to-day are in all probability but the crude, experimental models of those to be hereafter designed. In this tale the writer has endeavored to draw a picture of the perfect flying vessel, not one bristling with intricate machinery, but a heavier-than-air machine of huge proportions and of extreme simplicity. Exciting incidents follow one another swiftly, so much so that the object for which the vessel was constructed is almost neglected. But, in the end, it is securely accomplished, and the Essex Ghost returns after a voyage which may be described as one of exceptional interest.

INDIAN AND SCOUT

A Tale of the Gold Rush to California

Illustrated by WILLIAM RAINEY, R. I.

The days of the Californian gold rush are not so long ago that they have lost interest to the present generation. This tale of adventure tells how Jack Kingsley's father sought his fortunes at the mines, and how, in course of time, Jack himself made a journey in that direction. Incidentally the tale gives a picture of those hardy, honest, rough-living men of the West, to whose very hardiness America owes much of her territory to-day.

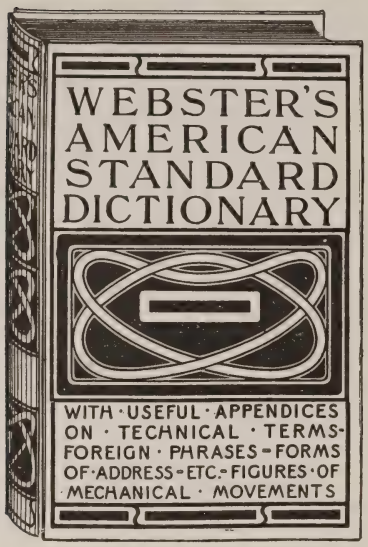
WEBSTER'S AMERICAN STANDARD DICTIONARY



Revised and Corrected to Date

With useful Appendices on

Terms and Measures used in Physics, Engineering, etc. Foreign Words, Phrases, and Sayings; Abbreviations and Contractions; Forms of Address; Moneys of the World; Weights and Measures; Principal Mechanical Movements Illustrated.

The very latest words have been included

Aerodrome, Aeroplane, Banzai, Black-hand, Camorra, Dope, Frazzle, Joy-rider, Molly-coddle, Push-ball, Nature-faker, Sleeping-sickness, Taxi-cab and many others that have come into use since the last revision of the older dictionaries.

The Best and Most Compact Low-Priced Lexicon Obtainable

It combines a judicious condensation of bulkier dictionaries with the most modern meaning and pronunciation of English words. Special efforts were made in the orthography to give the best usage of the United States, and where two spellings were almost equally recognized they are both given.

The system adopted in indicating pronunciation is by respelling, the key being always printed in the lower margin of the pages.

The uncertainties arising from the conjugation of irregular verbs, the plurals or irregular nouns, etc., have been provided for in the different forms shown in connection with the words to which they belong. Thus the forms cropping, cropped, and cropt are given with the different verbs to crop; dying and died with die; the plurals of the noun die, i. e., dies and dice, are plainly distinguished; with dictum is shown its plural dicta, etc.

The appendices will prove especially valuable, in particular that one in which the latest terms commonly used in Electricity, Engineering, Physics, etc., are tabulated and explained at length, and the pictorial appendix which illustrates movements and devices in mechanics.

Finally, the publishers believe that the clearness of the definitions, the careful discrimination of the senses of the words, the large amount of matter the book contains, together with its typographical excellence, combine features which will appeal to the American who has use for a condensed lexicon.

Very convenient for the business man, home, desk and library. Invaluable to the teacher and scholar. 12mo (7⅜ x 5 inches), 1¼ inches thick. Nearly 500 pages. Fine cloth binding. Price, 50 cents

MY HIGH SCHOOL DAYS

A MEMORY BOOK

Decorations and Illustrations by L. J. BRIDGMAN

The happy days of life in High School, so dear to all girls, are too easily forgotten as years go by, and the pleasant association with some "chum," the delight of some dance, the memories of some teacher, kind, fond, and patient, quickly fade away as the "sweet girl graduate" enters upon her duties of womanhood. The college girl has her memory book, as has "My Lady" in society, and the younger set are now remembered in "My High School Days," decorated and illustrated by L. J. Bridgman. Here, from her entrance in High School through the four years to the day of her graduation, the school girl has a place for recording all her interests.

SOME PRESS OPINIONS

"Probably the most elaborate and complete work of its kind ever issued. Every page is delightfully and artistically decorated in color and is bound in a very attractive manner. The record can be kept as an artistic memento for years to come. There could scarcely be a more appropriate or more appreciated gift than this for the graduate." — Pittsburgh Press.

"A book to delight the heart of the girl graduate. It is a beautifully bound book, boxed, and contains, on decorated pages, spaces for graduating program, and all the other things that in after years will bring back such delightful memories to the young woman. The book, which is really a most artistic production, was the idea of Marion L. Peabody. As a hint for a graduation present, this book may well be kept in mind." — School Journal, Elizabeth, N. J.

"A sumptuously ornamented scrap book, designed for girl graduates who wish to commemorate the important events and incidents of their school or college career. The designs which ornament all the pages are artistic; if we were to indulge in the vernacular of the school girls we should say that the word 'scrumptious' best describes the book." — Sunday Union, Springfield, Mass.

THE COMMUTER'S GARDEN RECORD

Written and Illustrated by AMY CAROL RAND

The "Commuter's Garden Record" offers an opportunity to record all that is done in the flower garden, what is planted and when, giving a chance to note all successes — and failures — for several years. There are planting-tables, with general suggestions for the culture of about seventy-five of the old garden favorites, and a reminder of what to do in the garden month by month. The book will be of aid both to the amateur and the professional; to the former, it will open the door to garden success, and to the latter, it will furnish an opportunity to record the success that has already been attained. THE LEGENDS OF PARSIFAL

"There has perhaps never been given so clear and so simple an interpretation of these legends as in this volume, nor one so permeated with exalted thought and exquisite spiritual imagery." — Lillian Whiting.

POEMS FROM PUNCH

IN TWO VOLUMES

With Introductions by Sir Francis C. Burnand and Arthur Waugh

It must be reckoned one of the curiosities of literature that a source whence we have Hood's "Song of the Shirt," Tom Taylor's "Abraham Lincoln," and a host of other pieces which have given Punch its peculiar hold on popular favor should have lain so long neglected. The volumes are worthy of their contents; there is a characteristic introduction to Volume I by the oldest hand on Punch, Sir Francis C. Burnand, pleasantly retrospective and dealing with interesting questions of authorship, while that in Volume II is by Arthur Waugh, the celebrated critic.

Printed in heavy bold-face type on pure rag paper, deckled edges. Bound in an artistic combination of art linen and green cartridge paper, gilt top. Price, $4.00 net

NAPOLEON'S BOOK OF FATE

The Book, of which it is a translation, was obtained from Bonaparte's Cabinet of Curiosities, at Leipsic, during the confusion which reigned there after the defeat of the French army. It was held by him as a sacred treasure; and it is said to have been a stimulus to most of his speculations, he being used to consult it on every occasion.

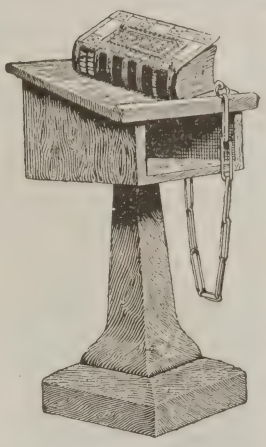
MINIATURE CHAINED BIBLE AND LECTERN



A Tercentenary Souvenir
1611-1911

COMMEMORATION OF
The Authorized Version of
THE ENGLISH BIBLE

A little memento of the tercentenary of the English Bible, the commemoration of which will take place this year, widely throughout England and noticeably in America. The memento consists of a miniature model of a lectern made of wood, on which is chained a copy of the "Mite" Bible, bound in Lambskin. The smallest edition ever printed. Bibles were so rare in olden times it was necessary to chain them to lecterns and other places. The chain is a facsimile of what may be seen in Hereford and other cathedrals. The Bible can easily be read with a magnifying glass, which is supplied. The creation is not alone happy in conception, but charmingly appropriate to the interesting occasion. Height of Lectern, 5½ inches. Size of Bible, 1¼ x 1¾.

A BOOK OF BRIDGE

By PONTIFEX

This little book forms a complete manual to the subject, embracing a general description of the game; a working theory of the Declaration of No Trumps founded upon analysis and detailed experiment; hints as to the play of the cards both by the dealer and his adversaries; a statement of the recognized leads; and a code of the newly revised Laws of Bridge. The more important points on which opinion varies among good players and in different countries are discussed, and the arguments for each method of play stated.

Much care has been bestowed upon the get-up of the volume. Of a handy pocket size, it is beautifully printed in red and black, and bound in soft leather. Limp leather cover, gilt edges. Illustrated.

THE BRIDGE WINNER

A Guide to Success at the Game of Bridge

By "CUT CAVENDISH"

The advice contained within these pages is of the soundest, the arrangement is good and by simple stages "Cut Cavendish" explains the why and the wherefore of each principle involved, making every point as clear and unelaborate as possible. The result is a bright and cheery book written in a happy vein, and easy to read, in which respect the author can claim a rare achievement, seeing that most books on cards are tedious in the extreme.

The book includes a most interesting chapter which deals with some of those differences of opinion that still divide many of the leading experts of the present day.

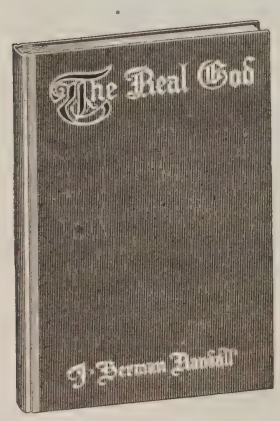
The NEW PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE SERIES

By J. HERMAN RANDALL

STIRRING ESSAYS ON THE SCIENTIFIC AND RELIGIOUS PRINCIPLES UNDERLYING THE NEW THOUGHT MOVEMENT



We are living to-day in the midst of a profound thought movement, which has found expression in many different forms, each embodying certain truths, and each open to criticism — Christian Science, Mental Science, Metaphysical Healing, Faith Cure, The Emmanuel Movement, various New Thought Centres, etc. The writer believes that the time has come when flippant ridicule, mere criticism and wholesale condemnation should give place to intelligent insight and wise discrimination; that it is possible to-day to separate the truth from the error, always attendant upon the appearance of new truth; that the truly Scientific and Religious principles underlying all these kindred phases of thought, can and should be clearly set forth, and their truth applied to human life in the whole range of its experience. In this series such an attempt is made, in the hope that the philosophy of life herein set forth may tend, for some minds at least, to bring Science and Religion into closer harmony, and help to throw new light upon the pathway that leads to fullness of Peace and Power.

I. The Real God.
II. The Subconscious Mind.

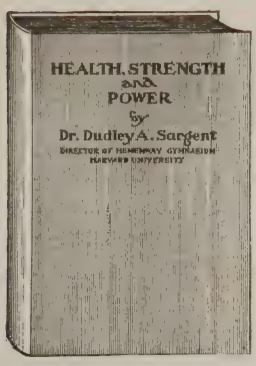
The New Authoritative Work on Physical Culture

HEALTH, STRENGTH and POWER

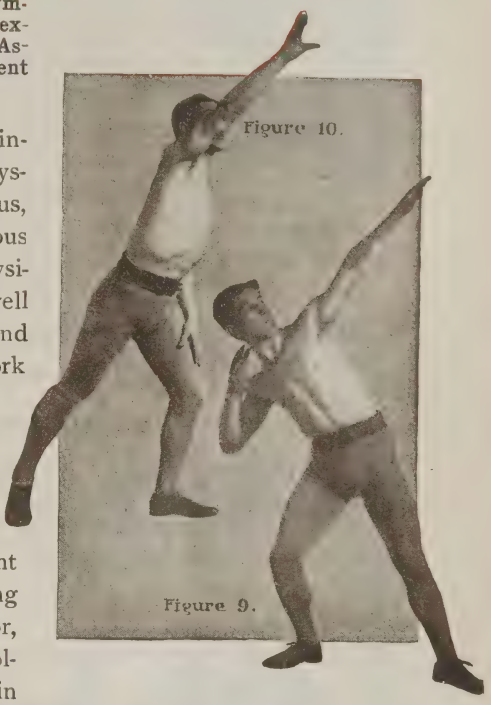
By

DUDLEY ALLEN SARGENT, A. M., Sc. D., M. D.



Director of Hemenway Gymnasium, Harvard University, ex-President of the American Association for the Advancement of Physical Culture

Doctor Sargent's many inventions of the modern system of gymnasium apparatus, together with his numerous articles and papers on physical training, are so well known that a new and thoroughly up-to-date work on Physical Culture by an author who is without doubt the recognized authority on the subject will command immediate interest. The general public are becoming more and more enthused on the science of cultivating Health and Strength. In this work Doctor Sargent has aimed to make it even more popular by devising a series of exercises which require no apparatus whatever. for, as he states, "it is not the athletic or college student in whose life physical activity plays a considerable part, but the professional or business man, who leads a sedentary life, and has no longer the incentive of youth nor spirit of athletic rivalry to urge him on."



Doctor Sargent has been director of Harvard's gymnasium since 1879, and his work there has made the students of the university, as a body — apart from those who engage in college athletics — probably the best physically equipped young men to be found anywhere. His exercises and methods have been adopted all over the world. Not only was most of the gymnastic apparatus now in general use invented by him and the manner of its use of his contriving, but many of the various drills devised to give exercise without the use of any more complicated mechanical assistance than dumb-bells and Indian Clubs.

With over one hundred half-tone illustrations from original photographs furnished by the author. 12mo, cloth, limp cover. Price, $1.75 net

CYNICAL KIDS

OR THE STORK BOOK

By NEWTON NEWKIRK

With illustrations by WALLACE GOLDSMITH

Following a sarcastic preface to the book is an introductory in which the author states it is an old fact that the parents of babies do not know how to raise their offspring. The sisters, cousins, aunts, and neighbors, everybody knows — but the parents. Having served his apprenticeship as a baby he feels competent to add his testimony. This book tells how to raise a baby and do the work in your own home.

It is brimful of good humor, and the illustrations by Wallace Goldsmith are grotesque and telling. Parents or prospective parents need this book.

Sonnets from the Portuguese. By ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING. 1

In the "Sonnets from the Portuguese," a most exquisite series of love poems, we have Mrs. Browning at her best. She has broken away from that stiffness and artificiality which characterizes her earlier poems, and in sentiment and lofty rhyme is at times truly Shakespearian.

Virginibus Puerisque. By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON. 2

Since, unfortunately, most of our juvenile literature nowadays is the work of "hack" writers, it is refreshing to find a work for boys and girls written by a man of genius. "Virginibus Puerisque" stands high among Mr. Stevenson's writings, and is enjoyed by both old and young.

Friendship and Love. By RALPH WALDO EMERSON. 3

Mr. Emerson is no bookish theorist. He does not draw his conclusions from syllogisms, but from his personal observations of men and things. The essays on Friendship and Love, two of his most human, being subjects akin to each other, are published together as a single volume.

Heroism and Character. By RALPH WALDO EMERSON. 4

As Friendship and Love are linked, so Heroism and Character are complementary. In fact, we perceive a strong connection between the four subjects. For friendship deepens in love, and from love for one's neighbor, one's family, one's State, comes heroism, and heroism is the essential element of a noble character.

Poor Richard's Almanac. By BENJAMIN FRANKLIN. 5

A selection of the best sayings from the numerous issues of "Poor Richard." Helpful and inspiring; the work of a most practical mind, written for a most practical nation.

The School for Scandal. By SHERIDAN. 6

Sheridan's comedies are second only to Shakespeare's. "The School for Scandal," undoubtedly his masterpiece, has had an undiminished popularity from the moment it was published to the present day.

Destruction of Pompeii. By PLINY AND BULWER. 7

Two interesting descriptions of the Destruction of Pompeii: one by Pliny, the greatest scientist of the ancient world, who wrote as an eye-witness; the other the well-known and thrilling account from Lord Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii."

Sir Roger de Coverley Papers. BY ADDISON. 8

The famous "Sir Roger de Coverley Papers" are not only treasured by all students of English literature, but by historians as well. For nowhere do we find a finer description of English life in the eighteenth century than in these papers. Furthermore, in the character of Sir Roger we find the finest delineation in English literature of an ideal gentleman.

Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius. SELECTIONS. 9

Marcus Aurelius was the purest and loftiest of the pagan philosophers. "His great work, 'The Thoughts,'" says Lecky, "not only forms one of the most impressive, but also forms one of the truest books in the whole range of religious literature."

Lord Chesterfield's Letters. SELECTIONS. 10

These letters of sound counsel and practical advice, addressed to his son Philip, are what Lord Chesterfield's reputation rests upon, and it is through these that the name of Chesterfield has become symbolic of culture and refinement.

Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. 11

The "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam" is one of the greatest contributions that the East has given to literature. The subtle thought, the soft Oriental imagery, and the delicacy of the poetry will appeal to the poetic imagination of all ages.

Milton. BY LORD MACAULAY. 12

A profound and masterly essay on the leader of English literature of the seventeenth century by the leading literary critic of the nineteenth century.

Enoch Arden. BY ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON. 13

In "Enoch Arden" we have one of the most beautiful and pathetic poems in the English language. Had Tennyson never written another line, he would have gone down in history as one of the greatest poets of his time.

Rip Van Winkle and The Legend of Sleepy Hollow. BY WASHINGTON IRVING. 14

These immortal stories of Dutch life in colonial New York are the best pieces of writing that Mr. Irving contributed to literature. The pathos, quaintness, and wit are impressed upon the reader in a striking way.

Rochefoucauld's Maxims. 15

These maxims, written by a cavalier of Richelieu's times, one who knew the world as few have an opportunity of knowing it, are witty, subtle, and true. The author has grasped the whole of life, and weakness of human nature, of fashion and conventionalities are strongly depicted.

Rab and His Friends. BY DR. JOHN BROWN. 16

"Rab and His Friends," a story of a mastiff, full of beauty and pathos, is, in its line, only rivalled by "Black Beauty." In this volume the story of Marjorie Fleming, an interesting case of remarkable precociousness, is also published.

She Stoops to Conquer. BY OLIVER GOLDSMITH. 17

"She Stoops to Conquer" is a comedy abounding in the keenest wit and satire. Human nature is depicted by a masterly observer, and the characters of the play are true to life.

Old Christmas. BY WASHINGTON IRVING. 18

An ideal picture of an old-fashioned Christmas in rural England. The good old customs, and the quaint games handed down from generation to generation, are pictured in a most interesting manner.

Vision of Sir Launfal. BY JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL. 19

This great poem is drawn from the famous romance of King Arthur and the Holy Grail, a theme which has furnished inspiration to so many great minds. The "Vision of Sir Launfal" is the best of Lowell's shorter poems.

Leaves of Grass. SELECTIONS. BY WALT WHITMAN. 20

Walt Whitman is looked upon as the one distinctive American poet, the product of our New World democracy. Though perhaps lacking in grace, his poems are inspired by his enthusiasm and humanitarianism, and in every line the reader sees the personality of the poet, — noble, generous, and lofty, — a great man in the highest sense of the word.

Elegy and Other Poems. BY THOMAS GRAY. 21

The "Elegy in a Country Churchyard" occupies as secure a place among English classics as "Hamlet" or "Paradise Lost," but some readers may not realize that several other poems by Gray are equally perfect and impressive. This collection contains all of Gray's verse which is really worth knowing.

Sweetness and Light. BY MATTHEW ARNOLD. 22

An epoch-making essay, by one of the most cultured, practical, and inspiring minds of our century. Arnold's simplicity and charm of style, no less than his weighty message, have already given him an assured place among classic writers.

Golden Thoughts. BY ARCHBISHOP FENELON. 23

Judiciously made extracts from the letters of the great archbishop. Fenelon united in his personality the sweetness of the saint with the strength of the reformer, and his personal correspondence contains the very heart and soul of religious devotion.

Wit and Wisdom. BY SIDNEY SMITH. 24

Extracts from Smith's writing and conversations, which flash with repartee, good-tempered satire and brilliant strokes of wit, and are characterized throughout by shrewd, irresistible common sense. The comments on America and Americans are alone worth the price of the little book.

A Christmas Carol. BY CHARLES DICKENS. 25

This familiar story possesses perennial interest for young and old, and it never has been presented in more attractive form. Whether regarded as a ghost story, a character study, or a parable, the "Christmas Carol" is one of the most brilliant and absorbing tales in English literature.

Will o' the Mill and Biographical Sketch. By R. L. Stevenson. *26

This little parable of a life contains a wonderful moral and is also an irresistibly fascinating story in itself, written in the most exquisite English. Many critics think it Stevenson's masterpiece. It is prefaced by a careful and adequate biographical sketch.

Men and Women. By Robert Browning. *27

Browning is known the world over for his deep-veined humanity and rare faculty of dramatic representation. These poems have as much red blood in them as the dramas of Shakespeare. The present volume contains all the principal favorites which have sung themselves into the memory of every reader who loves vigorous, manly poetry.

Napoleon Addresses and Anecdotes. 28

Napoleon was not only a consummate genius as general and ruler, he was also a man of extraordinary personality. So much of his magnetism and personal charm is preserved in these anecdotes and speeches, that we become completely en rapport with the great emperor, and cannot fail to share the enthusiasm of his contemporaries. The selections were made with greatest care especially for this edition.

Passion in the Desert, and an Episode in the Reign of Terror. Selected Prose Works of Honore de Balzac. 29

Balzac is thought by many competent authorities to be the greatest novelist of the world. His short stories are quite as remarkable in their way as his longer stories, and the very best of them are to be found in the present collection.

Poems of Sentiment. By Byron. 30

Probably no poet in the English-speaking world has ever held as high and well recognized a position as a "sentimentalist" as George Gordon, Lord Byron. His master lyrics dealing with the subject of love, consisting principally of his shorter poems, have been selected and edited with the greatest care for this edition.

Some Fruits of Solitude. Reflections and Maxims. By William Penn. *31

"To quote a book like this were impossible; at least one can hand it on, with a wrench, one to another. Some of the 'Fruits' are sounder, juicier, and grown against a sunnier wall of experience than others, but all are delicate, and the little basket which holds them will be found in all times and places a peaceful and sweet companion." — Robert Louis Stevenson.

Letters to a Young Man about Town. By William Makepeace Thackeray. 32

These charming but comparatively little known essays originally appeared in Punch, and, until the present edition, have been reissued in a volume by themselves but once, and then in a privately printed book now extremely rare. In his humorous and satirical manner, Thackeray shows up the follies and life of a young man about town in the middle of the nineteenth century.

Golden Wings. A Prose Romance and a Poem. By William Morris. 33

Two early productions of Morris's with the same title. The Prose Romance, written in 1856 while still a student at Oxford, and the Poem two years later, both of which show the irresistible and quaint charm apparent in all the later writings of this architect, painter, designer, craftsman, socialist, and author, — who, on the death of Tennyson, was thought by many would be the next Poet Laureate.

Selected Poems. By John Boyle O'Reilly. 34

Through several causes, but not lack of merit, Boyle O'Reilly is fast becoming merely a name to the generation of to-day. Therefore, pains have here been taken to perpetuate the choicest productions of his pen, — poems worthy of rank with the masterpieces of English literature. The volume is prefaced with an interesting personal sketch of O'Reilly, by Mr. William A. Hovey.

The Discourses of Epictetus. Selections. *35

In Sir John Lubbock's "List of the One Hundred Best Books," the Bible is first, the "Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius" second, and "Epictetus" third. The discourses here given have been carefully selected, and in each case the English revised with utmost care.

Evangeline. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. *36

The purity, sweetness, and refinement with which Longfellow delineates the affections of the heart make his poetry the most welcome of visitants at the domestic fireside, and of all his poems, "Evangeline" is probably the most popular.

The Holy Grail. By Alfred, Lord Tennyson. *37

This idyl, which must rank as one of the greatest of Tennyson's poetical achievements, came to him suddenly, "as if by a breath of inspiration." Of it the poet said, "I feared for years to touch the subject of the Holy Grail, and when I began, finished it in a fortnight."

Atala. By François René Auguste Chateaubriand. With a biographical sketch of the author. 38

A tale of an Indian maiden, charmingly written by one who in the old colonial days traversed the solitary wilds of North America, and who is a lover of nature and quaint Indian lore.

Armande. By Edmond and Jules de Goncourt. Translated by Alfred E. Haserick and with an introduction by W. D. Orcutt. 39

Of the Brothers Goncourt, Victor Hugo says, "Charming writers, two minds from which springs a single jet of genius." Armande is their masterpiece.

Corsair and Lara. By Lord Byron. With an introduction by M. F. Sweetser. 40

The extraordinary interest at the present time in Byron demands that two of his complete works be presented in this series. No better understanding of this "wild child of nature" can be obtained than in Corsair and Lara.

The Gold Bug. By Edgar Allan Poe. With a biographical sketch of the author. 41

A story of great effect and absorbing interest, one of those rare books that once opened is not closed until the last paragraph is finished.

Juliet and Romeo. From the Italian of Luigi da Porto. With an introductory essay by Dr. W. J. Rolfe. 42

A translation of the original story from which Shakespeare conceived the plot of "Romeo and Juliet." This edition is edited by Dr. W. J. Rolfe, the greatest living authority on Shakespeare.

L'Arlesienne. By Alphonse Daudet. With a biographical sketch by M. F. Sweetser. 43

L'Arlesienne is the best of Daudet's dramas, and is responsible for his fame as a playwright as well as a novelist.

Manon Lescaut. Vol. I. By L'Abbé Prévost. With an introduction by M. F. Sweetser. 44

Manon Lescaut. Vol. II. 45

Not only in French, but in the emotional literature of our world has Manon Lescaut taken a classical place, and is a profound lesson drawn from weakness of human nature.

Paul and Virginia. By Bernardin de St. Pierre. With a biographical sketch of the author. 46

One of the most beautiful works in romantic literature, a production which gave St. Pierre everlasting fame.

Peter Schlemihl. By Adelbert von Chamisso. With a biographical sketch of the author. 47

This fantastic tale has attained world-wide fame. Founded on the old superstition that the devil could take a man's shadow, poor Peter is driven from town to town and wanders over the whole world. To the young this story appeals as a fairy-tale, but for others it has a deep ethical significance.

Werther. By J. W. von Goethe. With a biographical sketch of the author. 48

To appreciate the romantic and sentimental nature of the mighty Goethe one must read Werther. Though o'ershadowed by the author's other works, yet Werther alone would have made him immortal.

Undine. By Friedrich, Baron de La Motte-Fouqué 49

The charming and graceful narrative, Undine, is a gem in German literature. It breathes of the fresh fragrance of the woods, and is animated by beautiful thoughts that people the sea and air with nymphs and spirits.

Tales of a Wayside Inn. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. 50

A long cherished plan of Longfellow's, containing some of the best of his shorter poems, the first part of which was brought out in 1863, and which met with immediate success. One poem, that of the "Midnight Ride of Paul Revere," is perhaps Longfellow's most famous short poem.

The King of the Golden River. By John Ruskin. 51

"The King of the Golden River" was written in 1841, at the request of a very young lady, and solely for her amusement, without any idea of publication. Later, with the passive assent of Ruskin, the charming allegory was publicly printed, and literature is thereby the gainer of this most pleasing little work.

Love Letters of a Violinist. By Eric Mackay. 52

Originally published in England, with the name of the author suppressed, these charming love sonnets created much discussion as to authorship, some even claiming they were the work of Swinburne, — from whom only it seemed could originate the fertility of thought, grace of language, ingenuity, skill in the ars poetica, wealth of words, and classic resources.

Sketches of Young Couples. By Charles Dickens. 53

Some of the earlier sketches of the immortal Dickens, in which, however, are seen the clear and wonderful characterization unequalled by any other modern author, and even unsurpassed in his later and better known works. His people live before you.

The Man Without a Country. By Edward Everett Hale. 54

Written to foster patriotism during the Civil War, "The Man Without a Country" still holds to-day as large a claim as ever on the English-reading public, and by its production alone Dr. Hale can claim the place of one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of living Americans.

Snow-Bound. By John Greenleaf Whittier. 55

"'Snow-bound' may fairly be said to sum up Whittier's personal experience, and yet so absolutely free is it from egotism that it has taken its place as the representative poem of New England country life quite as surely as Burns's 'The Cotter's Saturday Night' expresses one large phase of Scottish life," says H. E. Scudder.

Salome. By Oscar Wilde. 56

Originally published in French, "Salome" was translated into English the following year, and since then translations have appeared in Spanish, Swedish, German, Polish, and Russian, showing the truth of the German statement that to-day Oscar Wilde is a "World's Poet" and "Salome" a "World's Play."

The Ballad of Reading Gaol. By Oscar Wilde. 57

Only when neglected and despised, ill and miserable, did sincere feeling bring forth in Oscar Wilde his one great poem, "The Ballad of Reading Gaol;" the utter hopelessness of the condemned felon is communicated to the reader's mind in all its gruesome intensity. An account of Wilde's life while in prison by one of the warders of Reading Gaol is appended to the volume.

Sesame and Lilies. By John Ruskin. 58

However varied Ruskin's writings are they are ever inspired with an artistic spirit and a desire to awaken a love for the beautiful. In these charming essays on literature and other subjects no better example of his strong ethical temperament can be found.

Poems from Punch. Selected By Rev. Albert E. Sims. 59

Throughout the world this weekly paper devoted to humorous and satirical comments on current events is known. It is doubtful, however, if the whole story of its origin will ever be known; but its first issue was July 17, 1841, and this careful selection dates from that year. Among its contributors are to be found the foremost writers of the last century.

Lady Montagu. Selected Letters. 60

Lady Mary Montagu, who lived from 1690 to 1762, derived her marvellous literary talents from her relationship to Henry Fielding the novelist and Sir John Evelyn the diarist. As wife of the then ambassador to Turkey she saw and wrote many interesting and original accounts of Eastern life and customs.

Courtship of Miles Standish. 61

By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The incident on which the story of The Courtship of Miles Standish is based was a tradition in the family of the author and is a good portrayal of early colonial life, showing the relations existing between the colonists and the Indians.

Unto This Last. By John Ruskin. 62

Present day developments strikingly justify the reasonings and conclusions of this pioneer sociologist and altruist.

The CHARACTER AND WISDOM SERIES

NEW EDITION, 1911

A series of stories and short popular treatises on self-culture, ethics, religion, and reform, by the most influential writers and public leaders of the day. It is expected, also, that this series will prove a medium for introducing to the reading public a number of new writers who have something to say, and are able to clothe their message in original and attractive form. It is believed that these little books will be a means of influencing a very wide audience for good. In any case, it is certain that such dainty, inexpensive volumes must prove very popular as books for the holidays and for anniversaries, and can hardly fail to justify the expectations of the publishers. Bound in two styles. Cloth backs, beautiful lithographed paper sides in many colors and gold made especially for this series. Size, 5 x 7.

Price, 50 cents

THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE

Edited by A. W. WARD, Litt.D., Master of Peterhouse, and A. R. WALLER, M.A.

This work will be published in fourteen royal octavo volumes of about 500 pages each, and will cover the whole course of English literature from Beowulf to the end of the Victorian age. As in the case of The Cambridge Modern History each chapter will, so far as is possible, be the work of a writer specially familiar with the subject; and the editors will be jointly responsible for the work as a whole.

The following list indicates approximately the scope of the volumes:

1. FROM THE BEGINNINGS TO THE CYCLES OF ROMANCE.
2. THE END OF THE MIDDLE AGES.
3. RENASCENCE AND REFORMATION.
4. PROSE AND POETRY: SIR THOMAS NORTH TO MICHAEL DRAYTON.
5, 6. THE DRAMA TO 1642 I AND II.
7. THE CAROLINE AGE.
8. THE AGE OF DRYDEN.
9. FROM STEELE AND ADDISON TO POPE AND SWIFT.
10. THE AGE OF JOHNSON.
11. THE ROMANTIC MOVEMENT I.
12. THE ROMANTIC MOVEMENT II.
13, 14. THE VICTORIAN AGE I AND II.

Price, $2.50 each volume.

Subscription price for the complete work $31.50, payable in fourteen instalments of $2.25 on publication of the separate volumes.

Volumes I, II, III, IV, V and VI are now ready.

Extracts from Press Notices of Volumes V and VI

"The great work on which Dr A. W. Ward and Mr A. R. Waller are engaged proceeds apace, and we have here a history of the drama from its beginnings up to 1642, to the Puritanic pause between the dwindling of the Elizabethan drama and the beginnings of the Restoration comedy....These two volumes will but serve to emphasize the fact made plain by the earlier ones—that the editors are giving us a work that is comprehensive without being scrappy, and authoritative without being dull."—Daily Telegraph

"These two volumes as a whole are a memorable contribution to scholarship in all that relates to the growth of the drama in England....The two latest volumes of The Cambridge History of English Literature are, in short, critical in the strict application of the term, and, at the same time, are fascinating to ordinary readers who make no claim to special knowledge of the subject."—Standard

"These two important volumes cover the history of the drama in England from the earliest vestiges of the dramatic art to the date of the total suppression of stage plays by an ordinance of the Commonwealth Parliament....Here we have in twenty-eight chapters, all of them almost without exception of high merit, the whole story of the drama, and a marvellons story it is."—Contemporary Review

4. Conard, H. S. The Waterlilies. A monograph of the Genus Nymphæa. Quarto, XIII+279 pages, 30 plates, including 12 plates colored to life, 82 text figures $6.50

The paper embodies the results of an attempt to bring together the knowledge of this group in all of its botanical relations, inclusive of the results of hybridization, and some of the details of culture and uses. The general life-history and physiology of the group, as well as the distribution of the separate species in geologic and present time, receive full consideration. The taxonomic conclusions are based upon the fullest anatomical detail, and the principal forms are well illustrated. An extensive bibliography is appended.

5. Burnham, S. W. General Catalogue of Double Stars within 121° of the North Pole. Quarto, 2 vols. $14.00
Vol. 1, The Catalogue, LV+256 (256a–256r) pages.
Vol. 2, Notes to the Catalogue, VIII+257–1086 pages.

A catalogue of all the double stars visible in the northern hemisphere, discovered since the earliest records, with all the measures and other observations from Herschel in the seventeenth century to the latter part of 1906. In volume 1 the stars are given in order of right ascension, in tabular form, in eleven columns, giving respectively the general number, the name of the double star, a reference to one of the principal star catalogues in which the star is found, the right ascension, the declination, the measured position-angle, the measured distance, the magnitudes of the components, the date of the measures given, the observer and number of observations, and lastly brief notes concerning colors, etc. The first portion of this volume contains some fifty pages of introductory matter, including ten indexes to the various observers, classes of stars, etc., enabling the user to find at once any special star, or class of stars, without a knowledge of the star places. Volume 2 contains the notes and complete references to all the observations of each of the 13,665 double stars. All published orbits of the binary systems and the proper motions of the brighter stars are given. The history of each pair includes a selection of the best measures showing motion, if any, and an examination of the material questions suggested by the measures. Some 600 diagrams, drawn to exact scale, show the relative change in the systems having decided orbital and proper motions.

11. Newcomb, Simon. A Statistical Inquiry into the Probability of Causes of the Production of Sex in Human Offspring. Octavo, 34 pages . $0.25

The above paper is an attempt to apply a rigorous theory of probable inference to questions of genetic biology, taking statistical data as the basis of the inquiry. The author in this case strayed outside his professional field and undertook this work with the belief that the treatment of statistical data generally on a large scale by the methods of probable induction would lead to important results to the science of the future and to conclusions on questions which elude all direct investigation. Among the topics discussed are "Preponderance of male births," "Is the ratio of male to female births the same in all races?" "Inquiry whether any unisexual tendency exists among parents," "Unisexual tendency in multiple births," "Processes suggested by the statistics of multiple births," "Influence of the age of the parent on sex," "Supposed influence of other conditions," "Mathematical theory of the effect of unisexual tendency."

23. Castle, W. E. Heredity of Coat Characters in Guinea-pigs and Rabbits. (Paper No. 1, Station for Experimental Evolution.) Octavo, 78 pages, 6 plates, 8 text figures $0.50

This work gives the results of the author's experiments from their beginning in 1900 until the middle of the year 1904. The fundamental colors and the color patterns of guinea-pigs are for the first time analyzed; the existence of latent characters (factors, of the present time) is discovered; and a case of blending character (lopearedness in rabbits) examined. The recessiveness of albinism, of smooth coat, and of long coat are pointed out, and the imperfection of dominance in many cases is recognized.

24. (See No. 81.) MacDougal, D. T., A. M. Vail, G. H. Shull, and J. K. Small. Mutants and Hybrids of the Oenotheras. (Paper No. 2, Station for Experimental Evolution.) Octavo, 57 pages, 22 plates. Out of print. $0.50

A first study in America—the home of the evening primrose—of its relationships and the inheritance of its characters. The home of Oenothera lamarckiana is traced; the various native primroses are described; some of their hybrids are fully worked out and the dominance of characters considered. Further evidence of mutation in the evening primrose in new soil was forthcoming. The paper concludes with a statistical comparison by Dr. Shull of Oenothera lamarckiana with nanella and rubrinervis. The variation polygons in stature of lamarckiana and nanella are shown to be discontinuous as are also those of the number of branches of lamarckiana and rubrinervis. Even in the form of the leaves lamarckiana and rubrinervis show clear differences in the mode and range of variation.

Part II, Optical Study; by J. P. IDDINGS, with an Introduction by G. F. BECKER. Octavo, 95 pages, 26 plates, 25 text figures $1.75

An investigation of the relation between the feldspars of the lime-soda series undertaken partly in an endeavor to settle an old question of great petrological interest and partly to establish the fact that minerals in solution with one another differ in no essential particular from other solutions and obey the same fundamental laws. The materials are chemically pure feldspar types prepared in the laboratory; the methods are those of quantitative chemistry, physics and physical-chemistry, and the field covers the entire temperature range of feldspar formation up to 1540°C. Many of the phenomena occurring at these extreme temperatures differ widely from those commonly observed at ordinary temperatures and are thus broadly interesting from the viewpoint of the properties of matter. In particular, it was discovered that among the minerals it is not uncommon for the solid state to persist for hours or even days at a temperature considerably above the melting-point—a phenomenon which has never been observed before.

32. Dean, Bashford. Chimæroid Fishes and their Development. Quarto, 194 pages, 11 plates, 144 text figures $4.00

A general account of a group of fishes which by some investigators has been described as the most primitive of all vertebrates. The present memoir considers this claim especially from the evidence contributed by the fossil members of the group, and by the embryonic history of a living species, the Californian Chimæra colliei. It is shown that chimæroids are widely modified rather than primitive, and that in all probability they are descendants of the early type of the Port Jackson shark (Cestracion). The work is illustrated by beautifully executed text figures and colored plates, and presents a complete list of the literature of the subject.

Some of the more important finds noted were made by the author. The chief purpose of this contribution is to describe the results of investigations on the structural features of the species and genera of this important group of plants. Profusely illustrated, and with an extensive bibliography.

These investigations had their origin in an attempt to apply physical methods in studying the nature of verse. The work was begun at Yale University, and was continued at Munich, where a laboratory was installed and valuable assistance received from the Psychological Laboratory of the University of Munich. The work was later continued at the Psychological Laboratory of the University of Berlin. The volume gives an account of the apparatus used in recording sounds and of the methods applied in obtaining speech curves. A chapter on qualitative analysis indicates how phonetic facts may be read directly from the speech curves without measurement. It is also explained how such fundamental factors of speech as melody, duration, and amplitude can be obtained from the curves by simple methods of measurement. The method of harmonic analysis is carefully considered and the theories of vowel productions are discussed and detailed examples of vowel analysis are given.

Professor Müller sought especially to secure final, or at least better, copies of the most important "known" texts rather than to obtain "new" material.

Volume 2 is a continuation of the above and records the author's researches in 1906.

This publication describes an extended series of researches on the electrical conductivity of aqueous solutions through a wide range of temperature (18° to 306°). The special apparatus which had to be constructed for the purpose is fully described. The conductivity results obtained with seventeen different salts, acids, and bases at various concentrations are presented in detail; and these results are discussed with reference to the migration-velocities of the constituent ions and the degree of ionization and hydrolysis of the substances themselves. The general conclusions to which all these researches have led are presented in a comprehensive summary at the end of the work.

66. Goss, W. F. M. High Steam Pressures in Locomotive Service. Octavo, 144 pages, 120 text figures, 12 plates $1.25

A study based upon experimental investigations concerning the effect of changes in steam pressure upon the efficiency of steam locomotives. A basis for discussion is given in the results of 100 locomotive tests arranged in six series, a definite boiler pressure being assigned to each series. The range of pressure was varied from 120 pounds to 240 pounds per square inch. The presentation includes a description of the research and of the means employed in its advancement; a discussion of difficulties in operating a locomotive under very high steam pressures; a statement of facts concerning boiler and engine performance under different pressures, concerning machine friction, and concerning the degree of efficiency attending the performance of work at the draw-bar; and a concluding discussion with reference to the more general question of boiler-pressure versus boiler-capacity as a factor in economic operation. Four appendices present respectively a description of the locomotive experimented upon, methods and data derived from tests, general data concerning the weight of boilers, and a file of typical indicator-cards. One result of the entire investigation is to the effect that single expansion locomotives using saturated steam are most efficient when operated under a boiler pressure of 180 pounds, that when this limit has been reached any possible further increase in weight should be utilized in securing increased boiler capacity rather than higher boiler pressures.

The object of the exploration was to search for evidence for or against the Central Asiatic origin of early cultures, with especial reference to the hypothesis of a so-called Asiatic Aryan home. The volume of the Reconnaisance Expedition of 1903 contains the results of the separate expeditions of Prof. W. M. Davis, of Harvard University, of Mr. Ellsworth Huntington, and of Professor Pumpelly and Mr. R. W. Pumpelly. These results are chiefly:

1. The corroboration and extension of the evidence of an extensive Glacial and Post-Glacial inland sea.

2. The independent determination of at least three Glacial and two inter-Glacial phases of the Glacial Period in the Tien Shan and on the Pamir.

3. The observation of a vast number of ruined sites of all ages, some of which were evidently of very remote age.

The two volumes of 1904 treat of the archeological and physiographic results of the Second Expedition with especial reference to the excavations at Anau and incidentally at Merv.

This publication will be of especial importance to the student of mediæval literature, particularly to all interested in the study of the mass of fiction centering around the immortal King Arthur of Great Britain. It represents the first attempt to produce a complete printed text of the whole of the Vulgate Cycle comprising the early history of the Holy Grail, the prose-rendering of Robert de Borron's Merlin and the Book of Arthur; the huge compilation of adventures known as the Book of Syr Lancelot of the Lake; the Quest of the Holy Grail; and the Death of Arthur.

The text is a faithful reproduction of one of the six manuscripts known containing the entire Vulgate Cycle, viz., the Add. MS. 10292-10294 of the British Museum. It has been collated, supplemented, and corrected by help of other manuscripts representing only certain sections of the cycle in the same library and in some special cases by the help of manuscripts in the Bibliothèque Nationale, of Paris. The lines are numbered and reference numbers to other manuscripts and printed editions are added throughout. Ample side-notes in English are supplied.

In his Introduction Dr. Sommer briefly outlines the results of his studies on the genesis of the Vulgate Cycle. His views differ in many essential points from those hitherto accepted as probable or correct. An exhaustive index raisonné of names and places will be a feature of the work.

76. Richards, T. W. The Compressibilities of the Elements, and Their Periodic Relations. Octavo, 67 pages, 8 text figures $0.50

Until this investigation was undertaken almost nothing was known about the compressibility of the elements. The monograph describes experiments carried out by the new method detailed in publication No. 7. Thirty-five of the solid and liquid elements were investigated—enough to show that the compressibilities of the elements are distinctly related periodically with one another as well as with other properties, such as volatility and atomic volume. Among the elements investigated, silicon was least affected by pressure, having a compressibility less than one-twentieth of that of mercury, and caesium was found to be the most compressible among the solid elements, having a compressibility about fifteen times that of mercury. Liquid chlorine was found to be about half again as compressible as this; and the other solid and liquid elements have values ranging between these extremes.

79. Durand, W. F. Researches on the Performance of the Screw Propeller. Octavo, 61 pages, 85 text figures $0.75

An investigation into the influence on screw propeller performance of the three chief factors, (1) pitch ratio, (2) slip ratio, (3) area ratio. Forty-two model propellers of 12-inch diameter were employed covering variation in pitch ratio from 0.9 to 2.1 and in area-ratio from 0.18 to 0.72, each propeller being tested through a range of slip from 10 per cent to 40 per cent. Measurements were made permitting the determination for these model propellers of thrust, work absorbed, and efficiency. The reduced results are shown in various forms, tabular and graphical, and their application to problems of propeller design is discussed. Similar results are also given for some 47 combinations of two propellers on one shaft, comprising various arrangements of the above propellers as to relative pitch ratio, distance apart and aspect of blades.

The physiological rather than the physical view of transpiration is favored by the results. Some new facts concerning guard-cells tend to show that these organs are secretory rather than photosynthetic. Methods of fixing stomatal structures for examination and a great mass of data bearing on the daily periodicity of transpiration is given. An important contribution on a much-vexed question.

In preparing the above volumes the term economic has been liberally interpreted. The index embraces reports of the boards of agriculture, charities and corrections, education, public works and public health, banking, insurance, railroad and tax commissions, bureaus of labor and vital statistics, climate and crop bulletins, geological surveys, fish, game, and forest commissions, auditors' and treasurers' reports, immigration, sewerage and water-supply, roads, canals and river conservancy, governors' messages, and reports of attorneys general. Particular care has been taken in reading the above-mentioned reports to note recommendations, suggestive comment and especially the character of the tabulations. A checklist of the entire file of reports accompanies each subject. The indexed material is arranged chronologically under each subject. Thus the student is able to trace the historical development of each economic subject as it is reflected in the documents of an individual state. The work is published by states, a single volume to a state, and is designed to cover the period from the adoption of the Federal Constitution to the close of the year 1904.

87. The California Earthquake of April 18, 1906—Continued.

Vol. 2. The Mechanics of the Earthquake. By H. F. REID. VIII+192 pages, 2 plates, 62 text figures $2.00

This is the report of the State Earthquake Investigation Commission appointed by the Governor of California to study the earthquake of April 18, 1906. The fault where the earthquake originated is a part of a larger physiographic feature known as the San Andreas rift. This rift and the geology of the coast system of mountains are carefully described in the first volume, which is mainly descriptive. Then follow detailed accounts of the displacements along all parts of the fault and descriptions of the effect and intensity of the shock in all parts of California and the neighboring states, where it was felt. All the phenomena observed are described, including the visible undulations of the ground, the formation of cracks, fissures, landslides, etc. The permanent displacements of the ground, as determined by geodetic measurements, are given, and the positions of certain monuments erected for the purpose of determining future slips on the fault are recorded. Experiments made with a shaking machine to investigate the influence of the character of the foundation on the destructive effects of the vibrations are described.

The second volume, on the mechanics of the earthquake, contains a theoretical discussion of the phenomena described in the first volume. It traces the forces required to cause the rupture at the fault to drags applied from below, and points out that the rupture was necessarily preceded by a relative displacement of regions on opposite sides of the fault, which suggests a method of anticipating certain earthquakes. The records obtained by seismographs in all parts of the world are given and discussed. A very complete mathematical theory of seismographs is given.

This work constitutes an advanced mathematico-physical treatise on the statics and the kinetics of the atmosphere and the ocean. Thus the pressure, density, temperature and velocity at any point in these terrestrial fluids are considered from the points of view of modern thermodynamics. Part I investigates the static properties and Part II the kinetic properties. The development and the application of the theory are illustrated by numerous examples, diagrams, weather-maps, and observed meteorological and hydrographical data. Numerous auxiliary tables are given to facilitate the interconversion and the use of such data.

The chief masses of material in London for the history of the United States are those in the Public Record Office. A volume relating to these, upon which Professor Andrews has expended a large amount of time and labor, would naturally have had precedence over this present work; but its publication has had to be deferred on account of the large movement of reclassification which the Public Record Office has resolved upon in respect to the Colonial Office papers and other portions of the whole. Accordingly the present volume, though naturally supplementary, has been brought out first in order. Professor Andrews has furnished an itemized list, with proper explanations and comments, of all those papers in the library of the British Museum which relate to the history before 1783 of the United States and all other British portions of North America. This he has followed with an account of the materials in the Privy Council Office. Miss Davenport has furnished detailed statements of the materials for American history preserved in the archives of the House of Lords, in the library of the Archbishop of Canterbury at Lambeth, in that of the Bishop of London at Fulham, and in other archives, public and semi-public, civil and ecclesiastical, in London. Professor Andrews concludes the volume with an itemized list of the American papers in the Bodleian Library and in other libraries of Oxford and Cambridge. The volume is minutely indexed.

100. Ward, William Hayes. The Seal Cylinders of Western Asia. Quarto, XXIX+428 pages, 1500 text figures $7.50

These seal cylinders were of the size of a large or small spool, purely cylindrical or with the surface concave and in the latest Persian period convex and barrel-shaped. Every owner of property had to have one of the cylinders. The engravings on them were usually figures of the gods worshipped by the owners, or scenes of agriculture, war, or the chase. Later the owner's name would be added in cuneiform characters with the name of his father and that of his favorite god. Almost every page has several illustrations, so that the student of history, civilization, and art has here a body of material and conclusions not hitherto accessible to scholars.

The volume may be described as an investigation of the earliest art of Babylonia and its later ramifications, showing the sources of that stream of culture which finally overflowed in Greek art and civilization. From the period of perhaps 4000 B. C., long before the use of iron, if not before that of bronze, the course of art and culture and religion is followed as it spread over Persia on the east and as far as the Mediterranean Sea and Cyprus on the west, including Assyria, the Hittite Empire of Asia Minor, Syria, and Phoenicia. Thus the investigation reaches down to about 600 B. C., when the seal cylinder gave way to seals of other sorts, owing to the growing disuse of clay tables for writing and the substitution of the simpler cone seal and scaraboid in place of the cylinder.

105. Lehmer, Derrick N. Factor Table for the First Ten Millions, containing the smallest factor of every number not divisible by 2, 3, 5, or 7 between the limits 0 and 10017000. Folio, XIV+476 pages.

Bound in leather and buckram $20.00
Unbound $18.00

This table furnishes the smallest divisor of every number up to the limit 10017000. The multiples of 2, 3, 5, and 7 are not listed as being easily obtainable from inspection. At the same time the failure to find a given number in the table is evidence that it is a multiple of one of these numbers. The omission of such numbers greatly reduces the bulk of the tables and adds very slightly to the complexity of the arrangement.

A list of smallest divisors really serves to find all of the divisors of a number, for one may divide out the smallest factor as listed in the table and then proceed to obtain the smallest divisor of the resulting quotient. This process may be continued until a quotient is obtained which is a prime.

Factor tables for the first nine millions have already been published, but are for the most part unobtainable. The tables herewith published have been compared entry for entry with the previously printed tables and what is believed to be a complete list of errors is also given in the Introduction. The tenth million has been checked against a table in manuscript by Kulik deposited in the Vienna Academy of Sciences. Comparison with all of these tables has been made five times (six for the first three millions). The tables were printed by photographic methods which are believed to eliminate many errors, which commonly occur by the falling out or breaking off of types.

The problem of finding the factors of a given number is important in itself and is constantly met with in the theory of numbers and in the theory of groups. The allied problem of finding the number of primes between given limits makes a reliable list of primes of the first consequence. This list can now be made as far as the first ten millions, it is believed, with absolute confidence. Computations of the number of primes in the successive millions, and indeed in shorter intervals, tally exactly with the counts made from these tables as far as these counts have been made.

This is a careful study of one of the many interesting problems which arise in the study of Roman topography and Roman architecture. Although this volume refers more especially to the phenomena of snake venom, it covers much broader ground. The first fifty pages are devoted to a descriptive and systematic morphological and a distributional account of the poisonous snakes of the world, over 300 forms being enumerated followed by a description of the poison apparatus. In a short chapter on the phylogeny of poisonous snakes, the author states that the poison gland was probably the first of the specialized structures to appear, and that the elaborate, erectile, grooved fangs were of later development. The poison gland "is equivalent to, if not identical with, the parotid of the mammalia?" The remainder of the work is given up to a consideration of the venom itself. There are chapters on its physical and chemical properties; symptoms of venom poisoning in man and in lower animals; and on the organism as a whole and upon specific organs and tissues, this latter subject being more fully treated than any other.

This volume contains the results of a comprehensive and thorough discussion as to the positions for 1900, proper-motions, and other useful particulars in relation to all stars in both hemispheres that are visible to the naked eye. About 2,000 stars fainter than the sixth magnitude are also included because they are among the stars which have been most precisely and frequently observed in the past. The primary object of this work was to employ substantially all useful evidence of observation in determination of proper-motions with a high degree of precision—especially in the systematic sense. Results of researches leading up to the present work have been published in Volume XXVIII of the Astronomical Journal. Therein are described the steps by which the results of the various original catalogues of observed star-positions are made systematically consistent—one with another, and with a resulting normal system. Three appendices contain respectively:

Appendix I. Ephemerides of Polar Stars.
Appendix II. Notes to the Catalogue, Periodic Proper-Motion, etc.
Appendix III. Systematic Corrections and Weights.

Quarto, XIX+338 pages, 100 plates, 411 text figures. In cloth binding $9.00

This work is designed to show that homologous proteins and other organic vital substances differ in chemical constitution, and that these differences are definitely related to genera, species, etc., and thus establish a principle which may prove of great importance in the explanation of heredity, mutations, the influences of food and environment, the differentiation of sex, and in other problems of biology, normal and abnormal. Differences in homologous substances are shown to offer a new and important method in the study of the relationships of genera and species.

In the newer studies of heredity attention is directed to the characteristics of organisms, taken one at a time. Great diversity in the method of inheritance is found. The present work considers behavior of ten morphological characters and the principal colors of poultry. Some characters are evidently simple and are inherited in accordance with the pure Mendelian formula; others show marked deviations from it, such as "blending" and imperfect dominance. Even in such cases, however, a segregation of characters takes place in the germ-plasm. The characters analyzed in detail are the split of Y comb, polydactylism, syndactylism, rumplessness, winglessness, booting, nostril, crest and comb-lop. The inheritance of plumage color is described and it appears that in each color-race the plumage coloration is determined by a number of factors the varied combinations of which account for "reversion," "sporting" and various apparent abnormalities in the reproduction of coloration and patterns. A general discussion closes the book in which there are considered the relation of heredity to ontogeny, the significance of dominance and recessiveness, potency, reversion and the factor hypothesis, the limits of selection, non-inheritable characters and the role of hybridization in evolution. The volume contains 12 lithographic plates of plumage coloration.

136. Benedict, Francis G., and Elliott P. Joslin. Metabolism in Diabetes Mellitus. Octavo, VI+234 pages, 2 plates $2.00

The metabolism of 13 diabetic patients has been studied by means of the respiration calorimeters of the Nutrition Laboratory. The investigation included 42 experiments lasting 2 to 6 hours, 14 hours after the last meal, together with 11 experiments following the ingestion of food. In these experiments the water elimination, carbon-dioxide production, oxygen consumption, and heat elimination and production were determined and simultaneous determinations were likewise made of the body-temperature, pulse-rate, and respiration-rate. Besides experiments with the respiration calorimeters, 26 experiments were made with a respiration apparatus which permitted very exact determinations of carbon-dioxide production and oxygen absorption. The urine was collected and the nitrogen and sugar determined in all these experiments.

Complete details of the investigation are reported together with the clinical history of each case. A summary is given of the gaseous exchange and energy transformation in these experiments and the averages are compared with those for normal individuals in experiments with the same apparatus. The metabolism in diabetes of different degrees of severity is compared.

Fiction

Joan of the Tower Net, $1.20

By Warwick Deeping, author of "Bertrand of Brittany," "The Rust of Rome," etc. This new romantic novel by Mr. Deeping is laid in Mediæval times, and in imagination, power and deep poetic feeling it is sure to impress his many admirers as perhaps the best and most fascinating story he has yet written. Frontispiece in colors.

Cynthia Charrington Net, $1.20

By Mrs. George de Horne Vaizey, author of "A Question of Marriage," "A Honeymoon in Hiding," etc. Mrs. De Horne Vaizey is a writer of distinct charm, fertility and humor, and her new story of a charming heroine's romance combines these qualities while introducing a new and more serious note which has not heretofore been seen in her work. Frontispiece in colors.

Eliza Getting On Net, $1.00

By Barry Pain. Mr. Pain maintains his reputation as a wit and humorist. There is probably no more entertaining character than the central one in this book—that of Eliza's husband. He is the very personification of unconscious humor which runs riot on every page. Illustrated.

History, Travel, Literature, Etc.

The Land of Veiled Women Net, $1.75

By John Foster Fraser, author of "Canada as It is," "Australia: The Making of a Nation," etc. Mr. Fraser, whose highly entertaining books on Canada, America and Australia have met a most cordial reception, traveled last year through that fascinating section of the world, Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco, including Biskra ("The garden of Allah"), the holy city of Africa, and Tangier. The result is embodied in a travel book of wonderful charm and interest, written in an easy, smooth-flowing style which makes it as readable as fiction. With many delightful illustrations in color and black and white.

The Truth About Egypt Net, $2.00

By J. Alexander. Since Mr. Roosevelt made his historic speech at the Guildhall, the attention of every one has been drawn to the future of Egypt. In this book an attempt is made to put the case fairly for both the Nationalist and the supporter of the British occupation. If the author has taken sides, good reasons are given for this partisanship. The book is written by one who has been in close touch with all the recent episodes in Egyptian affairs, and who is, consequently, well qualified to speak with authority on their political significance. With eight full-page illustrations.

The Life of Charles Dickens. — Net, $1.00

By His Eldest Daughter

THE PREFACE.

"I have written this short biography of my father at the request of Messrs. Cassell and Company, expressly for the young. I have little that is new to tell, the subject having already been exhaustively treated in Mr. Foster's 'Life,' and in our own published 'Letters.' I have tried to collect every incident which will be most likely to interest and to appeal to young people; and whenever I have been able to use my father's words, I have done so. If the reading of this little book be the means of making any boys and girls love and venerate the Man—before they know and love and venerate the Author and the Genius—I shall have accomplished my task with a thankful and a grateful heart."—Mamie Dickens.

Magic Made Easy — Net, 75 Cents

By David Devant. To Mr. Devant the art of conjuring implies something more than manual dexterity. "Magic is an art by means of which a man can exercise a kind of spell over others, and persuade them into believing they have seen some natural law disobeyed."

"What a Conjurer Can do," "How He does It," "Impromptu Tricks," "Dinner Table Tricks," "Thought Reading Tricks," "Card Tricks," and "Hand Shadows," form chapters in a book which will be welcomed by both the amateur and professional.

The rapid strides made in the application of Electricity for industrial and other purposes have elicited a wide demand for an entirely new edition of this important text-book. The Sea and Its Story — Net, $3.50

By Captain Frank H. Shaw and Ernest Robinson. This volume may be described as "The Log-Book of the Sea." Every phase of Sea Life is dealt with, from the early craft of the Argonauts to the latest in Submarines, the main aim being to present the facts from the human side. The writers carry the reader through the crowded vistas of history, telling the adventures of all the mighty voyagers from the days of Columbus, and of the heroic deeds of Raleigh, Drake, Nelson, Hawkins, and the other Sea Lions. Modern ship-building, commercial enterprise, and naval gunnery are dealt with in a fascinating but simple way. The large number of illustrations form an especial feature.

All About Railways — Net, $1.50

UNIFORM WITH "ALL ABOUT AIRSHIPS."

By F. S. Hartnell. Boys are deeply interested in engines and everything connected with railways; no book could be more welcome to them than "All About Railways." *MARTIN LUTHER: THE MAN AND HIS WORK. By Arthur C. McGiffert, Professor of Church History in Union Theological Seminary. Forty-eight illustrations of historical places and persons. 8vo, 450 pages.
Price, $3.00 net, postage 19 cents.

The first modern, authoritative, and compellingly interesting life of Luther ever written—a bold, vigorous, and masterful life of a bold, vigorous, and masterful man. It is the man Luther, rather than the theologian, of whom Dr. McGiffert writes; giving full emphasis to the extraordinarily great human and dramatic interest of his life.

The stern old monk whose rebellion against the Church of Rome changed the religious history of the world is little known to the present generation. Dr. McGiffert's biography, the ripe work of a distinguished scholar and enthusiastic student of Luther's time, makes him a real, living, breathing human being. Familiar letters are freely drawn upon, and the illustrations are of great interest.

The book adds much new material to the biography published in The Century during 1911, and all the original material has been revised. This notable volume will stand as the definitive life of Luther.

Price, $1.30 net, postage 11 cents.

Everybody who read "Molly Make-Believe," the fiction success of last season, and just about the most winning and adorable love story ever written, will want to read these ten stories by the same author—two of them winners of thousand-dollar prizes in Collier short-story contests. They are stories of whimsical, searching tenderness; of quaint, delightful phrasing; of bubbling humor. One must read them to gain any real idea of their alluring charm, their heart-searching pathos, their radiant joy. The very titles are delightful—

The Sick-a-bed Lady—Hickory Dock—The Very Tired Girl—The Happy-day—The Runaway Road—Something that Happened in October—The Amateur Lover—Heart of the City—The Pink Sash—Woman's Only Business.

The particular issues of the magazine in which several of these stories have appeared have gone out of print, so great has been the demand for the "Abbott Stories." And as author and publishers have been constantly in receipt of letters from all over the country demanding the date of publication of this volume, a big sale is certain.

THE CHANGING CHINESE. By Edward Alsworth Ross. Over 100 illustrations from photographs. 8vo, 400 pages. Price, $2.40 net, postage 18 cents.

The first up-to-date, authoritative interpretation of the Chinese people, based on first-hand observation — the harvest of ten thousand miles' travel and six months' study in China.

Unlike the diplomat who traces the ills of China to a medieval government, or the business man who traces them to industrial backwardness, or the missionary who traces them to lack of true religion, or the ethnologist who traces them to race failings, Professor Ross finds these ills root chiefly in certain peculiarities of Chinese social organization, which he discusses at length. Aside from the political and diplomatic, Professor Ross deals with all the important relations between China and the West; and his conclusions are so positive and novel, and supported by such a wealth of facts, that they are likely to give rise to wide discussion.

It is a book of extraordinary interest for the general reader as well as for the student, and its picturing of Chinese life and customs is vivid and fascinating.

JUST PATTY. By Jean Webster, author of "When Patty Went to College." Thirteen full-page illustrations by Relyea. 12mo, 342 pages. Price, $1.20 net, postage 12 cents.

"Just Patty" is bubbling over with the delicious humor of Patty in college. Patty is full of the joy of living, fun-loving, given to ingenious mischief for its own sake, with a disregard for petty convention which is an unfailing source of joy to her fellows and of perplexed wonder to the faculty. What she does not think of in the way of mischief at that most select of boarding-schools, St. Ursula's, is n't worth thinking of.

But she is always wholesome, and fearlessly honest when caught in a scrape. Young folk will love the book; and older folk will grow young again in the fresh, care-free, fun-adoring atmosphere of St. Ursula's — and Patty.

THE STORY OF FRENCH PAINTING. By Charles H. Caffin, author of "How to Study Pictures," "The Story of Spanish Painting," "The Story of Dutch Painting." Uniform with "The Story of Dutch Painting." Forty reproductions of famous French paintings. Square 8vo, 200 pages. Price, $1.20 net, postage 12 cents.

Mr. Caffin's books are indispensable alike to the student of art and to the cultured general reader. In this third volume of the series, started with "The Story of Dutch Painting," Mr. Caffin has systematized within easy limits what heretofore the student has had to search for over a wide extent of books, and has correlated the special subject of French painting to the other manifestations of the nation's life-spirit, so that the story, as far as its length permits, presents a moving picture of national development.

Mr. Caffin has been wonderfully successful in re-creating the past, and making it live with meaning for the present; and his criticism is illuminating and constructive. The illustrations have been chosen with a view to emphasizing certain phases of the general movement, and so have special value and interest.

THORPE'S WAY. A Novel by Morley Roberts. 12mo, 374 pages. Price, $1.20 net, postage 12 cents.

This is the story of Thorpe, whose radical views of marriage, religion, and morals suggest George Bernard Shaw. The situation is piquant. Thorpe, in love with the beautiful and unconventional daughter of Philistine parents, runs amuck through middle-class prejudices to the scandalization of his prospective family-in-law and the joy of his delightful Molly.

There are several minor characters deliciously portrayed — among them Molly's other suitor, a young lord whom his intimates know as "Gloomy Fanny," and Molly's slangy brother, whose London vernacular would put Chimmie Fadden to the blush. It is good fun and good story-telling, too, for Thorpe is an ardent wooer and the love story is bright with real romance.

THE WOMEN OF THE CAESARS. By Guglielmo Ferrero, author of "The Greatness and Decline of Rome," and perhaps the most distinguished of contemporary historians. Fifty illustrations from photographs and drawings by Castaigne, Tadema, etc. 8vo, 250 pages. Price, $2.00 net, postage 18 cents.

Because Rome's women enjoyed the greatest social and legal liberty of all women of the ancient world, this picture of their lives has peculiar interest for the men and women of to-day. The noted Italian historian makes the most dramatic period of Roman history live again for modern readers in this scholarly and interesting work, to which a rare picturesqueness is imparted by the historian's emphasis on the personal equation.

The conditions of woman's place and marriage among the Romans are discussed fully; and there are vivid pictures of the wife of Augustus, the daughters of Augustus, the daughters of Antony, the daughters of Agrippa, the wives of the Emperor Claudius, the mother of Nero, and other Imperial ladies who helped make Roman history and make and unmake Rome's leaders. A notable historical work.

AESOP'S FABLES. An attractive gift-book edition of an unfailingly popular classic. Forty unusual drawings by E. Boyd Smith. Every page with a border printed in tint, gilt top. 8vo, 171 pages. Price, $2.00 net, postage 14 cents.

This choice edition of a favorite classic contains 203 of the fables commonly attributed to Æsop —the text and quaint illustrations in black, the page borders in tint. The fables have the force and flavor of primitive folk-lore; they are as readable and profitable to-day as they were centuries ago; and they make appeal to young and old.

The illustrations are original, and make an unusual and attractive book. The artist will be remembered by his clever pictures in "The Story of Noah's Ark" and "The Story of Pocahontas and Captain John Smith."

THE LYRICS OF ELIZA. "Interpreted" by D. K. Stevens, author of "Lays of a Lazy Dog." Illustrations on every page by Katharine Maynadier Browne. Printed in two colors. Board covers. Square 16mo, 64 pages.
Price, $.60 net, postage 5 cents.

A dear little picture and jingle book for every one, young and old, who likes cats, in which Eliza the cat airs her sentiments on life in general and on her family in particular.

Some Lyric Gems within you 'll find

THE SECOND BOYS' BOOK OF MODEL AËROPLANES. By Francis A. Collins, author of "The Boys' Book of Model Aeroplanes." Over 100 illustrations from photographs and drawings. 12mo, 350 pages.
Price, $1.20 net, postage 11 cents.

Mr. Collins's earlier book proved a unique and popular success in a new and fascinating field. His new work covers up to date the science and sport of model aëroplane construction and flying, both in this country and abroad, where experiments in model aëroplane building and flying are given serious attention by men of inventive tastes.

There are helpful working drawings and photographs of over one hundred new models, and detailed instructions for building fifteen of the newest model aëroplanes; and a special chapter is devoted to parlor aviation, with full instructions for building small paper gliders, reproducing the lines of famous models, which will fly in an ordinary room. An interesting feature is a chapter giving the rules—sanctioned by the West Side Y. M. C. A. of New York and the New York Model Aëro Club —for conducting model aëroplane contests. It is a book to make strong appeal to every one interested in aëronautics; and a book to delight every lad and every grown-up who has been caught in the fascination of model aëroplane experimentation.

STORIES OF USEFUL INVENTIONS. By S. E. Forman, author of "A History of the United States," "Advanced Civics," etc. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, 220 pages. Price, $1.00 net, postage 11 cents.

A more profitably interesting book has not been written recently. It tells simply and entertainingly of the beginnings of familiar, everyday things — the match, the stove, the lamp, the plow, the house, the clock, etc. — making the most of all the history and humanity wrapped up in these inventions. It is a regular picture book of useful inventions, too.

THE LURE OF THE GARDEN. By Hildegarde Hawthorne. With sixteen full-page illustrations in color by Jules Guérin, Maxfield Parrish, Anna Whelan Betts, Ivanowski, and others, and thirty-two full-page illustrations in black and white. End papers in tint. In an attractive box with appropriate design. Quarto, about 250 pages. Price, $4.50 net, postage 28 cents.

This book is destined to become a garden classic. The author has produced one of the most fascinating out-door books that has been issued in many years. It is in no sense a garden manual, but treats rather of the social life of gardens. There is a chapter on "Garden Gates," another on "Our Grandmothers' Gardens"; there is an anecdotal chapter dealing with "Washington's Garden"; other chapters deal with "Childhood in the Garden," "The Social Side of Gardens"; there is an interesting personal chapter on "The Gardens of Some Well-known People," a fascinating chapter on "Gardens in Literature," and an amusing and informing chapter entitled "Some Garden Vices" that will be heartily appreciated by all those who have gardens of their own. The writer's fine literary style proves her a worthy descendant of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

The illustrations in this book are exquisite. Altogether it is one of the most distinguished and beautiful gift volumes ever issued. Author, illustrators and publishers have combined to produce a rare book.

FLOWER O' THE PEACH. By Perceval Gibbon. 12mo, 350 pages. Price, $1.30 net, postage 11 cents.

A piece of fiction far above and beyond the ordinary, not alone for its unusual setting and plot; but for its notable character delineation. Dr. Jakes and his wife conduct a sanatorium in South Africa. Here comes one Margaret Harding, an English girl. Margaret; the weak, erring Dr. Jakes; his brave, pathetic wife; each patient in their house; Paul and his parents; the Kaffir, Kamis, who has received a doctor's education in London and returns to South Africa to find himself scorned by both black and white — these men and women stand out distinct, individual, wonderfully alive.

The story is a strange and gripping one; and is destined to take rank with "The Story of an African Farm" and "The Dop Doctor" among the half-dozen great books on South Africa. Easily one of the most notable books of the year.

FOUR MONTHS AFOOT IN SPAIN. By Harry A. Franck, author of "A Vagabond Journey Around the World." The record of the author's care-free summer in unfamiliar byways. Over seventy-five illustrations from photographs, with map showing itinerary. 8vo, 400 pages. Price, $2.00 net, postage 16 cents.

The author of that now famous book, "A Vagabond Journey Around the World," has produced another fascinating record of travel in his "Four Months Afoot in Spain." On this second and more circumscribed trip Mr. Franck did not go penniless, but the slender sum that took him over and back kept him at all times closer to native life than to the beaten track of tourists. Few Americans would care to brave the rigors of his passage in the steerage to Gibraltar or to face the misadventures of his ramblings on foot in strange places.

His itinerary was a delightful one; and it is safe to say that of all the books on Spain no one has written a volume that brings so close to the reader the life of the ordinary people. Besides his love of adventure and his love of beauty, Mr. Franck is gifted with unusual powers of description and an unfailing sense of humor.

THE BLIND WHO SEE. By Marie Louise van Saanen. 12mo, 350 pages. Price, $1.20 net, postage 11 cents.

Nona is the young and attractive wife of Sylvus, a blind violinist — a man of genius and of extraordinary beauty of character. He adores his wife, who is very tender and sweet with him. So sensitive is the man to her presence that in a concert-hall when he comes forth to play he invariably faces toward his wife wherever she may be sitting. But after all Sylvus spends most of his life in his own dream-world, the natural result of his affliction. The girl finds much time for going out; and, healthy young animal, she enjoys life to the full.

Presuming on a sort of false security in her position as the wife of Sylvus, she allows her interest in a man named Allen to grow until she has got both him and herself in the toils. Then follows a life of secret meetings, the constant strain of keeping up appearances and deceiving her husband — till one day Allen, who is a downright sort of character, declares that he can stand it no longer — that either they have to go away together or he must go alone.

What follows is dramatic — absorbing. Few modern writers handle so frankly yet delicately the triangularized love story.

A GALLERY OF GIRLS. A book of forty exquisite studies in full color and forty in black and white of the new American girl, by Coles Phillips. Quarto. Price, $3.00 net, postage 29 cents.

Within the last year Mr. Phillips has become the most popular illustrator of the up-to-date American girl. His treatment is piquant and highly effective. The flat color of the background is usually the same as the girl's dress, making the figure lines partly a matter of imagination, yet alluringly brought out here and there by a ribbon, a chair, a pretty ankle in silken hose, or a fair, rounded arm. Not less taking than these pictures themselves are the clever captions. "Net Results," "Survival of the Fittest," "The Sandwitch," etc., etc., are destined to become classics of their kind.

Mr. Phillips's girls are thoroughbreds, and always modish. Moreover, Mr. Phillips's work is not merely a series of "pretty girl" pictures. Here we have a strikingly successful attempt to correctly and sympathetically portray the modern girl — the young woman acquainted with both books and men, the steamer-chair, the saddle. Altogether the sweet, frank, serious — but not too serious! — young person who is equally at home in the Maine woods or a London drawing-room. This volume is sure to be one of the most popular gift books of the coming season.

TODDIE. By Gilbert Watson. Frontispiece in color. 12mo, 300 pages. Price, $1.20 net, postage 12 cents.

Toddie was a caddie at the St. Andrews Golf Links in Scotland. He was a small man of forty, given to strong drink, and a woman-hater. When he found that Major Dale, his chief patron on the links, was paying attentions to a certain young lady he was inexpressibly sad. He found a rift in the clouds, however, when he discovered that the lady's maid, a tall, handsome, gloomy, Scotch woman of thirty odd — who had been early disappointed in love — was quite as much of a man-hater as he was a woman-hater, and the two conspired to prevent the match. This meant naturally frequent meetings.

How Toddie reformed both his habits of life and his ideas on women, and how the maid, Devina, melted — and how in the end there were two marriages instead of one — are the high lights in the best Scotch story that has come to us since "Wee MacGregor." The laughter and tears, and the whimsical charm of this captivating romance, surely entitle Mr. Watson to be called "The Barrie of the Golf Links."

AMERICAN ADDRESSES. By Joseph H. Choate, author of "Abraham Lincoln and Other Addresses." Octavo, about 300 pages. Price, $2.00 net, postage extra.

A new volume of essays and addresses by one of America's most noted diplomatists, lecturers, and speakers, treating of Farragut, Rufus Choate, William C. Endicott, C. F. McKim, trial by jury, Harvard College, the Sanitary Fair in '64, and other men and matters of public interest and importance.

They are all marked by the ripe scholarship, the dignity of style, and the brilliant intellectual penetration which stamp Mr. Choate's written and spoken words; and many of them are delightful for the dry wit of which he is a consummate master.

THE GODS AND MR. PERRIN. A Novel by Hugh Walpole. 12mo, about 350 pages. Price, $1.20 net, postage 12 cents.

No book at all like this comes easily to mind. It is a remarkable tale of English school life, with the boys almost entirely in the background and the masters holding the center of the stage.

"Moffat's" is a second-class boys' school in Cornwall, dominated by Moy-Thompson, the cruel and tyrannical head-master. There is a Dickens quality in the picturing of the boys' driving, of the masters' starved, cramped, embittered lives, of the mental tragedy which grips and drives Mr. Perrin. Against this background is pictured the coming of Traill, young, vigorous, hopeful; the influence upon him of this abnormal world, his winning of Isabel's love and Perrin's hate. The ending in its beauty and pathos appeals to the reader as the only possible and logical one.

THE HAUNTED PHOTOGRAPH. A book of stories by Ruth McEnery Stuart, author of "Sonny," "Napoleon Jackson," etc. Illustrated. 16mo. Price, $1.00 net, postage extra.

No American writer to-day possesses a greater fund of humor than Mrs. Stuart; her stories always bubble over with good spirits; and this new collection of stories—there are four—have in delightful measure the light touch, the warm heart, and the rainbow sense of humor and pathos which make Mrs. Stuart so popular a writer. The story from which the book takes its name, "The Haunted Photograph," abounds in rich and racy humor; and the negro tales of the collection seem quite the best Mrs. Stuart has ever written.

THE MAN WHO LIKES MEXICO. The lively chronicles of a Gringo's sojourn among the Mexicans, by Wallace Gillpatrick. Fully illustrated from photographs. 8vo. Price, $2.00 net, postage extra.

The next best thing to an actual trip through the land that has finally turned down Diaz, the Grand Old Man of Mexico, is surely a reading of this book. It has all the fascination that a good book of personal narrative should have, together with a good bird's-eye view of the country geographically and historically; and the reader enters sympathetically into the adventures by the way, the rambles into odd corners, the romantic excursions looking for lost mines, the intimate study of Mexico's social life.

It is a tonic and delightful volume, generously illustrated with unusual photographs.

WRITTEN ENGLISH. By John Erskine, Associate Professor of English at Columbia University, and Helen Erskine. 32mo, 70 pages. Price, $.40 net.

The correct expressions to be used in any kind of writing, the correct way to punctuate the dialogue in a short story, the correct forms to be used in all kinds of letter writing, are here explained simply after the best usage of to-day. It gives only those rules which have been well tested in practice and which are constantly needed in the writing of the average man or woman. A book for the home and the office, and invaluable to stenographers.

THE SPELL OF EGYPT. By Robert Hichens. An unillustrated edition of a book entitled "Egypt and Its Monuments," issued three years ago, and now put forth in cheaper form as a guide-book to intending travelers. 12mo. Price $1.25 net, postage extra.

Nowhere is there to be found such an exquisite and sympathetic description of the wonders to be seen upon the Nile journey as in this thrilling book by the author of "The Garden of Allah" and "Bella Donna." In its large form, with illustrations in color by Guérin and photographs, it has been a popular volume for several years, and now, at the request of Mr. Hichens, it is put forth as a hand-book for every traveler to Nile lands.

BOOKS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

†TEAM-MATES. By Ralph Henry Barbour, author of "Kingsford, Quarter," "The Crimson Sweater," "Captain Chub," etc. Twenty-two full-page illustrations by Relyea. 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.50.

Here is another of this ever-popular author's wholesome, lively stories of life at a boys' school — Oak Park School, this time.

John William Boland, nicknamed Cal, Ned Brent, Dutch, Sandy, The Fungus, Spud, are all new acquaintances; but they are fellows worth knowing and worthy companions to Mr. Barbour's other jolly lads. They have plenty of fun at Oak Park School, some adventures, and, of course, many exciting foot-ball games — imagine a story of Mr. Barbour's without foot-ball!

Molly is in the story, too — the boys call her the "Obnoxious Kid" when she first begins to tease them; but end by voting her a good chum. There 'll be as great a demand for "Team-Mates" as for Mr. Barbour's other books.

†THE FOREST CASTAWAYS. By Frederick Orin Bartlett. Twelve illustrations by George Varian. 12mo, 300 pages. Price, $1.50.

Two boys, up in the Maine woods for a winter's holidaying, are lost in the snow-covered wilds. They finally stumble upon a deserted camp, which contains supplies for their immediate needs. Out of the woods comes a strange, starving creature to join them. From the first the boys' suspicions are roused by "Bill's" curious behavior; but he proves a good woods comrade, and when one of the lads is injured by a wild-cat "Bill's" rough nursing and kindness and his bravery know no limits. The boys are finally rescued through "Bill's" courage; and then "Bill" is forced to confess that he is an escaped convict. But it is proved that he was unjustly imprisoned; and the story ends happily for all. A splendid tale of brave adventure.

†YOUNG CRUSOES OF THE SKY. By F. Lovell Coombs, author of "The Young Railroaders." Sixteen full-page illustrations by Edwin F. Bayha. 12mo, 380 pages. Price, $1.50.

This is the lively kind of adventure story boys of all ages will delight in. Three lads, Dick Reynolds, Lincoln Adams, and Bob Colbourne, through a boyish prank, are carried away from Toronto in a big balloon. After many adventurous experiences they land on a plateau in the mountains of Mexico.

There they have real and exciting adventures — building a tree house, fighting Indians, making their wits help them to food, and, finally, to escape in their balloon. In real story-book style they find a hermit's cave, and a cipher which leads them to a curious cave of treasure. Every boy will vote it "bully" good reading.

†FRESHMAN DORN, PITCHER. By Leslie W. Quirk, author of "Baby Elton, Quarter-Back." Twelve full-page illustrations by Henry Sumner Watson. 12mo, 300 pages. Price, $1.50.

A rattling good story of school life and school sport for boys. Dorn goes to college proud of his 190 pounds of bone and muscle, and proud of his high-school records in foot-ball, base-ball, and running. A wise and kind coach, and his college mates, and the spirit of sport take him in hand; and "Freshman Dorn" learns some hard lessons manfully and comes out a splendid fellow. Just how it all comes about is part of the story, a story full of stirring, snappy foot-ball and base-ball games. There is n't a base-ball enthusiast, young or old, who will not enjoy this book hugely.

†DOROTHY, THE MOTOR GIRL. By Katharine Carleton. Thirty-two full-page illustrations by Relyea. 12mo, 300 pages. Price, $1.50.

A lively, up-to-date story for girls. The heroine, a clever girl of sixteen, and a book lover, has the good fortune to win an automobile offered in a "Book-Readers' Contest"; and the interest of the story centers mainly in her joy in this wonderful acquisition, and the adventures and misadventures that attend her use of it — leading up to a really dramatic and tender climax. But there is much more in the story than this mere hint of its chief incidents. "Dorothy," the heroine, is a natural, healthy-minded, and affectionate girl of to-day, beloved by her girl-chum, Edith, and by her "big-brother chum," Hal, a breezy, fun-loving boy. What she does with her machine — and the unique "tour" which she plans and carries out — will inspire in girl-readers something of her own enthusiasm, and enlist for Dorothy herself eager interest and admiration.

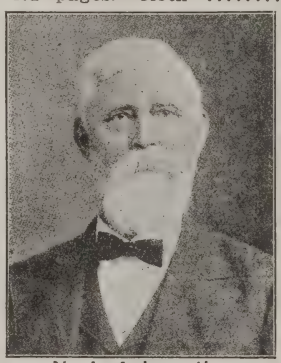
AYLSWORTH, N. J.

Moral and Spiritual Aspects of Baptism. 471 pages. Cloth $1.50



N. J. Aylsworth.

This book is the most exhaustive treatment of the design of baptism ever published. It presents a vast array of arguments in support of the scriptural doctrine of baptism as an act of union with Christ and a condition of remission of sins. The rejection of baptism as a condition of remission has never been done on exegetical grounds, but from a deeper-lying cause—the feeling that no ceremonial act can fitly be made to occupy such a place. This book meets this objection on its own grounds, and shows that there are a vast number of reasons, moral and spiritual, why baptism should occupy just such a place. No man is prepared to meet the deeper difficulties of the religious world regarding the design of baptism without being acquainted with the contents of this book. It is the only work ever published dealing with this vast phase of the subject.

BAYS, D. H.

Doctrines and Dogmas of Mormonism Examined and Refuted. 39 chapters. 460 pages. Cloth $1.50

The subject is given thorough treatment by one well versed in Mormonism. The author's knowledge of the teachings, doctrines and dogmas of the Mormon Church was obtained by a close relationship with all the prominent leaders of that faith. It is certainly a book of reference, accurate and reliable. Every important question pertaining to the peculiarities of the Mormons is discussed and answered from a biblical and philosophical standpoint. The author does not ridicule or burlesque to supply the place of logic and argument. He meets every question with painstaking arguments, showing great familiarity with the fundamental principles relied on by Mormons to sustain their doctrines. A careful study of this work will convince the reader that the author has completely examined and refuted the Doctrines and Dogmas of Mormonism.

BRINEY, J. B.

The Form of Baptism. An argument designed to prove conclusively that Immersion is the only baptism authorized by the Bible. With an answer to the same by the Rev. Joseph L. Tucker, D. D., rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Mobile, Ala., to which is appended a rejoinder by the author. Introduction by Dr. J. H. Garrison. Cloth $1.00

As a defense of immersion it is the best work we have ever examined, and will furnish any minister with all the proof he may need on this question. Over two hundred authors and scholars are referred to in this work.—The Gospel Messenger.

Mr. Briney has made an able argument, and we wonder that any one can fail to agree with him in his conclusions.—The Baptist, Baltimore, Md.

The Temptation of Christ. A devout meditation upon one of the great events in the life of our Lord. 154 pages. Cloth, 12mo. Price.....$ .75

The author's aim is entirely practical. He seeks to expose the vices of Satan, and to point out the way of escape. It was written while the author was suffering from a serious accident. While shut out from the world and shut in with God, he sought to use his time profitably. His labor was not in vain. This is a capital book to put into the hands of young Christians. Indeed, the most experienced Christian can read it with profit. The publishers have done their part well. The type is large and clear; the binding is substantial.—The Christian Standard.

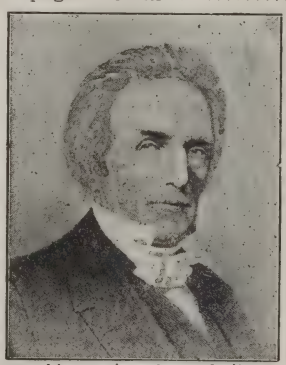
CAMPBELL, ALEXANDER.

Popular Lectures and Addresses. 647 pages. Cloth $2.00

Alexander Campbell was a tireless speaker, as well as writer, and did not confine his efforts, by any means, to purely religious and theological subjects. A few of the titles of lectures in this volume are: The Anglo-Saxon Language, Supernatural Facts; Destiny of Our Country, Woman and Her Mission; Phrenology; Clairvoyance and Spirit-rappings; Responsibilities of Men of Genius, etc., etc. These lectures and addresses cover a very wide range of subjects and the volume is one which cannot fail to interest as well as instruct.

A Debate on the Roman Catholic Religion, between Alexander Campbell and the Right Rev. John B. Purcell, Bishop (later Archbishop) of Cincinnati. 360 pages. Cloth $1.00



Alexander Campbell

This is one of the great historic debates of the world on the subject of the Christian religion. In this debate Campbell meets, not an avowed enemy of religion, but an able champion of Roman Catholicism as the only true religion. It is safe to say that there is no book in the world in which the arguments for Roman Catholicism on the one side, and the fundamental principles of Protestantism on the other, are given with such fulness and ability as in this volume, containing the report of this able discussion. It was truly "a battle of the giants," and long years afterward Bishop Purcell referred to it in terms of enthusiastic praise for Mr. Campbell's ability and fairness in discussion. He who would know the strongest things that can be said for and against Roman Catholicism, ought to be in possession of this volume, embracing 369 pages, and containing an accurate report of one of the greatest religious debates in the history of the world.

The Evidences of Christianity. A debate between Alexander Campbell and Robert Owen, of Scotland, held in Cincin-

This disputation and that between Mr. Campbell and Bishop Purcell were undoubtedly the two greatest religious debates of the Nineteenth Century. Mr. Owen, a man of high personal character and marked ability, was the foremost apostle of religious negation of his day, as well as the ablest champion of the "social system" which he advocated, while Mr. Campbell was easily the greatest defender of the faith in his century. Their controversy attracted wide attention at the time it occurred; and because of the fundamental nature of the questions at issue, the fact that it took place more than three-quarters of a century ago detracts not at all from its interest and value to the present generation.

Familiar Lectures on the Pentateuch. Cloth. 379 pages $1.00

These lectures were delivered to the students of Bethany College during the session of 1859-60, toward the close of Mr. Campbell's active life. Included in this volume are extracts from sermons delivered by him during the same period, and an introduction with occasional notes, by the editor, W. T. Moore.

The Christian System. In reference to the union of Christians, and a Restoration of Primitive Christianity, as Pleaded in the Current Reformation. 358 pages. Cloth. Price (formerly $1.50) $1.00

This is the work so often cited by our denominational friends as the "creed" of the Disciples of Christ. It is in no true sense of the word a creed, but it is a treatise on the Christian system by one of the ablest scholars and most original thinkers which the Nineteenth Century has produced. One should thoroughly master the contents of this volume before claiming to understand the position and teaching of Mr. Campbell as a religious reformer. Its right to a place, therefore, in the libraries of our ministers and Bible students is apparent.

Living Oracles. A translation of the New Testament from the original Greek, by Drs. George Campbell, James McKnight and Philip Doddridge, with prefaces, various emendations, and appendix, by Alexander Campbell. 336 pages. Cloth . . . .$ .50

This remarkably lucid translation of the New Testament was a great favorite of Mr. Campbell, and he wrote the prefaces, or introductions, as they would now be called, to the several books, and circulated it in pushing forward his reformatory work. The introductions to the several books, which might in some respects, no doubt, be amended by later research, contain a large amount of valuable information and prepare the reader for a better understanding of the books which they severally introduce.

The Christian Baptist. Seven volumes in one. Edited by Alexander Campbell. Revised by D. S. Burnett, with Mr. Campbell's last correction. 680 double-column pages. Cloth. Price.....$2.00

This publication will always possess a special interest, because it represents the aggressive and formative period of the Reformation. In these volumes of the Christian Baptist, here consolidated into one volume, one sees the raw material, so to speak, out of which has been formed the doctrinal teaching of the advocates of the current reformation. There is an atmosphere of freshness, of independent investigation, of love for the truth, of opposition to error, which belongs only to the incipient stage of a great religious movement. It forms so important a part of the early history of the movement, that it should have a place in the libraries of all who would be familiar with the successive stages of our religious work from its inception to the present time. The volume comprises 670 pages, double-columns, with free and ample discussion by the editor himself and his coadjutors upon the great questions of that time.

[Note.—See also The Reformation of the Nineteenth Century, by J. H. Garrison; Historical Documents Advocating Christian Union, by Charles A. Young; Rise of the Current Reformation, by Hiram Van Kirk; Origin of the Disciples of Christ, by G. W. Longan; Alexander Campbell's Theology, by W. E. Garrison, and Life of Alexander Campbell, by T. W. Grafton.]

Christian Baptism. The full title is "Christian Baptism; with its Antecedents and Consequents." Cloth. 444 pages. Price $1.00

Probably this work has never been surpassed, if equalled, as a complete, plain, convincing exposition and discussion of the ordinance of baptism. The several sections of the book are styled: The Bible; Faith and Repentance; The Covenants; The Action of Baptism; The Subjects of Baptism; The Design of Baptism; The Consequents of Baptism, together with a thorough discussion of infant baptism.

Queen Esther. Illustrated with numerous engravings. Cloth, 132 pages..$ .75

The consecrated, heroic and patriotic Queen of King Xerxes is here portrayed by an ardent admirer. Her graphic life is vividly told, and its rich lessons are pressed home to the heart. Speculation and theology give place to the biographical and practical, so that the story seems as real and far more fascinating than that of Joan of Arc. The book is a timely contribution to our literature at a time when special interest is being taken in the establishing of libraries in our churches and Bible schools.

Elijah. Cloth, 201 pages.....$ .75

The life of a great prophet and the lessons from his wonderful life, told in an attractive style by a close student of the Word of God. In addition to the importance of the subject treated, the book ranks high as a literary production. We lose much in Bible study by not connecting it with Bible characters. Such a connection familiarizes with the times and events of our hero, and thus we become familiar with great stretches of history.

Moses. Cloth, 303 pages.....$1.00

In the preparation of this book the author has drawn from the Bible, the works of Josephus and tradition. The facts of this great man's life have been put into attractive form. Most persons will say as they finish reading it, "I did not know there was so much in the wonderful life of Moses. The author gives the Antecedents, the Birth, the Finding in the Waters, the Home Training, the Faith of the Child, His Early Manhood, His Education, His Campaign into Ethiopia, His Marriage to a Princess (Num. 12:1), His Association with the Rulers, such as Aames, Amenhotep, Tolmes I and Tolmes II, who was drowned in the sea. The troubles of Moses in the Court, killing the Egyptian, and Flight, are features of interest. His Stay in Midian and Lessons from the Hills and Flocks, His Return to Egypt, and all the Struggles to free the people of Israel, the Crossing of the Red Sea, Forty Years in the Wilderness, with all the incidents, and passing Edom, Moab and Ammon, and at last Camping on the Jordan Valley, makes a story as interesting as the finest fiction. It is a valuable work.

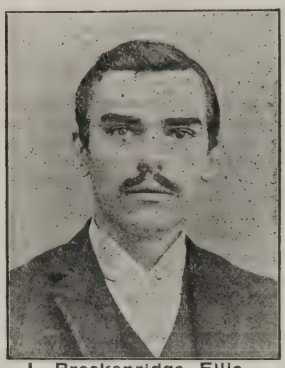
The author introduces Mr. Campbell to us in one of the most striking aspects of his character—his love for and exercise of religious liberty. One of the most praiseworthy features of the book is the freedom and fullness with which Mr. Campbell speaks for himself. This volume is written in a style and with a literary charm in keeping with the subject treated. A reading of the book will give one a true appreciation of Mr. Campbell in his relation to others.

ELLIS, J, BRECKENRIDGE.

King Saul. Illustrated with numerous fine engravings. 281 pp, 12mo, Cloth.$1.00



J. Breckenridge Ellis.

This book is as fascinating as fiction, and more interesting, because it is true. The author recites the history of Saul from the time he starts out to find his father's beasts until his death at Gilboa, and so interesting is the narrative that to begin a reading is to finish it. It is Old Testament history told in modern style. Mr. Ellis is the author of many books, and has a growing reputation as a pleasant writer.

This work also contains, by general wish of the readers, brief biographical sketches and fine engravings of the writers. No work ever issued among us has contained so complete a statement and vindication of the important principles of our movement as does this volume, which must long remain a standard work in our literature. Everest, J. B. Briney, D. R. Dungan, A. I. Hobbs, W. K. Pendleton, J. M. Trible, George Plattenburg, B. B. Tyler, A. McLean, F. D. Power, B. W. Johnson and J. H. Garrison.

Reformation of the 19th Century. It may be stated most emphatically and truthfully that every Disciple of Christ should be ashamed not to read and study this volume. He is a poor patriot who is not familiar with the history of his country, and he is a weak advocate of the cause of primitive Christianity who is not fully acquainted with the history of the beginning, the progress and the growth of the movement inaugurated by the Campbells. "The Reformation of the 19th Century" is the first and only complete, adequate and reliable history of the Disciples of Christ. It is the result of the joint labors of Charles Louis Loos, B. B. Tyler, W. T. Moore, T. W. Grafton, B. L. Smith, A. McLean, Miss Lois White and J. H. Garrison. The book is a most important addition to our literature. Bound in cloth..$2.00

Helps to Faith. The work consists of two parts. Part I consists of a series of reasons, of foundation facts which underlie faith, embracing eighteen chapters. Part II treats of Some Obstacles to Faith, embracing twelve chapters, the whole making a book of 245 pages. Cloth $1.00

This volume is an effort to carry the argument for Christianity further back than it is usually carried, so as to meet every man on his own ground where he is, and to lead him thence, step by step, to the acceptance of Jesus Christ as affording the only revelation of God and the only religion which can fully satisfy the needs of men. Beginning with the foundational fact of human nature itself, with its religious instincts and religious needs, it aims to lead the sincere and honest searcher for truth from fact to fact until the mind is prepared to receive the Christ of the Bible as the fulfillment of the prophecies of man's inner being—its intuitions, its capacities, its needs—as well as the fulfillment of the prophecies written by holy men of old.

HALEY, T. P.

Dawn of the Reformation in Missouri. Historical and Biographical sketches of Pioneer Preachers and Churches connected with the Reformation in Missouri. 589 pages, 12mo, cloth.....$ .90

This is a faithful record of the struggles and trials of the brave men and early churches into whose labors we have entered. It is filled with incidents and anecdotes, pleasing and pathetic, and some of them of thrilling interest. It is a book that should lie on the table in every home where the great principles for which these grand men contended are cherished as true and vital. The present is the heir of the past. We build today on the labors of those who have preceded us. To be unmindful of this fact, and to be ignorant of the struggles and conflicts of those to whom we are so largely indebted, is to be guilty of the sin of ingratitude, and to deprive ourselves of those lessons of wisdom which the past can always teach us.

Of books of travel in those lands which are hallowed by their connection with sacred history there are few, and perhaps none, that will be read with such absorbing interest as this. The descriptive power of the author is well known, but in this work he has taken special pains to write the story of his travels in the most interesting country in the world in a style which will attract the attention of young men and women, and the ordinary reader. Interest is added by the sixty illustrations, many of which are full-page. It is dedicated to "The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, and to all who love Him whose life and sufferings have made Palestine a Holy Land."

It contains an appendix explaining the symbols of the book, and an alphabetical index of subjects. Few men have been better equipped than was the author of this book for such a treatise.

Commentary on the Gospel of Luke. Volume II of the New Testament Commentary. 333 pages, 8vo.....$1.50

Luke's gospel is unique in many respects, and is marked by a deep humanitarian interest which distinguishes it from the other gospel narratives. At the close of the Commentary proper will be found an appendix containing a discussion of the atonement, and an excursus on the Force and Value of Luke's Testimony which in themselves possess a distinct value that should commend the work to a large number of readers.

LARD, MOSES E.

Commentary on Romans. With a revised Greek text, compiled from the best recent authors, and a new translation. Octavo. 485 pages. Cloth. Reduced from $2.00 to $1.50

On studying the Letter in question, I have been onstantly impressed with the conviction that no commentary on it with which I was acquainted was sufficiently free from the influence of particular scholastic tenets to meet the wants of those who desire to know the simple truth as it is in Christ; without having it formulated in the schools, or modified by special theories of religion. I greatly felt the need of a work the sole aim of which should be to determine precisely what Paul means regardless of what that meaning favors or disfavors. Such a work I could not command. I soon discovered that those who had written on the Letter are, for the most part, either intensely Calvinistic, on the one hand, or intensely anti-Calvinistic, on the other. Paul wrote to favor neither of the parties, hence neither of the parties, as such, can interpret him. Again, the extreme doctrine of justification by faith only has so completely engrossed the minds of commentators since the sixteenth century that it seems never to have occurred to them, even as a possible fact, that Paul may not have been writing in their exclusive interest. The sole aim, then, of the present commentary, is to ascertain the exact sense of Paul, and to express it in terse, clear English.—From the Author's Preface.

The Messianic Message. 428 pages. Cloth, net $1.50

The messages of the Hebrew prophets . . . deserve a careful consideration. In the present work their utterances are quoted, translated, and arranged in such a form as to bear as nearly as possible their original freshness and vigor; historical and literary settings, which are not less, but rather more, vital in prophecy than in other portions of the Bible, are studiously set forth; and with becoming reserve, and still with hearty appreciative faith, the Messianic import is frankly estimated."—Author's Preface.

Principles of Interpretation. 306 pages. Cloth $1.25

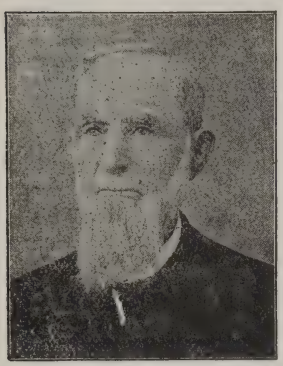
A text-book for Bible students. The laws of interpretation treated as a science, derived inductively from an exegesis of many important passages of Scripture. The author was Professor of Semitic and Sacred Literature in Drake

University, and is thoroughly master of the subjects which he treats in this volume.

[Note.—The two volumes by Professor Lockhart, described above, will be mailed to any address on receipt of $2.50.]

LONGAN, G. W.

Origin of the Disciples of Christ. 195 pages. Cloth . . ..$ .50



G. W. Longan.

This volume is, primarily, a review of a book by Professor Whitsett (Baptist), bearing the same title. Prof. Whitsett's book contained many untruthful and unfair statements concerning the Disciples, and these statements Mr. Longan answers and fully refutes. Incidentally, he devotes some time and space to an accurate account of the beginning of the "current reformation." Unfortunately, Mr. Longan, who was without question one of the brainiest men our brotherhood has known, did but little writing. The little that he has left is well worth careful reading, study, and preservation.

MARSHALL, LEVI.

Rivets for Truth, 5½x7½. Cloth. 176 pages, net. . . ..$ .60

Levi Marshall.

The Author's Index clearly sets forth the value of apt and pointed illustrations as aids to the memory in keeping the truths given by the speaker; hence the suggestive name, "Rivets For Truth." The Index also indicates the special idea which he thinks the illustration helps. The most of the illustrations being original, were used to clinch the special truths set forth in his pulpit work.

The comments are written in a plain, terse and pointed style. The comments and criticisms are generally correct, and will doubtless be an aid to those seeking information. — Gospel Advocate.

It is certainly in advance of any popular commentary we have seen upon Matthew and Mark. The style is free from any affectation of learning. Among all our writers none have been better schooled for such a task than Prof. McGarvey.—The Record Evangelist.

New Commentary on Acts. Two volumes in one. Cloth. 298 pages $1.50

This book has long been, and will long remain, one of the standard books of our literature, which every preacher, at least, should have in his library. No man among us is more widely known as a teacher of the Bible than Prof. McGarvey, and few men, anywhere, have had a part in training so many young men for the ministry of Christ.

McGarvey's Sermons. A collection of 24 sermons, handsomely bound in cloth. Price $1.00

These sermons were delivered at the Broadway Christian Church, Lexington, Ky., and, being designed for publication in permanent form, were stenographically reported, and are here reproduced. It is a series of very able, strong discourses on fundamental and vital themes, which cannot fail to interest every earnest Christian.

Lands of the Bible. 624 pages. Cloth. Illustrated $2.00

This account of the region forever made sacred to every Christian by the sojourn of the Son of God among its hills and valleys, is the result of many years of study by the author, and a personal visit made by him to Palestine. The book consists of two parts. Part one is a text-book on the flora and fauna, the topography and geography of the Holy Land; Part two comprises the letters of travel written home by the author during his journey and his stay in Palestine.

If we mistake not, the profoundest commentators on this portion of the New Testament will, after reading "Patmos" carefully through, be forced to admit that Mr. McGregor has opened up many things in the Book of Revelation never dreamt of in their religious philosophies."—A. Wilford Hall.

McLEAN, A.

Where the Book Speaks. This is the latest book by A. McLean, President of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society, and is, in many respects, his best book. Cloth, prepaid, net.....$1.00

The aim of this book is to show the connection between missions and the Bible. It is unnecessary to say that the conclusion reached is that the New Testament is a missionary volume.

A Circuit of the Globe. A volume of 384 pages, containing over 100 portraits and illustrations. Cloth $2.00

The pictures of all the foreign missionaries of the Disciples of Christ, their homes and places of worship, are among the very numerous illustrations. The author gives an account of whom and what he saw, the many countries visited, the habits, customs, and peculiarities of the nations through which he passed. His itinerary was from Cincinnati to San Francisco, to Hawaii, to Japan, to China, to India, to Australia, to Egypt, to Palestine, to Turkey, to the several leading European countries, and across the Atlantic home. The author has long been at the head of our foreign work, and this trip was a visit to all our mission stations, around the world.

Missionary Addresses. A handsome volume of missionary addresses by A. McLean, for many years Corresponding Secretary and now President of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society. There are fourteen addresses in all. 298 pages. Cloth. Price $1.00

The topics of the several addresses are as follows: The Supreme Mission of the Church, The Gospel for All Nations, The Success of Modern Missions, Encouragement in Missions, The Transforming Power of the Gospel, The Heroism of Missions, Missions in the Life of Christ, Missions in the Early Church, Missions in the Middle Ages, Modern Missions, Woman and the Gospel, Medical Missions, Missions Among the Disciples of Christ, This Grace Also. We recommend the work as the most satisfactory exposition of the Epistle to the Hebrews that has yet been published.—J. W. McGarvey.

Man Preparing for Other Worlds; or, The Spiritual Man's Conflicts and Final Victories. The book has excited wide interest. It is beautifully printed on a special paper. 512 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth. Net $2.00

W. T. Moore.

This study of man in the light of the Bible, science and experience, is the result of over half a century's study by one of our ablest thinkers. The author has read widely and has come into contact with many of the leaders of theological and scientific thought, but he does his own thinking and in this book he will be found to have hewn out a new patch for himself through many of the mazes of biblical interpretation, while the speculations on the future life are suggestive and interesting to all classes of readers, old and young.

The Fundamental Error of Christendom. Cloth. 196 pages.....$1.00

Critics agree that this is one of the best books on the subject of baptism that has ever been issued. The argument is in many respects unique, and is presented by one who has studied the question in all its phases. The appeal is made to the Bible and to common sense, but every aid of scholarship is enlisted and the author's familiarity with modern pedobaptist literature has proved of great value in his assault upon the position of the infant sprinklers.

Plea of the Disciples of Christ. 16mo. Cloth. 130 pages . .....$ .35

Few men have contributed more to our permanent literature than has Dr. Moore. This little book is his latest contribution. It is divided into three parts: 1. What is the plea which the Disciples of Christ make? 2. Is this plea still needed? 3. How to make the plea successful. The worth of this little volume and the low price at which it is offered, should give it a very large circulation and extended reading.

PROCTER, ALEXANDER.

The Witness of Jesus. Cloth. 404 pages. $1.25

Nineteen sermons and addresses by the late Alexander Procter, for many years pastor of the church at Independence, Mo., who was unsurpassed among his brethren as an eloquent, forceful and convincing speaker. He was peculiarly averse to writing. His sermons were never written, and, during his long life he contributed little or nothing to our periodicals. His sole literary legacy to the brotherhood is this book of sermons, and these were secured only through the medium of the shorthand reporter. The volume contains also the Memorial Address delivered by T. P. Haley at the session of the Missouri Christian Convention following Brother Procter's death. These sermons were edited and revised, after the author's death, by Dr. J. H. Garrison, Editor of the Christian-Evangelist.

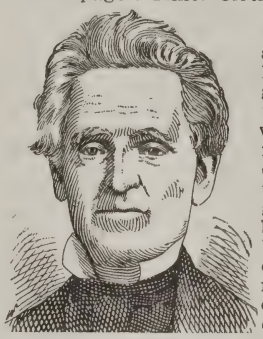
WILLIAMS, JOHN AUGUSTUS.

Rosa Emerson; or, A Young Woman's Influence. A story of the Lodge, the Church and the School. 373 pages. Cloth $1.00

There are those living who recall, dimly perhaps, the disturbing wave that swept over the country some sixty years ago, exciting people generally, and sometimes destroying the peace of communities. Among the causes of these disturbances were the persecutions of Free Masons, opposition to sectarianism in religion, and the effort to unite all Christians in one denominational church, the growing antipathy to domestic slavery. the demand for more advanced education of girls, and the fierce political strife. It is in this period that Mr. Williams sets his story, many of the incidents of which are reminiscences and many of the characters real.

The book is well written—Courier-Journal.

Life of Elder John Smith. With some Account of the Origin and Progress of the Current Reformation. Steel portrait. 578 pages. 12mo. Cloth $1.00



This work is both a biography and a history. The history of any great movement in the life of the world is, for the most part, the record of the lives of the great men engaged in it. As a biography, this book will always be counted among the most interesting of our literature. Elder John Smith, or as he was familiarly called in Kentucky, "Raccoon John Smith," was in every way one of the most uniquely interesting characters in the pioneer days of the church in Kentucky. But beyond this, the volume possesses great value as a partial history of the early days of the Current Reformation in Kentucky.

One superintendent who purchased this book writes that he has cut the cost of his drilling and blasting practically in two since he received the book and applied the methods given by Mr. Gillette. We doubt whether such a statement has ever before been truthfully made of any books except those written by Mr. Gillette. His books are practical books for practical men, and the keynote throughout is economy—how to save money on the work and how to increase the output.

"Rock Excavation" has chapters describing: Rocks and Their Properties; Methods and Cost of Hand Drilling; Machine Drills and Their Use; Steam and Compressed Air Plants; The Cost of Machine Drilling; Cost of Diamond Drilling; Explosives; Charging and Firing; Methods of Blasting; Cost of Loading and Transporting Rock; Quarrying Stone; Open Cut Excavation; Methods and Cost on the Chicago Drainage Canal; Cost of Trenches and Subways; Subaqueous Excavation; Cost of Railway Tunnels; Cost of Drifting, Shaft Sinking and Stoping.

The author of this book has been engaged for the past 15 years as draftsman, inspector and engineer, having been in the employ of G. W. G. Ferris & Co., and Hallsted & McNaugher from 1890 until 1899, and from 1899 engaged as engineer with their successors, Robert W. Hunt & Co. For two years of this time he was instructor in engineering at the Western University of Pennsylvania. This book, and others which he has in preparation, have grown out of an experience well suited to make them useful in the branches which the title suggests.

"The author of these 'Tables' has produced a work that is in many respects distinctly ahead of anything yet published in the English language. * * As a whole the book represents a very useful collection of structural tables, and a very compact one." —Engineering News.

"It contains data and drawings of real value not published in similar works. This material is arranged in handy shape for use in the drawing office. * * The book as a whole deserves examination by draftsmen who have much steel designing to do."—Engineering Record.

NEW EDITION 1910

The book has over 1,800 pages of actual costs taken from the private records of engineers and contractors, and so itemized and analyzed as to be of inestimable value to any person who has to do with making bids and estimates, or in checking estimates. This covers the whole field of contract work, giving the cost of labor and materials required for every kind of construction. No detail of contract work has been too small to be described and recorded. Wages and prices of material are given in every case, so that proper substitution can be made where conditions differ.

Unit costs in great detail, accompanied by statements as to conditions, make this work not only invaluable in estimating, but for reducing costs of construction, both for the engineer who designs and for the contractor who executes. It gives also valuable data on methods of construction, thus enabling foreman to handle work in the most economical manner possible.

Operating costs for steam and electric railways, filter plants, etc., also constitute a new feature of this book.

The book is divided into an introduction and following sections:

SECTION I.—Principles of Engineering Economics and Cost Keeping.
SECTION II.—Earth Excavation.
SECTION III.—Rock Excavation, Quarrying and Crushing.
SECTION IV.—Roads, Pavements and Walks.
SECTION V.—Stone Masonry.
SECTION VI.—Concrete and Reinforced Concrete Construction.
SECTION VII.—Water Works.
SECTION VIII.—Sewers.
SECTION IX.—Timberwork.
SECTION X.—Buildings.
SECTION XI.—Railways.
SECTION XII.—Bridges and Culverts.
SECTION XIII.—Steel and Iron Construction.
SECTION XIV.—Engineering and Surveys.
SECTION XV.—Miscellaneous Cost Data.

A Text Book on Graphic Statics

By

CHARLES W. MALCOLM, C. E.

Cloth, 6 x 9 inches
330 Pages
155 Drawings

$3.00 Net, Postpaid

This text was prepared for the author's students in elementary Graphic Statics and Stresses. It has not been the object of the writer to discover new principles, but rather to present the subject clearly and logically. Many texts on Graphic Statics are open to the criticism that they have a tendency to state principles and give constructions without proofs, and the student is therefore compelled to memorize propositions and constructions without being taught the underlying principles. It has been the aim of the writer to give the proofs, together with full explanations of the constructions. No attempt has been made to give elaborate solutions which have little or no practical application. Particular attention has been given to the order of presentation and the text has been divided into chapters, articles and numbered sections to facilitate easy reference.

The four parts of the text are:

I—GENERAL PRINCIPLES.

II—FRAMED STRUCTURES, ROOF TRUSSES.

III—BEAMS.

IV—BRIDGES.

Sixteen-page pamphlet giving table of contents and sample pages free.

The book is thoroughly up-to-date in reflecting modern practice, and is at once comprehensive and concise.—Engineering Record.

Professor Malcolm has rendered not only the student, but the practical worker as well a real service in the preparation of this work.—American Architect.

This is the first book ever published on the subject of cost keeping on contract work. The authors are pioneers in this field, and, although they have written much in the form of articles—particularly for ENGINEERING & CONTRACTING—this book is the first presentation on the subject in a complete and logical sequence.

In the opening chapter the authors endeavor to reduce the management of men to a science, by laying down ten fundamental laws of management. The second chapter contains fundamental rules for securing minimum cost. These two chapters are wholly novel and of far reaching importance to all men who are or hope to be in charge of other men.

The authors then proceed to describe and illustrate their own systems of cost keeping, which they have developed on their own contract work and which have also been installed on the work of other contractors, giving both the punch card reports—a form of report which they were the first to devise—and the more common blanks to be filled in with pencil.

The last chapter contains numerous systems of cost keeping developed by other engineers and contractors, and is full of suggestive hints, and excellent blanks for special purposes.

Complete chapter headings:

I—THE TEN LAWS OF MANAGEMENT.
II—RULES FOR SECURING MINIMUM COST.
III—PIECE RATE, BONUS AND OTHER SYSTEMS OF PAYMENT.
IV—MEASURING THE OUTPUT OF WORKMEN.
V—COST KEEPING.
VI—OFFICE APPLIANCES AND METHODS.
VII—BOOKKEEPING FOR SMALL CONTRACTORS.
VIII—MISCELLANEOUS COST REPORT BLANKS AND SYSTEMS OF COST KEEPING.

A 16-page pamphlet giving details, sample pages, etc., may be had for the asking.

"The authors are masters of their subject and they have made a most valuable book for the use of contractors and engineers connected with contract work. They show clearly that cost keeping is a very different thing from bookkeeping, and that it is the work of engineers."—Industrial Engineering.

This book is intended for the use of engineers and engineering students and contractors. The purpose is to present a condensed text of the law of contract: to give the general theory of the subject as taught in schools of law, while yet avoiding the reading of endless cases.

Following the various rules in the order given, the student will get an understanding of the subject sufficient to guide him in meeting the legal phases of whatever branch of engineering may engage him. The rules of law in each chapter are followed by cases from practice, in many instances involving situations closely allied to engineering and intended to illustrate the application of the rules previously learned. Brief extracts from opinions in cases of a strictly engineering nature are given at the end of each section for the purpose of further illustration.

The chapter headings are:

I—THE CONTRACT: Its Inherent Elements.

II—THE CONTRACT: Its Formation.

III—THE CONTRACT: Parties Affected.

IV—THE CONTRACT: Its Interpretation.

V—THE CONTRACT: Its Discharge.

Each chapter is divided into sections and to each section is added excerpts from engineering decisions, with the cases described.

"A judicious combination of the text book and case systems of teaching law. * * * The text is primarily intended for recitation courses in engineering law, but it is so well wrtten that any engineering student can read it with profit. * * *"—Sibley Journal of Engineering, April, 1911.

It very often happens that the young chemist, perhaps fresh from college, is called upon to design and equip a laboratory when his knowledge of how it is done is rather meagre. The inexperienced college graduate has only a knowledge, in most cases of the laboratory of the college where he graduated. Many things there are done by means which he cannot command in his new position. To these young chemists, the suggestions in this book on the design and equipment of small laboratories are made, but it is also hoped that even experienced chemists will find in them some points of use and help.

While the book thus represents the personal labors of a lifetime, in themselves the subject for a voluminous treatise, the author's aim has been not only to give firsthand studies and results, but also to present fully the work of others in the same field. The result is a treatise on the subject of solid bitumens that is comprehensive, scientific and thorough in a remarkable degree. This book is the most notable contribution to practical chemical technology that has been written in recent years.

The book is divided into four parts: The Natural History of Bitumens—The Chemistry of Bitumens—The Physical Properties of Solid Bitumens—Chemical Technology of Bituminous Streets.

This book is a treatise for engineers and technical students.

The books which have heretofore been published on this subject are either so mathematically abstruse or leave so much to the reader to demonstrate for himself that they are of little value to the general practitioner or technical student. These objections have been overcome in this book. Every principle is explained thoroughly—there are no missing steps in the mathematics.

"For the student who wishes to get in one book the whole theory, to its minutest details, of the reinforced concrete arch, and who is not over-awed by a succession of formula-filled pages, we can commend this book. For any beginner in the designs of such bridges, the latter part will prove most useful."—Engineering News, Dec. 17, 1908.

A Treatise on the Design and Construction of MILL BUILDINGS and Other Industrial Plants

By

HENRY GRATTAN TYRRELL, C. E.

Cloth, 6 x 9 inches
490 + XVI Pages; 652 Illustrations

PRICE
$4.00 Net, Postpaid

This book is based on the personal experience of the author, covering a period of twenty years in designing and estimating buildings, bridges and other structural work.

It was first intended to include chapters of graphic statics and calculations, but these were omitted to make room for more pertinent matter (such as the part on the Theory of Economic Design), and because the reader is likely to be already familiar with mathematical methods or has access to other books in which the subject is fully treated.

The work includes over 650 illustrations and its 500 pages are devoted entirely to the design and construction of mill buildings and similar structures and to descriptions of the devices and materials used in constructing them.

There are 47 chapters in the book and it is divided into five principal parts:

Part I—Chapters I to IX—Theory of Economic Design.

Part II—Chapter X to XIII—Loads.

Part III—Chapters XIV to XVII—Framing.

Part IV—Chaps. XVIII to XXXVIII Details of Construction.

This new edition (price $5.00) contains FOUR TIMES as much subject matter as the first edition. Its four-fold growth has been due not only to the filling of many gaps that formerly existed, but to the addition of certain kinds of cost data of particular interest to engineers.

There is no other book like it; valuable in general, indispensable in civil engineering of every description.

It contains cost data covering every phase of construction work, with hundreds of diagrams, photographs and other tabulated matter of unusual value.

A CENTURY and a QUARTER of BOSTON COMMON

LIFE of CAMPESTRIS ULM

THE OLDEST INHABITANT OF BOSTON COMMON

By JOSEPH HENRY CURTIS

With 3 maps and 16 plates, including the first published portrait of GEORGE FRANCIS PARKMAN
the benefactor of Boston's parks

A MOST interesting history of the English Elm, from earliest times; and of the oldest elm standing on Boston Common; of the sights it has witnessed in its century and a quarter of life since it was first planted by Governor Hancock.

¶ A history of the trees planted on the Common and the changes that have taken place in its surface and how much both have suffered from ignorance and neglect; the present condition of Lafayette Mall, with its irreparable loss of old trees in progress of extension along Park Street and the most interesting portion of Beacon Street Mall.

¶ The history of this old tree shows how much not only Boston but other cities and towns owe to old trees for a large part of the charm of their streets and open places, and should aid everywhere in efforts to preserve them.

Extracts from the first reviews received

"The work may be accepted as absolutely authentic, for Mr. Sylvester has left no stone unturned, no tree unclimbed, to verify every statement he makes." —Boston Transcript.

"In exhaustiveness, thoroughness of treatment, and graphic delineation, this work is easily the first in its chosen field." —Boston Herald.

"The most important historical work of the present year." —Springfield Republican.

"Mr. Sylvester traces the conflict in a chronological manner, marked by detail and exactness. His style is piquant and charming, even to his copious footnotes." —Toronto Globe.

"It is notably clear, fair, concise, scholarly and entertaining." —New York Times.

"The author has mastered the very difficult problem of Indian topography, and in a few chapters, such as those on the Abenaké and the Shirley war, has shown himself a skillful narrator. He is far from credulous in his acceptance of local tradition and has cleared up a number of difficult points where local historians have gone astray. What he has written will not need to be done again." —Nation.

DAILY NOTES OF TRIP AROUND THE WORLD.

By E. W. Howe,

Editor of the Atchison Globe.

In 2 Vols., boxed. Second edition. Price.....$2.25

E. W. Howe's Travel Notes are delightful.—W. D. Howells.

I have read them with tremendous interest. I do not know that I have ever read any book of travel so well done.—S. S. McClure, in McClure's Magazine.

A more interesting and vivid account of a flitting through outlandish lands is hard to find.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Doubtless there are other books giving more information about the people whom Mr. Howe has described in this unconventional narrative, but the homely homespun philosophy and the dry wit of the West (there is no humor produced in the East now) crop out on every page. The book is a Kansas classic.—Hamilton Holt, in N. Y. Independent.

He gets novel, strong and interesting impressions.—Harper's Weekly.

Howe is always worth reading. The reader will chuckle over every page, and lend the book to his best friends. The charm of the book is the charm of the author—he's so different.—Chicago Tribune.

COUNTRY TOWN SAYINGS.

By E. W. Howe.

Cloth; 300 pages; price, $1.00.

A collection of philosophic and interesting paragraphs from the Atchison Globe.

THE TRIP TO THE WEST INDIES.

By E. W. Howe.

Cloth, illuminated, 349 pages. Price, $1.35, net; postage 17 cents.

An account of a voyage in the ship "Moltke," January and February, 1910. 67 pictures illustrating the text. A very handsome book.

"The Trip to the West Indies" is better, if possible, than "Daily Notes of a Trip Around the World," the best book of travel I have ever read.—Washington Democrat.

It will be dangerous to dip into this book unless you want to read it. Being a trained observer, nothing escapes him.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

His short paragraphs are full of snap, and wit, and wisdom. He is a close observer, and there is a freshness in his observations of men and things that is very taking.—Boston Herald.

COUNTRY TOWN SKETCHES.

By E. W. Howe.

Cloth; 300 pages; price, $1.00.

Uniform style with "Country Town Sayings," being a collection of amusing and instructive sketches from the Atchison Globe.

BLUE WATERS AND GREEN.

By F. Dumont Smith.

Price.....$1.50

Profusely illustrated with half-tones from photographs; also, some cartoons by Albert T. Reid.

We can give no better description of this book than to reproduce the words of a literary critic.

"Dodd Gaston" in the Topeka Daily Capital: "This morning, just as I dropped my book on the floor and turned over in bed to go to sleep, I heard my neighbor, Jessop, rattling around in his house next door. I realized, when I heard him poking at the kitchen range, that it was five o'clock, and that I had lain awake all night reading Fred Dumont Smith's book, 'Blue Waters and Green.' I had taken it to bed with me when I retired at midnight, expecting to dip into it for fifty pages or so and finish it at some other time. But it proved so interesting that I noted nothing of the ceaseless crawling of the hours, and read it through without stopping. . . . I had not expected to be so deeply interested in Smith's book, for the reason that within the month I had read E. W. Howe's travel notes. So far as Hong Kong, where Smith turned back, the two traversed practically the same route. I thought I might be a little sated with impressions of the Orient, and expected Smith's book to be handicapped by that fact. But I found that the two productions have little in common, and that one is as interesting and compelling as the other. And that is all one need say in praise of either. . . . Howe went round the world. The impressions in his books are microscopic. They deal with the detail of human life as he saw it, and Howe is the closest and most accurate observer in this country. Smith visited Hawaii, the Philippines, China, and Japan. He stayed longer in a given place than Howe, and dug deeper. He did not neglect the human-interest phase of the matter, but he dipped into the governmental and social problems of the countries visited, and reached and expressed definite conclusions. Some of his opinions expressed no longer ago than last August have already been verified. His chapters on political and social matters in the Philippines and Japan are the first authoritative and unbiased word the people of this country have ever had, and they are correspondingly valuable."

CIVIL WAR ON THE BORDER.

By Wiley Britton, late of the War Department, Washington.

In Two Volumes. Vol. 1, 493 pages. Vol. 2, 572 pages. Cloth, Gilt Tops. Price, $2.00 per volume.

This is a handsome two-volume publication, with steel portraits and maps of battlefields. It is the only publication attempting to cover the operations of the Civil War in the most romantic region of our country, being the western parts of Missouri and Arkansas and the eastern parts of Kansas and the Indian Territory—a section which is now the central part of the United States.

"The books have high merits as history, and are very interesting to the general reader."—National Tribune, Washington.

"Mr. Britton's narrative is easy, circumstantial and impartial, and will take a place of honor in the library of the Civil War."—Literary World, Boston.

"While other historians have dealt incidentally with these campaigns, Mr. Britton has the field to himself in the systematic and comprehensive treatment of the border warfare, which, though out of the main channels of the Civil War, had an important bearing on the struggle and contributed no little to the final result."—The Interior, Chicago.

"The author, an attaché of the War Department, has had special opportunities for investigation, and his narrative may be accepted as the most accurate and trustworthy account of these operations that has hitherto been written."—The Examiner, New York.

"Mr. Britton has chosen a field which has not been covered before, and which has been in some sense the despair of military writers. It is not too much to say that he has brought the history into intelligible order, and that his book must be the standard one on the subject."—Journal, Kansas City, Mo.

LEGISLATIVE PRACTICE.

By A. P. Riddle.

Ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Kansas.

Revised by Ex-Lieut.-Gov. James A. Troutman.

Pamphlet, 25 cents.

Being a concise statement of all the routine for the transaction of business of the State Senate and House of Representatives.

The deliberations of legislative bodies are governed by parliamentary laws, but these are modified by practice and restricted or enlarged by rules determined by the bodies themselves. Governor Riddle presided over the Kansas Senate for four years, and his knowledge of legislative practice, precedence and procedure is quite as extensive as that of any other man in the State. There are many rules in this work not found in any of the "Manuals" extant. Deliberative bodies, college societies, debating clubs, and official councils often require additional rules for the transaction of business. This little work will be found of use to them.

Like all true helpers, Mrs. McCarter analyzes and classifies people according to their needs, and gives them bread.—Mrs. J. K. Hudson, in Topeka Herald.

IN OLD QUIVIRA.

By MARGARET HILL MCCARTER.

In paper holiday binding. 50 cents.

Quite in the form of an idyl is this legendary story of New Spain. The author represents a dreamer, lingering in the fading light of evening in the rotunda of the Kansas Capitol. The historic relics suggest many a story, and finally a Spanish sword inspires the tale which is set forth in the present unique little volume. The leading character is an elderly priest who has come from Spain to work among the Indians and first settlers of the West in America. His tragic death at the hands of those he had served is the final episode in this book. There is also a minor love romance, in which a youthful Spaniard figures. The atmosphere of romance is skillfully created, and in the matter of descriptions and incidents the volume is comparable to some of the Prescott histories.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CUDDY'S BABY.

By MARGARET HILL MCCARTER.

Price, 50 cents.

A pretty little Christmas book, being an intensely interesting story of a Kansas University student.

[From the Kansas Farmer.]

"CUDDY'S BABY."—Among all the bright new books of the holiday time there is none more appropriate, more entertaining, more elevating, more filled with the spirit of the brave West as tempered by the spirit of the Prince of Peace, than this newest production of that gifted Kansas woman, Margaret Hill McCarter. Reared on the farm, Mrs. McCarter is well grounded in the kindly, neighborly spirit of country life. She portrays its trials and its triumphs with an imagery that is touching in its trueness. As a mother she knows all the earnest yearnings of the mother-heart, all the response of babyhood, childhood and youth to the mother's devotion. As a woman who has seen much of the world, she has comprehensive views of life and of the people of the world. As a Christian, she sees the elements that ennoble men, women, and children. As a writer of many books, she places upon paper the conceptions of her mind in sentences that entrance the reader.

GENTLEMAN DON.

By Jessie A. Harshbarger.

Illustrated by Stewart. 223 pages. Printed on deckle-edge paper, handsomely bound. Price, $1.00, net; postage 11 cents.

Mrs. Harshbarger has given to animal-lovers a tale that she calls "the life-story of a good dog," which in its simple style of English, tender pathos and fascinating characters, is bound to be intensely interesting to all who may chance to glance over its pages.

Gentleman Don is a Shepherd dog, one of the trusty animals that has ever been the delight of lovers of fine animals. Don and his friends tell the exciting events which comprise their life's history, and while this fact of "dog talk" might perhaps offend the sense of the unimaginative critic, it has a true sound and one that makes the story intensely interesting throughout. The pictures are true to life. Each shows master touch in its clever execution. Gentleman Don in one of his "acts of humanity" is one of the finest in the book, and the expression on the face of the dog and the suggestion carried out in its details of atmosphere make an illustration that will always be remembered in connection with the story.—Topeka Capital.

It is brimming with human interest, and no one can follow the experiences of the dog, which are, after all, those of the average family, without being deeply moved in sympathy. The pictures are excellent, the story has a beautiful dress, and the book is one that any Kansan should be proud to possess.—Topeka State Journal.

No lover of a dog or of animal pets and no sympathetic person can fail to be well entertained and fascinated by this simple story from Mrs. Harshbarger's pen.—Baltimore American.
